Over $140,000 have been drawn from the State Treasury to pay the expenses incident to the calling out of the Third Brigade to suppress the disturbance in Luzerne county, and when all bills shall have been presented for payment on account of the outbreak, the cost of it will not vary much from $150,000.

To this may be safely added $30,000 costs upon Luzerne county for the trial of the Sheriff and his deputies, during the past four weeks.

The figures of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's business for the last year are stariling in their magnitude and by comparison. The revenues were $128,278,000 and the operating expenses $87,641,000, leaving as net earnings $40,637,000. In 1860, the year before the war, the total receipts of the United States Government were only $56,000,000, or much less than one-half the receipts of the Pennsylvania railroad last year. We presume there is no railroad corporation in the world whose annual receipts and outgo come SPRING MILLS,

The Klondike Rush.

A great rush is on in the direction of the Klondike. It is calculated the present season 100,000 people will invade the Alaskan gold fields in 1898. Each man it is estimated will spend on the average $600 for transportation and supplies, making a grand total of $60,000,000 spent in getting in a position to dig gold. Of this sum it is es timated that the railways will receive $5,000,000, the traders and hotelkeepers, where outfits are procured, $30,-000,000, the ship companies for transportation $10,000,000, and for transportation of freight over the passes in Alaska $15,000,000.

The estimate of the gold that will be taken from the Yukon and Alaskan fields ranges for the year all the way from 20 to 50 million dollars.

In California the gold production of 1849, the year following the discovery, was $40,000,000, and for the next ten years it ranged from $40,000,000 to $65,-000,000.

THE OSBORNE COLUMBIA SPRING-TOOTH HARROW

The champion of all spring-tooth harrows; a masterpiece of skillful construction, built for any and all conditions of soil. The teeth can be adjusted to any depth, while in motion, by the levers on the rear bars, to give any amount of cultivation desired, or they can be lifted high above the ground, for the transportation of the harrows.

The one-piece steel angle bar frames are shaped to withstand all strain without warping; the front part of each is bent upward, sled-runner shape, to allow the harrow to slide over ordinary obstacles and trash, and to render its transportation to and from the field exceedingly easy. The rear side of one of the frames is cut away to prevent clogging. This is found only on the Osborne. For prices address or apply to the agent,
