CENTRE HALL, PA., THURS. JUNE 30

Newt Spangler, for district attorney, will run the highest vote.

Things at Altoona this week didn't go to the liking of the Quay-Stone machine.

Gen. Coffroth and Col. Guffey withdrew from the gubernatorial race in favor of Jenks.

Several years ago Quay made a noted utterance in nominating Delamater, "He wanted to know how he'd feel to own a governor." Stone may say, I want to know how I'll feel to be owned by Quay.

The state Democracy held their convention at Altoona on Wednesday, with a large attendance on Harmony bent. Centre county was well represented, and helped in swelling the tide for Jenks. The work of the convention will not only meet the wishes of all Democrats, but will commend itself to honest men everywhere who are opposed to boss rule.

Uncle Sam might sell the Philippines, according to a Washington correspondent of the London "Daily Mail" on the authority of a prominent member of the cabinet who says:

"The Government has not yet formulated a definite policy as to the Philippines and Porto Rico, but, while indisposed to retain the Philippines, it will not allow them again to be subject to Spanish rule. If the independence of the Philippines proves a failure, the islands might be sold, preferably to Great Britain. Porto Rico might be permanently retained owing to its proximity to the United States and its strategic value."

It seems to be quite well understood that all the Powers of Europe will expect to be consulted as to the ultimate disposition of the Philippines, and they are keeping plenty of war ships in the vicinity of the islands, after their favorite plan of making their influence felt, remarks the Philad. Ledger. It will surprise them, perhaps, to find their ships and their influence alike ignored; but that is what will most probably happen. Our government has not yet taken up the question for final consideration, though the course of events points to a native independent State under United States supervision; but whatever decision may be arrived at finally, the Powers are not likely to be asked to help carry it out. Neither are they likely to render their assistance without being asked, as they are fond of doing for their weaker neighbors.

The war is to be carried into Africa, metaphorically speaking, if Spain is foolhardy enough to send the Cadiz fleet through the Suez canal to attack Dewey in the Philippines.

The state department has just received advices confirming the report that the Spanish Cadiz squadron is in the Mediterranean moving eastward. The dispatch came from an agent of the department in Algiers, and was as follows: "Captain Moon, of the English steamer Hampton, informs me that he passed on the 22d at 3 p. m., off Pantellaria, the Spanish squadron, bound east, 15 ships, including transports laden with troops and three torpedo boats."

It is announced on good authority that before the last Spanish vessel has passed through the Suez canal an American squadron will be steaming at full speed across the Atlantic, direct for the coast of Spain, to bring the war home to the Spanish people.

It has been concluded by the administration that nothing save the most severe measures will suffice to bring the Spanish people to a realizing sense of the hopelessness of the continuance of the present war, and even kindness, it is held, will dictate such a blow. After the fall of Santiago and the capture or destruction of Cervera's squadron, Sampson will have an abundance of vessels to spare for the task.

IF CAMARA GOES TO MANILA.

In view of Spain's habit of doing things too late, says the Sun, Minister Sagasta's announcement in the Cortes that Camara's squadron is bound for the Philippines is not a total surprise. The move, in fact, would have been not only sound but reasonable some months ago. Considering that Spain could by no possibility retain Cuba against us, or even make her fleet in the Gulf equal to ours, it remained for her at least to retain the Philippines, if possible, by making Montojo's squadron stronger than Dewey's. The despatch of a couple of armored cruisers to Manila last March would have shown proper foresight. As it is now, on arriving at Manila, Camara would not only find the land defences of Corregidor Island and Cavite manned by our artillerymen and turned against him, aided by our mines planted in the channel, but he would find our fleet reinforced by the Charleston and the armored Monterey. The Monterey carries guns heavier than any of Camara's and Dewey, with the advantage of position, will have no fear whatever of a battle with him. In fact, as Manila will soon be ours, Camara's squadron will be useless, since by his own strategy he will have shut himself as much out of the game as did Cervera.

That is not all that may be looked for if Camara keeps on his present course through the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal. He will leave open to us the Canaries and the shores of Spain itself. Beyond doubt we shall despatch to Spain a squadron of some of our fastest and most effeptive cruisers.

That such a squadron would throw Spain into consternation, and make her plight worse than ever, there can be no doubt. She would see one of her squadrons at the bottom of Manila harbor; a second bottled up at Santiago, and probably by that time captured and transferred to the American navy; a third on the other side of the globe, more anxious about coaling than fighting, and either doing nothing of value or adding to our spoils while at home she would find her commerce and ports ravaged by our ships. Spain has been too late in all her moves. She has had nothing to match against American celerity, and Camara will furnish another illustration of that fact, if he goes to Manila.

Warning to Soldiers. Forest Commissioner Rothrock has prepared a pamphlet entitled, "Beware of the Mammoth Tree," which will be distributed among the Pennsylvania soldiers. The tree is a native of Cuba and the West India islands, and grows to a height of fifty feet. It is regarded as poisonous by the natives, who have had painful experiences with the leaves and roots. The fruit is yellowish-green in color, and although pleasing to the eye, and very fragrant, it makes the mouth very sore when bitten into. It is said that persons have been poisoned by standing under these trees during a shower.
