Go to the polls and vote on Tuesday next, November 8th. It was never so important.

The tide is running high for Jenks and there will be no more shaking of plum trees by Quay.

In the next congress this great district will not be represented by a fellow who can't keep sober.

Vote the entire ticket, on Tuesday 8, from Jenks to the bottom-there never was a cleaner list of nominees.

That "grand old man," George A. Jenks, the Gladstone of Pennsylvania, is running against the Quay-stone.

Stone charged the state $10,000 for collecting $3000. No honest taxpayer can vote for Stone for governor.

Daly and Townsend are anxious to get to Harrisburg so they can get under the plum tree when Quay shakes

The expenditures of the state government have doubled since Pattison went out of office. Quayism caused it all. Vote for Jenks.

Wm. C. Arnold may not be a plum tree shaker 'cause he can't stand up long enough to shake one. He will be night by the attacks of the regular ar- ject by electing Mr. Jenks governor. Hall-ed off next Tuesday.

Mitch Gardner is the people's choice for Prothonotary. From honest boyhood he grew up to honest and industrious manhood, working his own way to be competent for so important a position as prothonotary.

This political campaign is not one in which lines have been drawn between Democrats and Republicans, but it is between the honest people, Democrats and Republicans, on one side, and Quayism, treasury looting and the plum tree shakers on the other side.

George A. Jenks is a man of whom any state could be proud. Not a speck upon his entire life. He will give the Quay-Stone plum tree shakers such a shaking up, next Tuesday, 8, as will great in numbers, for the payrolls are clean out the vermin that infests the fruit garden of the Keystone state, appropriating to its own use all the fine plums, not even leaving any for the school teachers.

Some of the Quay-Stone organs allege there is no evidence that we will have Economy and Reform under Geo. A. Jenks. Mr. Jenks' entire life and rits over the remains of Quay Republicharacter furnish the evidence. And for further proof we point to the two Democratic administrations of Gov. Pattison when the state government was administered for less than half what it now costs, because

JENKS A WINNER.

THE TREND OF PUBLIC SENTI-MENT ON THE GUBERNATORIAL ISSUE MADE MANIFEST BY THE CHANGED AND STILL CHANGING ATTITUDE OF THE HERETOFORE ANTAGONISTIC OR NON-COMMIT-TAL NEWSPAPERS-IF ALL THE DEMOCRATS COME OUT AND STAND FAITHFUL JENKS AND WINNERS.

Two weeks ago Hon. George A. Jenks had but one friend among all the newspapers in Philadelphia, but one that had faith in even the remotest possibility of his election. But since then people have heard and seen Mr. Jenks, and the Philadelphia newspapers have evidently heard from the people. The Philadelphia Press, claiming to be the leading Republican journal in the state, said editorially on Sunday:

"No one questions Mr. Jenks' capacity, high character and unusual attain-ments as a lawyer. In many respects he would make an ideal governor; nothing could be better than to have the crude work of the legislature subjected to his keen scrutiny and sharp criticism, and winnowed by the vetoes of one of the greatest lawyers in Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania has rarely had a governor so well qualified for its duties as President Cleveland's solicitor general. Yet, how can Republicans vote for a man who is a free silver Democrat? True, there is no mint in Harrisburg, and Mr. Jenks' views on silver bear no relation to the duties he would be called on to perform as governor. His Democracy, too, is rather of the old fashioned type of the Jere Black, George Sharswood, Charles R. Buckalew variety. Nevertheless, Republicans will pause long and debate much before they bring themselves to vote for a free silver Democrat, however great his attainments, unimpeachable his character and profound his learning." At the same time The Press, in answer to the inquiry of a Republican, who is against Stone, whether he should vote for Swallow or Jenks, said, first conceding Dr. Swallow's honesty and good intentions: "There are many, however, who while wishing him well, are not satisfled that he has the sobriety of judgment and sound horse sense necessary to make a safe and successful chief plex institution as the commonwealth thing, then there is no meaning in "the king's English."

has been all along insisting that Jenks had no chance of election whatever, and that Swallow was the man to equally plain. support, in the course of a lengthy article on the situation, said:

the Democratic candidate, is certainly stronger today than he has been since low's loose aggregation of enthusiastic but undisciplined free thinkers in politics, has suffered during the last fortmies of the old parties, but he has made a most gallant fight, and to whatever extent he has lost in the varying political tides is due wholly to any degree due to bimself.

"The vote of Colonel Stone is not sible that it may be from 80,000 to 50,000 less. If he shall receive 400,000 votes J. K. P. Hall can't attend to his own his election would be assured, but if he shall be reduced to 350,000, as is quite possible, his defeat would seem inevitable; and in the present political tides, would be the winner. There is one possible chance for Dr. Swallow, and that is a groundswell from the silent voters of the state. His forces are without effective organization, and his cause would be better today if he had been without any organization at all, but it is remotely possible that his entire freedom from machine complications may give him the disaffected vote to the polls on 8 of November, and give of the state that certainly embraces them a dose of Rough on Rats. but all the surface indications now point to a contest on the homestretch between Stone and Jenks, with the success of Jenks quite possible."

