Watched with Interest.

The litigation now in progress against the policy holders in this county in the defunct Iron City Mutual Fire Insurance Company, of Pittsburg, to compel the payment of assessments made to liquidate the indebtedness of the concern, is being closely watched by policy holders in the Quaker City Mutual Fire Insurance Company, of Philadelphia, a like concern which piled up assessments and did not pay losses. Claims against many policy holders in the county have been placed with attorneys for collection. In one instance an assessment on a $400 premium note has reached the tune of about $250 for a little over a year's insurance. The policy holders have combined to fight the claims.

Saw His Shadow.

Today is Candlemas, or ground hog day. Tradition has it that the vernal awakes from his slumbers, and if having seen his shadow crawls back into his hole, sure of six weeks more sleep before the hard winter breaks. He was out this morning, and he made lively tracks back to bed again. The sun shone brightly all morning. If his say goes, you can get yourself ready to fill up that nearly empty coal bin. There's no warm weather yet a while.

A General Directory.

The Central Pennsylvania Telephone and Supply Company has issued a general directory of all its telephones in Central Pennsylvania. The directory shows names of over 6,000 subscribers, their call numbers, character of business and locations. Both the subscribers' names and towns connected are arranged alphabetically. Three hundred and sixty-five towns and hamlets appear in the directory, as well as a list of 235 pay stations, for the use of the public.

A QUIET WEDDING.

Miss Blanche Sweeney and Andrew Gregg Married on Sunday Noon.

The wedding of Andrew Gregg and Miss Blanche Sweeney took place last Sunday at noon, at the home of the brother-in-law of the bride, Mr. George Rowe, on Church street.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. H. Eisenberg, and was a quiet one. Only the immediate friends of the contracting were present to witness the ceremony, which however, lost none of its impressiveness from this fact.

After Adrew and his fair bride had received the heartiest congratulations and well-wishes for future prosperity, the wedding party was served with the dinner, which was so elegantly prepared by the bride's sister, Mrs. Rowe, and great inroads were made on the bountifully laden boards. During the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Gregg took their departure by carriage for Fairbrook, this county, where he has been in charge of the young at Meek's school house. They will remain there until he has finished his term teaching.

Andrew is the son of the late Col. Andrew Gregg, and is a fine young man. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sweeney, a short distance west of Centre Hall. She is one of the handsomest young ladies in this section. For several years she has made her home with Mrs. Lucy Henney, learning the millinery art.

Evidence That is Convincing.

The Board of Inquiry investigating the meat scandal, had more sensational matter to consider. It received the sworn statements of 63 army officers, ranging in grade from Brigadier General to Captain, and everyone of them declared the beef was bad. It had been necessary to condemn it in Cuba and Puerto Rico, at Montauk Point and other camps in the United States. Not all of the beef was bad, but a large proportion of the "refrigerated" beef and canned roast beef was, in the estimation of these officers, unfit to eat.

In some quarters the bland assurance of Secretary Alger may carry weight. But with most people the testimony of the 63 officers who, with their soldiers, tried to eat the War Department beef, will be given more credence. The beef was undoubtedly bad and of a very different grade from that offered to vendors through the ordinary channels of trade.

A Troublesome Decision.

The decision of the supreme court that constables are entitled to fifty cents for each name on a subpoena and ten cents mileage one way is likely to prove troublesome in some counties. Some constables announce their intention of suing for fees running back, in some cases ten years, and the drain on county treasuries will be enormous. As an instance, the Dauphin county commissioners will have $30,000 to pay constables for services extending back to 1893. The charge upon the counties for each term of court will be increased greatly by this decision. The constables claim further, that if fifty cents is paid for each name on a subpoena the same amount is collectable on warrants, and they will try to secure that too.

Grand Juries Must be Heeded.

Judge Craig, of Carbon county, upon receiving the Grand Jury's presentment, Saturday, instructed the district attorney in open court to notify supervisors in townships where certain roads are reported in bad and dangerous condition to make the necessary repairs before the next term of court or warrants for their arrest for neglecting public duty would be ordered issued by the court. The judge has decided to no longer let the grand jury's recommendation go by unheeded.

County Statement.

We enclose the county financial statement this week as a supplement. The exhibit of the finances shows a balance in favor of the county of some $12,000, which is gratifying.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

THE TREATY WILL LIKELY BE RATIFIED BY THE SENATE.

