CENTRE HALL, PA., THURS. Dec. 9.

Tom Reed opened his skule in Washington on Monday.

What will this Republican congress do? Well, we predict it will do nothing.

Congress is in session now and does not know what the deuce to do to prevent the finances getting into the slump.

The clerk of the house at Washington has received notice of twenty contests of seats in the next congress. It will cause plenty of trouble.

As a revenue producer the Dingley tariff has turned out an utter failure—already 50 millions short. The resources of the treasury have become cramped up and contracted like the mouth of a green persimmon eater.

The Pittsburg Sunday Post is an interesting issue at all times and a credit to Iron City newspaperdom. The recent number came out in "flying colors" and was a delight on all news stands.

Wayne MacVeagh is regarded as a most formidable aspirant for the independent nomination for Governor. MacVeagh is a Democrat, and would probably receive the endorsement of the State Democratic and Populist Conventions. Dr. Swallow is friendly to McVeagh.

Merchants in Indiana, in the small towns, in the neighborhood of which the rural free delivery mail service is being tried, are opposed to the service. Their reasons are that, so they claim, the farmers stay at home nearly altogether, now that the letter carriers deliver their groceries, in addition to their mail, and they claim this has caused a great decrease in their trade.

This is an honest preacher, he gave up his pension: Rev. L. J. Keith, a Baptist, has written a letter to the Commissioner of Pensions, refusing a pension, and has made full restitution of all the money received by him, amounting to $495.86. Mr. Keith was 1st Lieut. Co. B. 26 Indiana Reg., and served four years and six months. He says his pension was not well based.

The great mausoleum which John W. Mackey is erecting in Greenwood is receiving the largest slab of granite ever quarried in this country. It weighs over fifty tons, and it took 36 horses to drag it. The mausoleum, which, it is said, will cost $300,000, will be as large as some churches and will be lighted and heated by electricity. And John W. will not rest any easier therein than will the body of the pauper lying in the Potter's field.

The fact that Secretary of the Commonwealth Martin's brother-in-law, Roney, deserted from the army during the war, and was dismissed on another occasion by Gov. Curtin for refusing to take the oath of allegiance to the Union does not affect his loyalty to the extent of preventing the Philadelphia machine from giving him the Republican nomination for receiver of taxes. Mr. Roney, as a patriot, sizes up pretty well to the average Republican politician, remarks the Record.

To right thinking people, remarks the Ledger, the spectacle of the American Ambassador to England standing up in a notable assembly to praise the triumphs of science as against those of war, diplomacy and trade is a very gratifying one. Why should not this newest and greatest of nations institute a new standard of glory, and estimate men by the good they have done for humanity rather than by the destruction they have wrought or the petty bargains they have made? It is time for the world to begin rewarding its benefactors, at least as much as its destroyers.

China defies Germany. A dispatch from Shanghai announces that the Emperor has declared that he would rather forfeit his crown than agree to the conditions demanded by Germany as redress for the murder of the two German missionaries, Nies and Henle, and the destruction of German mission property in the province of Shan Tung.

Admiral Diedrich, the German commander of Kiaochow Bay, the dispatch further states, has proclaimed martial law in the district around Kiaocha.

China, the dispatch concludes, desires that her dispute with Germany be submitted to arbitrators appointed by Holland and Belgium.

While listening to his father preach in one of the churches in Scranton on Sunday evening, Charles Haendings, 17 years old, was summoned to the door and arrested by the police for burglaries of six large stores within the past few months. A large quantity of the plunder has been found packed in boxes in a shed at young Haendings' home.

THE MESSAGE.

McKisley's first annual message was sent to congress on Monday. It is not a vigorous document.

First in interest in the President's message is his currency and financial talk. He renews the Cleveland advice that authority be given the treasury to issue emergency bonds; that the National bank tax be reduced; that banks with $25,000 capital be authorized; that the banks shall be allowed to issue notes to the par value of their security bonds; that they be required to redeem their notes in gold and issue no notes of less denomination than $10.

There is to be no recognition of Cuban belligerents at this time by the administration which will make the Republican friends of Cuba feel flat with disappointment.

