CENTRE HALL, PA., THURS. AUG. 11

If there is one man above all others whom Quay does not want to be governor, that man is George A. Jenks.

The Dingley tariff did not put life into anything at Bellefonte—not even the specially protected iron works.

We have a Democratic county ticket that is faultless. Every honest citizen should give it his support. So excellent a ticket means victory and will land old Centre in the Democratic column.

The London "Statist" predicts a great wave of American prosperity after the war and active European business in American securities. "Cuba," it says, "will give employment to a vast amount of capital, and the stimulus to industry there will react upon the United States. The investments in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines will particularly benefit the railways."

General Aguinaldo, chief of the Philippine insurgents, has shown a friendly disposition. He asked permission of General Merritt to march his insurgent troops through the streets of Manila when the city falls. General Merritt may consent.

Aguinaldo is becoming more friendly to the Americans. He suggests the formation of Philippine regiments commanded by American officers. This being well received offers a possible solution to the present difficulties.

THE SACRIFICE OF A BRAVE ARMY.

Hope deferred has sickened the hearts of the brave soldiers before Santiago, left to pine and die in a pestilential atmosphere while the War Department goes on repeating its promises that they will be relieved as soon as transports can be obtained. It was perfectly understood by every responsible person that an American army, however hardened to the ordinary perils of war, could not live in the climate of Santiago at this season; that fever was more to be dreaded than Spanish bullets, and that if a military campaign against that place was necessary, it must be made as short as possible and the troops immediately relieved by others already acclimatized.

The army wonderfully fulfilled the task entrusted to it. History does not record a more heroic campaign, a victory more swift and complete. We are only now beginning to get the official reports of the action and they fill us with fresh admiration for the tremendous courage and every other soldierly quality of our little army, both officers and men. Their work was accomplished a month ago and then the people at Washington, who had sent them there with most inadequate provision for even their obvious necessities, seem to have forgotten them. Some feeble and mismanaged efforts have been made to bring away the wounded and some few of the sick, but what energy is possessed by the War Department has been turned in other directions and the army at Santiago has been left to perish.—Phil. Times, 6.

EDITORIAL JOTS.

Dr. Swallow favors fusion, and asserts all of the opponents of Quay seem about ready to unite, the sentiment throughout the state being strong in that direction.

Ex-county commissioner Streibigh, of Lycoming, was bunched out of $2500 by swindlers using the want-to-buy-a-farm game. The worry over his loss caused his death.

The long contest over the post office at Tyrone, was settled on Monday by the appointment of John G. McCann, congressman Hicks' man.

After this war is over there will follow a long lip and paper war as to who was the terrible bungler that sent our brave soldiers into fever and hunger and minus comforts, and why some one connected with the administration located Camp Alger where only a fool or a knave would locate it. A little skirmishing is already being done in that direction.

England and Russia are having a dark war cloud loom up between them and John Bull is preparing himself for a possible hugging match with the Russian Bear. The trouble is all about China without China having any say. Russia is endeavoring to get possession of some portions of China, which, if accomplished, would be greatly detrimental to British interests. England threatens not stand this and will go to war to prevent Russia from carrying out her designs.

The last excursion to Southern New Jersey Sea Shore points via Penn'a Railroad, Thursday August 18th, will no doubt be well patronized. Rates are extremely liberal considering the accommodations offered.

Dewey Tells Why He Did Not Attack and Capture Manila.

"I could have shelled and captured Manila on the same day that we sunk the Spanish fleet and silenced the Cavite forts," said Admiral Dewey, when asked why he was so merciful, apparently, to the city, "but we should have had no forces with which to have policed that great city. What could I have done with prisoners that might have been captured? We had not the food to feed them, nor the troops to guard them. There would have been constant danger of outbreaks in which our men might have been killed or massacred, with me helpless to punish the offenders or prevent a recurrence. "True, I might have done some bombarding from the ships, but that would have meant a serious destruction of property and loss of innocent lives, without leaving me any better off than before. "Had I been able to land several thousand armed men in Manila Sunday afternoon, May 1, or Monday, May 2, and left them there with the knowledge that they were backed up by the squadron lying off the city, I would have lost no time in so doing. I might add that my orders did not include the capture of the city nor shelling it if it failed to surrender. "Admiral Dewey is not given to long explanations of why he did this or not do that, but when he is asked a question the answer to which he knows will be of interest to the people at home and yet not in any way expose his plans to the enemy, he is willing to express in brief terms his views.

The Cost of the Maine.

Spain has already lost her navy. The Pelayo and the Carlos V. are all that remain of her fighting ships. As a naval power Spain now ranks with Chili or with Portugal. Spain has also lost all of her colonies which were of any importance. This is bad enough but "worse remains behind."

With the loss of her naval power and of her colonial empire Spain drops from the ranks of the first-class powers of the world. Unable either to help or harm, not worth regarding either as friend or foe, Spain loses her rank in diplomacy. The Ambassadors at her court will be replaced by Ministers, and in the affairs of Europe and the world she will have neither voice nor weight. Historic Spain, the Spain of great traditions and of some possibilities, came to an end in that dark night when the Maine was blown up in Havana.—World.

Rev. A. R. Garland, a minister of the Christian denomination at Purcell, in Bedford county, is one of the working kind of preachers who believes in earning his bread by the sweat of his brow. He invests his money in saw mills, threshing machines and other industries that employ labor. He owns two traction engines and will run two threshers this fall, besides attending to his regular preaching services, and will perhaps hold several protracted meetings.

Many people are under the impression that a two cent revenue stamp will carry a letter. This is a mistaken idea. A number of letters are now held at different postoffices because they are stamped with revenue stamps.