> The Ledger and others equally unfriendly, a very short time ago, have, in a similar way, changed their minds and are giving now, some of them grudgingly, it is true, but all so that the wayfaring man can understand. their belief that Mr. Jenks is the com> ing man. Now, collate with this the coming to Mr. Jenks' support of the Pittsburg Leader, the leading Republican evening paper of that city. The Dispatch, of Pittsburg, the best known independent Republican paper of the state, was already with him. On Oct. 29 the Leader said: "The parade of city and county em-ployes last night in honor of the Republican state ticket was necessarily extensive, but it was curiously funereal in character. As the long lines of officeholders trooped down Fifth avenue the lack of enthusiasm not only among the onlooking crowd, but among the marchers themselves, was painfully apparent. No cheers, no campaign battle cries, no hearty greetings and sympathetic plaudits. Had the cortege been en route to a cemetery to attend the performance of the last sad canism in Pennsylvania its aspect could not have been more woebegone nor its reception at the hands of the beholders more frigidly doleful. If such mani-festations are as good a criterion as they are commonly deemed to be there is no escaping the conclusion that the heart and soul of Pittsburg are very far from being in the Quay Republican campaign. A few 'frosts' like that of last night ought to suffice to nip any boom beyond repair."

The trend of public sentiment on the gubernatorial question could not well be plainer. The result depends wholly upon the Democratic voters. If they are all dutiful to their principles, and come out to vote, Mr. Jenks and his colleagues are sure winners.

WHOSE CANDIDATE?

Senator Quay's candidate for governor put forward a singular claim on his own behalf at Mercer when he said: "I made a canvass of the state for the nomination, the first time such a thing was ever done, and got what I wanted, the nomination."

The Philadelphia Ledger, at first inclined to support Colonel Stone, but now, in the force of new conditions, veering from Swallow to Jenks, lets in HIS COLLEAGUES ARE SURE the light on this claim of Colonel Stone that he won the nomination by his own canvass of the state. The Ledger says, on the contrary:

"He got it from Senator Quay, who at a meeting of himself and a half dozen of his retainers at an obscure seaside resort in New Jersey decided that it should be given to Mr. Stone, and to no one else. He was not nominated by the Republican party, nor by the Republican electors of the commonwealth; he was nominated by, and is today, as he has always been, the personally selected candidate of Senator Quay. His candidacy, as everyone, excepting only himself, apparently knows, represents the Quay machine Quayism, and not the popular will and choice. Mr. Stone's misinformation on the subject of being himself the first and only gubernatorial aspirant who ever canvassed the state for a nomination is not less great than his declared belief that he is the candidate of the Republican party. Mr. Delamater, General Hastings and others before them canvassed the state to realize their ambition to be nominated for governor. Mr. Stone is only one of the many who did that, and in the case of Mr. Delamater he may find a precedent for his nomination, not by canvass, but by Mr. Quay." It is part of the history of the Harrisburg convention that nominated Stone that his meager majority, of the delegates over the opposing candidates was secured by Senator Quay's intercession. It was ground out of the machine on orders, precisely as Mr. Delamater's nomination was forced eight years ago. In his own person-in his own individuality-in this campaign Mr. Stone is hardly thought of by any party as a candidate. He is accepted by friend and foe simply as Quay's man. That is what the people will vote on.—Pittsburg Post, Oct. 28.

A MONOPOLY OF LIGHT.

The introduction of electric light in cities and towns has proved a veritable bonanza to the large stockholders as well as a benefit to everybody, burglars and policemen excepted.

The one drawback in the way of future gain has been the growing fear upon the part of stockholders that, acting under the persuasion of intelligent, honest citizens, municipal authorities would see the wisdom of constructing electric light plants, and thus free their constituencies from the exactions of electric light companies.

To prevent the building of plants by municipalities a bill was passed in 1895 and again in 1897 prohibiting municipal authorities from engaging in the business of erecting electric light plants unless by purchase they would first obtain control over all the private plants in operation. The bill was twice vetoed.

WHAT IS A SOLDIER'S TICKET?

It is well to remember that William H. Sowden, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, was a corporal during the civil war, and was badly wounded at the battle of Antietam. Captain DeLacy, Democratic nominee for secretary of internal affairs, was so distinguished a soldier that he was awarded a special medal of honor for conspicuous gallantry in battle. George A. Jenks was not a soldier, but he was one of the sturdlest friends the soldiers ever had in congress. To his eloquent utterances in their behalf, publicly made on the floor of the house, they principally owe the fact that a pension is now legally regarded as the soldier's right, and not as a charity. We hear a good deal about soldiers' tickets. What is the matter with the ticket composed of the three gentlemen above named as a soldiers' ticket?