The message advises making gold and notes interchangeable.

The annexation of Hawaii is recommended.

He urges improvement upon the civil service which may not be appetizing to the stalwart longers after pap in his party.

Upon the tariff the message is mum since the deficits produced by the Dingley tariff do not leave anything to boast of.

A Successful Gold Seeker Returning Home.

Clarence Kaup, son of J. M. Kaup, of Brush mountain, and one of the first Centre countians to go to Klondike, is on his way home with upwards of $20,000 in gold dust and nuggets, according to a letter received from him, written some time in June. Young Kaup's parents are very poor, and their little home in the mountains was on the very brink of being taken from them. Clarence, although not yet twenty-two years of age, determined to seek for fortune in the northern El Dorado, and with only one dollar in his pockets made the trip to Alaska, working for his passage. He, with five others, sought for the precious metal. It was several weeks before fortune favored them. In the meantime four of the party had deserted the claims and Kaup and his companion were almost starved, when one day they struck a rich place, and in one month succeeded in taking out from 1,500 to 2,000 ounces of dust and nuggets. Staking their claim, the two men started on their return for the United States, and Kaup expects to reach home in time for Christmas.

Christmas Reading.

At Christmas time you want to be happy and want to make your friends happy, either by presents, be they big or little, or by inviting them to a royal dinner.

To reach this you want the finest confectioneries and the choicest fruits, namely, oranges, lemons, bananas, coconuts, dates and figs, best canned goods of fruits, meats and fish, with pickled and spiced goods, all first class and wholesome;

And to have elegance combined with the excellence of your Christmas dinner, you will want your table set with fine glass and China ware, which are also appropriate for Christmas gifts that any friend will appreciate;

Fine teas, nuts, cheese, fresh oysters and crackers, etc., also are articles in place at Christmas festivities;

Even tubs, pails, wash rubbers, baskets, brooms, brushes, etc., make acceptable Christmas presents.

In all these you want no inferior articles and the best at the lowest prices, and in all these particulars you can rest assured that the old, well-known, reliable Sechler grocery, can fill the bill for you in a manner to render satisfaction and add to your enjoyment of the holiday season. Sechlers, in the Bush house block, have all the above, and hundreds of other articles, new and fresh and at prices to suit the holiday trade.

They Know It All.

There are a whole lot of fellows in and about every town who could teach school better than those who are now teachers; preach better than those who are preaching; run a store better than a store keeper; plead law better than all the attorneys in the country; run a newspaper better than the men who run them. Yes, the woods, the fields and towns are full of them, but none ever taught school, preached, practiced law, ran a store or paper, and never will. They have always spent their time in loafing around finding fault with other people, and don't know enough to do good, honest work, and most of them never will.

Choose the Lesser Evil.

A young woman in Indianapolis has discarded her affianced husband because he did not appear at the marriage ceremony in consequence of his protracted spree. That woman does not believe in the theory of marrying a man in order to reform him.

AARONSBURG.

Incidents of Note that Have Occurred of Recent Date.

D. H. Rote killed a pair of boss porkers on the first inst. The pair weighing 905 pounds.

James Rupp's smoke house burned down last week, and nearly all the sausage he had made the day before was burned.

Mrs. Clymer Stover was called to Pittsburg last week, to the funeral of her brother, who with two others was killed in the explosion of a boiler.

George Keister bought the old Andrew Stover homestead on the mountain near Fowlers, from Levi Stover, and will plant a large peach orchard in the spring.

Dr. Musser, assisted by Dr. Bright, of Rebersburg, and Dr. Schroenk, of Philadelphia, operated on one of Geo. Bright's eyes very successfully. Mr. Bright has been almost totally blind for several years. He is about 86 years old.

BRUSH VALLEY.

Personal Mention and Incidents as Seen by Our Scribe.

Our Brush valley people are getting ready for Christmas.

Der Raverstette lawyer is noeh Philadelphia gange um Montag, noeh importanta business gucke.

Fred Fehl, who was working near Lock Haven, came home last week to remain over Christmas.

George Wait, who had been living near Lock Haven during the last year, moved last week to Kremerville.

