A clean Democratic ticket for Centre county means victory.

Swallow's platform, "Thou Shalt Not Steal," is short, but a mighty big swath can be cut with it.

The Spaniards will find far less enjoyment in a Yankee fight than in their Sunday bull fights.

Lycoming county Republican primaries on Saturday went strongly for Wanamaker and against Quay.

The race is hot between Wanamaker and Quay, with the argument altogether in favor of the former and the votes larger for the latter.

It seems to be admitted by knowing Republicans that Wanamaker is the coming angel that will roll away the Stone that has Quay's seal on it.

It looks as if the Democracy on this side the county will have little or nothing on the next ticket. But a big majority will be looked for all the same from these townships.

Wanamaker is busy on the stump in the state throwing the hottest kind of shot into the Quay corruption camp and has McCormick and several other torpedo boats with him.

Wanamaker tells it everywhere that near one million of the school funds was on deposit in the recently closed banks, on which Quay's lieutenants pocketed the interest while the school warrants remained unpaid for a year.

Even some of the furniture of the State Capitol before it was destroyed by fire, is found up in Clearfield county. Is it not remarkable how the furniture of that building became scattered all over the State and how the flames in that building originated as well?

There is one remarkable fact about the Spaniards, even of the better class, 90 per cent. of them are utterly ignorant of the greatness and power of the United States. They have an idea we are a weak and puny nation, with no soldiers that know how to fight and without generals capable of leading an army.

Dr. Swallow has accepted the independent nomination for governor on the platform, "Thou Shalt Not Steal." The doctor surprised politicians last fall by the big vote he received for State treasurer. Unless the Democratic and Republican parties measure up to the demands of the people as to a gubernatorial candidate there is likely to be further great surprises in store by the size of the Swallow vote next fall.

The Economic Zoology department at Harrisburg, is one of the useless, newly created offices, that should be dumped into the slop bucket. It is the bird book shop, and every dollar drawn by any one connected with it is a steal. The State College zoologist is a state official, that answers all purposes. The attorney general says he tried to find out what the office force had to do, and he found it was only to draw salary. The zoologist gets $2500, clerk $1500, and other expenses along with the bird book, take about $100,000 of our taxes annually. Shame!

When the Republican party in Pennsylvania, through any mischance in machine calculation, nominates and elects a good man to a seat in the Legislature it never sends him back after he has once discovered himself and made himself obnoxious. Conscience as an element governing the action of a representative finds no toleration. The "roosters" go back to Harrisburg year after year. The reformers are carefully weeded out.

Among the revenue propositions brought to the attention of Treasury officials in their recent search for fresh objects of possible taxation was the levying of an internal tax of two cents per gallon on all petroleum produced and consumed in this country. As about 1,600,000,000 gallons of petroleum are required annually for home consumption, a revenue of $32,000,000 a year might be derived from this source without muck leakage or additional expense to the Government. A tax on light, however, would be an extreme war measure.

Eighty years ago President Monroe said of Spain's misgovernment of her American possessions: "Spain's territory ought not to be made instrumental, through her inability to defend it, to purposes so injurious to the United States. To a country over which she fails to maintain her authority, and which she permits to be converted to the annoyance of her neighbors, her jurisdiction for the time necessarily ceases to exist."

From that day to this Spain's inability to defend and govern her American possessions has become more and more "instrumental" "to purposes injurious to the United States."

From the early fifties until now there has been an almost constant revolution in Cuba.

Under the terms of the Anti-Trust law just enacted by the Legislature of Ohio any association organized to prevent competition, establish or control prices or restrict production is defined as a Trust and forbidden by law. Any principal or agent of such an association is subject to fine or imprisonment, or both; contracts in violation of the law are void, and corporations offending its provisions are to forfeit their charters. The statute covers practically the same legal ground traversed by the framers of the Anti-Trust laws of Illinois and other States of the Middle West. The public usefulness of a law of this sort depends, of course, upon the manner and methods of its interpretation and enforcement; and this, again, is largely contingent upon the condition and tendency of public sentiment in the community. The Ohio law, like all similar statutes elsewhere, will operate to discourage Trusts in exact proportion to the degree of actual opposition among the people to these modern devices of monopoly.

As even at the best only a handful of Spain's fleet, supposing it were ready to sail now, could get to Cuban waters in two week's time, the interesting question arises what would it do were hostilities to break out in the meanwhile? With the formidable fleets of the United States having nothing more to do than to meet the Vizcaya and Oquendo and a few old gunboats, Havana and Porto Rico would either be ours or in a state of blockade long before any of the Cadiz squadron could get across the Atlantic. And then, in need of coal and other equipments, what would they do? The problem is not one that can bring joy to the heart of the Spanish Minister of Marine. His fleet would, indeed, be between the devil and the deep sea. This dilemma probably is the reason for the desperate bluffing now going on at Cadiz, which is akin to a vigorous whistling to keep up one's courage while passing a graveyard.

Important to Pensioners.

Pensioners will shortly receive blanks from the department at Washington calling for information regarding their marriage relations. The data is to be filed at Washington and will be used when widows' and orphans' pensions are applied for after the soldiers' death. The system was originally inaugurated several years ago, but complete returns were either not received at the department or were not properly filed. The object was simply to get the soldiers own statement regarding his social relations.
