A Class Fight.

The Freshman and Sophomore classes of State College had a small sized fight yesterday which for awhile was very interesting to the passengers on the train east from Lemont in the home on Saturday. afternoon. The Freshmen were holding their banquet at Sunbury last night, and the class was to take the train at Lemont. The Sophomores discovered the move and started for Lemont to prevent if possible the class boarding the train. A lively scrap was had at Lemont, and several Freshmen were hustled away. The fight friends at this place Saturday and continued on the train; hats were smashed, clothes torn and the students whacked and slugged each other in the liveliest manner. Passengers on the train were somewhat A Birthday Party at the Home of W. W frightened and there was a scrambling over the seats by ladies when the struggling mob would move up and down the aisle. The fight continued strongs. to near Centre Hall, when the Sophes gave up and the Freshies were allowed to go on through.

Treed by a Big Bear.

One of the best bear stories of the season comes from the Kettle Creek region and the heroine of the affair is Louise Berger, the 16 year old daughter of Michael Berger, a farmer. Louise went out to drive the cows into the shed. She was accompanied by a small shepherd dog. Half a mile from the farm house the dog began to act queerly. While the girl was scolding the visiting at the home of W. H. Close dog for his cowardly actions she was horrifled to see a big black bear approaching. Having heard her father tell about climbing trees to escape from bears, the girl lost no time in climbing a smooth beechwood tree, while the dog ran howling away, followed by the bear.

Louise climbed to a height of twen ty feet above the ground where she remained screaming, bruin meanwhile tearing to pieces the red hood which had fallen from the girl's head. The girl's screams brought her father to the scene with his rifle and the bear Forge, were the guests of E. B. Peters was shot and killed, two bullets from a Winchester finishing the brute.-Lock Haven Express.

Rev. Christine's Sermon. Rev. Christine's Sermon.

Dear Editor;—It was my pleasure to hear an excellent dis-ertation, on Sabbath the 14th, at 10 a.m. in the old brick Presbyterian church at Centre Hill, from the 6th Chap, of Jeremiah and 16 verse, by the above Divine. It had not been my privilege to listen to a sermon, in the church of my childhood, for over 25 years, until this beautiful winter morning. What a change had taken place during a quarter of a century? The old church still maintained its familiar appearance; but that eminent Divine, Rev. Robert Hamill, D. D., who had ministered so long, and with such ability and faithfulness, to this concongregation, was not there, but now in Philadelphia, no drubt enjoying the blessed experiences of his labors for the Lord, with this people. Of that vast congregation, one of the largest durenc-s of his labors for the Lord, with this people. Of that vast congregation, one of the largest during his ministrations in the county, but few of the faithful membership were present, though many of their bodies silently slumbering in the grave y ard near by, and their spirits gone to their eternal home in Heaven to join that blessed host of God's redeemed, no longer a child of earth, but children of the great family of God. And as my eye wandered over this inevitable change, my recoiled ion seemed to catch the once familiar faces that filled the church to overflow; my ear seemed to hear the grand old hymns once familiar faces that filled the church to overflow; my car seemed to hear the grand old hymns and the earnest prayers that made glorious this sanctuary, by that Godly fold, though but a remnant left to recall its former glories. The text of Rev. Christine, "Thus saith the Lord, stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls." was admirably calculated to encourage the minds of his hearers along the very scenes and changes, lo these many years had wrought, and to stimulate them to higher and holier aims, and as he retrospectalong the very scenes and changes, lo these many years had wrought, and to stimulate them to higher and holier aims, and as he retrospected these oid landmarks, with beautiful metaphors and similes; our fathers, mothers, and friends seemed to be present standing in the old ways, and calling upon their children and friends, and saking them if any have departed fro the old paths, and the good way, and if so, to turn back and they shall find rest for their souls! What a practical suggestion! What a comforting thought to those who want to live Christly lives, to get nearer to God, and to reach the Heavenly shore at last. In the evening I again listened to the same Divine in the tasty little brick Presbyerian church in Centre Hail. His sermon was from Romshs 8:13; his discourse upon it was practical and applicable, to many a wayfaring one. He bit halls square upon the bead, and I hope sent them where they will do the most good, even though it hit a straightiacket. I am very straight myself and never was and I believe never will be liberal enough to ejsculate amen, while another is praying, although I have of no good resson way be be hough it any one else should feel happier by so aising his voice to God, at such seasons of reraising his voice to God, at such seasons of re-freshing. I know of no good reason why he should not do so. All of us who are sincere in our prayers close them with amen, which means "be it so Lord," and if our hearts are in the prayers of our friend, as they are uttered, and they in-timate our wants and requests, we say in-audibly "be it so Lord," while our neighbbr says amen. God 's pleased with either way of mak ing known to him our desires. The fault of many, if not all of our church difficulties, arises out of our own misconceptions of our relation to the church, its members, and our Master. I know of three men who had resolved that they would never enter the church while the then pastor continued there, the circumstances of each case was different, and occurred at differ-church is the house of the Lord, and not the ministers, not even the peoples; and that God has promised to meet his chosen ones there, and that he has promised to specially bless them; and will you permit any one of its members, or your pastor, to shut the door of God's house against you? Surely not, for John says in his Revelation, chapter 3:8, "Behold I have at the fore thee an open door, and no man can shut it." Then assume your Christian manhood, and take your seat in the house of God, where you have a right to be, and a Christian duty that you owe your Master, though every one in the church be nypocrites, and you the only saint in it. Don't allow saten, either in the church, or in your heart, to keep you out of the highest privilege allow saten, either in the church, or in your heart, to keep you out of the highest privilege and blessing that God has given to all those who love and serve him while upon earth. Each one of them reflected over the matter and soon one of them reflected over the matter and soon returned to the Lord's house, resolving that the devil, nor his adversaries could keep them out. I remember of an eminent Judge who was severely criticised by his pastor in a sermon and it was rum red that he would never enter the church while the pastor remained in it. I asked the Judge if this were true; he said (naming the pastor) cannot drive me out of the church, and neither did he, for both the Judge and pastor still continue to attend the same church, and no doubt with God's blessing resting upon their heads. Don't tear that every Juds will not receive his just reward in due messon, although he pretend to be a disciple.—A Wells-Wisher.