John Wolf, of near Rebersburg, who has been very ill with a paralytic stroke is improving slowly.

Lloyd Walker, one of Brush valley's newly married men, commenced housekeeping at Kremerville last Thursday.

William Haugh, the Colbey Narrows cattle watcher, is in our valley this week, looking up some of his old accounts.

Charles Smull, by present appearance, will have a nice home when finished, at the west end of Kremerville.

George Krumrine is again able to make distant visits; last Saturday he left for Williamsport, where he will spend a few weeks.

W. W. Sholl, after resting a few weeks in his Rebersburg home, left on Tuesday for Dickinson Seminary, to continue his studies.

SPRING MILLS.

Our Scribe Gives the Important News of His Busy Day.

Our stores and shops are being dressed in their usual holiday garb.

There is a very excellent opportunity here for a good saddler to do a lively business, and a good workman would be well patronized by the community and have plenty of work.

Wm. Ream, our former saddler, has retired from the business, and is now engaged with the Spring Mills Creamery Co.

The Farmers Institute will hold a session of two days in our village, commencing on the 13th inst. Able speakers from a distance are announced to address the institute and give their views on farming, stock raising, etc., while our home talent will add additional interest to the occasion, with addresses on hygiene, home, the garden, recitations and singing. No doubt the sessions will be largely attended.

I am reliably informed, that early in the spring we will have quite a large bicycle establishment in our village, and in all probability it will be located on what we call the "hill"—the southeast elevation of the town. The gentleman thoroughly understands the business, has ample capital, and intends forcing business to lively proportions. He will keep in stock a complete line of high and medium grade bicycles, with all the necessary fixtures belonging to the same; will also have a special department furnished with all the machinery required for repairing and turning out first-class work. The proprietor will be prepared to do business on an unusual liberal scale.

We have quite a number of very active, enterprising men in this neighborhood, whose business transactions combined are of very considerable magnitude, and in consequence at times, our town presents a very lively appearance. But unquestionably the most energetic and thorough business man we have in this section of Penns valley, is merchant C. P. Long, of our village. Within the past few years his business operations have assumed vast proportions, requiring almost an Argus to supervise them. His large establishment here, with its extensive business relations throughout these valleys, requires abilities of a high order to avoid ruts and pitfalls, notwithstanding the several departments are in able and competent hands; in fact all his operations are reduced to a system, I may say thoroughly systemized, yet Mr. Long never fails to give all his operations, both large and small, a daily general supervision. He is perfectly satisfied that his business is carefully conducted, but still he makes assurance doubly sure that it is so. His large building operations also require time and attention, workmen to direct, possibly some plans to change and alter, material to inspect, in fact, he is called here, there and everywhere. Mr. Long is also extensively engaged in the lumber business, has a saw mill in Georges valley on a large timber tract he recently purchased, running to its utmost capacity, here he is frequently called twice a day, has large contracts to fill, rather beyond the capacity of the mill, and of course it requires skill and business tact of a high order to prevent contracts from being delayed beyond specified time. A day or two since, just as he was about driving off, I remarked, Mr. Long, you are almost obliged to be ubiquitous, and I can hardly imagine where or when you rest or take your meals; oh, he replied jocularly, "of the camels dish, I eat the air." Mr. Long seems contented only when engaged in some enterprise. The fact is, he makes business, and has always from a dozen to twenty men employed in his numerous operations; of course men with his dash and vim are a benefit to any community, and Spring Mills is fortunate indeed, in being able to claim Mr. Long as one of her foremost citizens.

I had the rheumatism so badly that I could not get my hand to my head. I tried the doctor's medicine without the least benefit. At last I thought of Chamberlain's Pain Balm; the first bottle relieved all of the pain, and one half of the second bottle effected a complete cure.—W. J. HOLLAND, Holland, Va. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is equally good for sprains, swellings, and lameness, as well as burns, cuts, and bruises, for sale by J. H. Ross, Linden Hall, S. M. Swartz, Tusseyville, F. A. Carson, Potters Mills, and H. F. Rossman, Spring Mills.