A Vote will be Taken on Feb. 6th, and it Will Go Through—Republicans Criticizing the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Anti-Imperialists sentiment will have full swing in the Senate this week, as nearly every Senator opposes and who has not already spoken against imperialism, has given notice of intention to speak. The treaty of Peace will be voted upon Feb. 6th, and the chances favor its ratification, because nothing would be gained by rejecting it. A motion to reconsider and it would require a majority to table it. That majority its opponents have not. So, if it were rejected Feb. 6th, all Mr. McKinley would have to do would be to call an extra session of the Senate, in March, when it would be promptly ratified.

Within the last week, Mr. McKinley has been personally harshly criticised in both House and Senate, and in each body one of his critics was a Republican. In the House, Representatives Jerry Simpson, and Johnson, of Ind., jumped on him for bowing to public opinion, right or wrong; and in the Senate, Senators Gorman and Hoar gave him fits for declining to furnish the Senate with copies of the instructions given to the Peace Commissioners.

Senator Gorman has never posed as an alarmist, but he never fears to speak the truth because it may be alarming. Just before the Senate passed the regular pension appropriation bill, which carries $145,000,000, Mr. Gorman made a speech, calling attention to the fact that although it was estimated that the war with Spain would add 50,000 names to the pension roll, unless our troops were recalled from the tropics before the sickly season, no provision, whatever, had been made in the bill for the increase. Mr. Gorman concluded with this significant prediction: "Within three years from this date, the pension roll will amount to $165,000,000. If you add to that the cost of maintaining your army (one thousand dollars a man,) the American Republic will in the year 1900, expend more for its army and pensioners than any other nation on the face of the earth. That is a fact, which the American people will have to face, and they ought to know now, in advance, what is coming to them, if the schemes and projects which are being forced upon us are carried out."

The attempt of the Republicans to get Democratic support for the Hull bill, which will be voted upon tomorrow, by amending it so as to make any increase of the regular army above 50,000, discretionary with the President, was not a success. It made no real change. The Democrats proved by their votes for the first war appropriation, that they were not afraid to trust the President, but that did not change the principle of the party against the concentration of authority in the hands of one man. Such concentration does no harm as long as the right man exercises the authority, but who can say when the wrong man will come along? The change was not made for effect in the House, where partisanship will put the bill through, but in the Senate, where its fate will be very much in doubt, unless the support of Senators, who are now inclined to oppose it can be secured. The subterfuge was so palpable that Representative Loud, of Cal., a Republican, made a hot speech against it, plainly telling his party associates that they could not hope to catch suckers with such a bare hook.

Gen. Miles is still piling up evidence official and unofficial, that the beef furnished our soldiers in Cuba and Porto Rico, was unfit to eat. He has already about convinced everybody, except the members of the administration, and of the War Investigating Commission, that his charge was true, but they seem determined to stick to it that the beef was good.

Secretary Alger put another slight upon General Miles in connection with the finding of the Eagen court-martial. The army regulations provide that the finding of a court-martial shall be forwarded to the Secretary of War through the commanding general of the army, but Alger instructed the Judge Advocate to ignore Miles and hand the finding to him directly, and it was done. While nobody outside the court and officials can swear what the verdict was, everybody is certain that it was guilty, and that the sentence was dismissal from the army. In handling this verdict, Mr. McKinley would better be careful or he will sign his own political death warrant; the people have decided that Eagan should be punished, and if Mr. McKinley exercises his authority to shield him, he will find that he may have the punishment to bear himself.

Senator Butler, in presenting a resolution of the North Carolina legislature for the election of Senators, by vote of the people, called attention to this being the twenty-fourth legislature to adopt such a resolution, and said that a constitutional amendment ought to be at once adopted, citing the several existing deadlocks and scandals in legislatures as an argument in its favor.

A Load of Hay at a Meal.

The Titusville Courier says, a farmer drove into town today with a good load of hay, which he offered for sale. He visited all his customers and many others, but could get no offer. At last, in desperation, he drove up to a hotel and offered the load of hay in exchange for a dinner for himself and feed for his team. The hay was not needed, but after some urging on the part of the farmer, was taken on terms proposed. The disgraced farmer drove home with no money in his pocket—he and his team having eaten a load of hay at one meal.

An Honest Remedy for La Grippe.

George W. Waitt of South Gardiner, Me., says: "I have had the worst cough, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vender. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one 50-cent bottle and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by J. H. Ross, Linden Hall; S. M. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills; H. F. Rosman, Spring Mills.

And it's the man who does the best
That gets more kicks than all the rest.
