Sixteen pages of colored plates costing $500 to $800 a page are used, while the cost of illustrating the brown stone article will reach $3,500. There are also plates showing a cat, bird, skunk, owl, cow and flicker, the average cost of which is $700. The bill for this work was approved by Colonel Robinson, of Butler, late superintendent of public printing and binding after he was asked to resign and just before his departure from Harrisburg. The college authorities claim the plates were furnished Dr. Warren without their knowledge or consent. The doctor was forced to resign last spring after the governor learned of his attempt to foist upon the The fellow that wont vote for Jenks State a costly "bird book" for which