ABLE CAREER-HIS PROMI-GRESS-A COURAGEOUS ADVO-ECONOMY AND HONEST AND EFFICIENT ADMINISTRATION. THE TRUE FRIEND OF THE SOL-DIER-A BRILLIANT EXECUTIVE RECORD-THE CONVINCING TRI-BUTE OF A REPUBLICAN EDI-

The following are the principal points contained in a remarkable address, delivered at Carlisle, Pa., recently, by Edwin K. Hart, a leading independent Republican editor of Philadelphia, after a careful personal investigation into the official record of the Democratic reform candidate for governor. Mr. Hart said:

"The record of the private, professional, public and official life of George A. Jenks shows him to be in every respect the man for the present crisis in Pennsylvania as the true and reliable leader in the cause of administrative reform. After building up a most enviable practice at the bar, being recognized as the ablest lawyer in western Pennsylvania, before he had reached middle life, Mr. Jenks entered the national house of representatives, in 1874, and although he served but a sfagle term, in consequence of the preponderance of opposition party sentiment in that section of the state, he made a national reputation, which will ever be a credit to himself and all the people of Pennsylvania, irrespective of political relationships. Instantly recognizing the character and capabilities of the man, all the leaders, on both sides; at once gave him a most influentat place in their midst. As chairman of one of the most important committees, that having charge of pensions, he caercised a potent influence in behalf of invalid soldiers and their helpless dependents. He secured legislation in their behalf when others could not, and made a brilliant address, defending the rights of pensioners, resenting the speclous idea that their claims were to be regarded from a standpoint of charity. He successfully maintained that pen-

measure of sympathy with those who have betrayed their trust, and his election to the highest office within the gift of the people of this great state would be at once a sweeping condemnation of the foes of clean politics and honest government, a magnificent vindication of the principles of popular sovereignty and a bedrock of guarantee of honest, faithful and efficient administration of the executive department at Harrisburg during the next four years. "When the electoral commission was struggling to keep the country from the throes of a second civil war Mr. Jinks was specially appointed to appear before that high tribunal, and his arguments in the cases of Louisiana and Oregon furnished supplemental proof as to his intellectual resources, showing him to be easily the equal of the ablest men in the nation. These addresses were utterly devoid of narrow partisanship, but were earnest, honest, dispassionate appeals for the triumph of truth and justice, and no one can read them at this hour without realizing how intense is the condemnation of every form of political iniquity which possess the heart and mind of Mr. Jenks. He is the sworn foe of the political crook, wherever he may be found; the courageous upholder of honesty and fidelity in the performance of public trust.

"During his congressional service this conscientious public servant sought to promote in every way possible the interests of the people, believing, as hoonstantly declared, that economy, diligence and purity should characterize the administration of public affairs. He introduced and pressed a bill for the reduction of the salaries of federal officials, congressmen included, and earnestly opposed every effort to isaging the content of the salaries of federal officials, congressmen included, and earnestly opposed every effort to isaging the content of the salaries of federal officials, congressmen included, and earnestly opposed every effort to isaging the content of the salaries of federal officials, congressmen included, and earnestly opposed every effort to isaging the content of the salaries of federal officials, congressmen included, and earnestly opposed every effort to isaging the content of the salaries of federal officials, congressmen included, and earnestly opposed every effort to isaging the content of the salaries of federal officials, congressmen included, and earnestly opposed every effort to isaging the content of the salaries of the content of the salaries of the content of the c "When the electoral commission was earnestly opposed every effort to increase the salaries of members of the house and senate. His policy was copsistent and courageous throughout, and had the measures he advocated, some of the most important of which, ithat looking to the transfer of the pension bureau from the interior to the war department, he originated, been adopted, many millions of dollars would have been saved to the government And as it was then, so it undoubtedly will be, if he is honored with the species trust and confidence of his fellow of izens as their chief magistrate.

"Mr. Jenks has likewise been tried and found capable and trustworthy in executive office. He was appointed an assistant secretary of the interior in July, 1885, by President Cleveland, 4t the special request of Secretary Lamar, who had served with him in the house, and gave such striking manifestations of his superior legal attainments that a few months later he was transferred to the department of justice, as solici-tor general, next to the highest office in that department, wherein he served four full years, remaining some nine months under President Harrison, at the latter's special request. In this po-sition the capable lawyer and the honest public official were fitly united, and Mr. Jenks made a record without a flaw, and one which commended him anew to the confidence and esteem of all right minded people. He was not a favorite with those having unjust claims against the government, or with those who sought to prostitute its functions to the promotion of personal interests. He was faithful to every obligation, and retired from office followed by the sincerest well wishes of his political opponents, to whom he had set the highest example of personal and official honor.

The election of Mr. Jenks to the governorship would be one of the most notable triumphs in the cause of true patriotism in the annals of the country. Stand up for him, and see that your neighbor understands what manner of man he is, and also comes to his support with his voice and his influence and his ballot. Let there be a mighty unification of the righteous sentiment of good citizenship. The opportunity to elect such a man as Mr. Jenks as the guardian and defender of the people's rights at the state capital is too rare to be overlooked or neglected. The duty is imperative. Let partisan lines be obliterated, and let the enemies of honest government be overwhelmed. Raily for Jenks and reform, and save our noble state from another era of misgovernment and public robbery and disgrace.
