Subjects "The Evil of Selfishness"-Help Others to Bear Their Burdens-It is a Christian's Duty to Encourage and Aid His Comrades in Life's Battle.

TEXT: "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Ohrist."-Galatians

Every man for himself! If there be room for only one more passenger in the lifeboat get in yourself. If there be a burden to lift, you supervise while others shoulder it. You be the digit while others are the ciphers on the right hand side—nothing in themselves, but augmenting you. In oppo-sition to that theory of selfishness Paul advances in my text the gospel theory, "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ."

Everybody has burdens. Sometimes they come down upon the shoulders, some-times they come down upon the head, sometimes they come down upon the heart. Looking over any assembly, they all seem well and bri-ht and easy, but each one has a burden to lift, and some of them have more than they can lift. Paul proposes to split up these burdens into fragments. You take part of mine, and I must take part of yours, and each one will take part of the others, and so we will fulfill the law of Christ

Mrs. Appleton, of Boston, the daughter of Daniel Webster, was dying after long illness. The great lawyer after pleading an important case in the courtroom on his way home stopped at the house of his daughter and went into her sickroom. She said to him, "Father, why are you out to-day in this cold weather without an overcoat?" The great lawyer went into the next room and wa" in a flood of tears, saying, "Dying herself, yet thinking only of me." Oh, how much more beautiful is care for others than this everlasting taking care of ourselves! High up in the wall of the temple of Baalbee there are three stones, each weighing 1100 tons. They were lifted up by a style of machinery that is now among the lost arts. But in my text is the gospiel machinery, by which the vaster and the heavier tonnage of the world's burden is to be lifted from the crushed heart of the hu-man race. What you and I most need to learn is the spirit of helpfulness. Encourage the merchant. If he have a superior style of goods, tell him so. If he have with his clerks adorned the show windows and the shelves, compliment his taste. If he have a good business locality, taste. If he have a good outsiness locality, if he have had great success, if he have brilliant prospects for the future, recognize all this. Be not afraid that he will become arrogant and puffed up by your approval. Before night some shoppoing person will come in and tell him that his prices are exorbitant and that his goods are of an in-ferior quality and that his show window gave promise of far better things than he found inside. Before the night of the day in which you say encouraging words to that merchant there will be some crank, male or female, who will come into the store and depreciate everything and haut down enough goods from the sheives to fit out a family for a whole winter without buying a cent's worth. If the' merchant be a grocer, there will be some one before and taste of this and taste of that and taste of everything else, in that way steal-ing all the profits of anything that he may purchase-buying three apples while he is eating one orange!

Before the night of the day when you approve that merchant he will have a bad which he will have to erase, a bad debt made by some one who has moved away from the neighborhood without giv-ing any hint of the place of destination. Before the night of the day when you have uttered encouraging words to the merchant there will be some woman who will return to his store and say she had lost her purse; she left if there in the sfore, she brought if there, she did not take if away, she knows it is there, leaving you to make any delicate and complimentary inference that you wish to make. Before night that merchant will bear that some style of goods of which he has a large supply is going out of fashion, and there will be some one who will come into the store and pay a bill under protest, saying he has paid it before, but the receipt has been lost. Now, encourage that merchant, not fearing that he will become arrogant or puffed up, for there will be before night enough unpleasant words said to keep him from becoming apoplectic with plethora of praise. Encourage newspaper men. If you knew how many annoyances they have, if you understood that their most elaborate article is sometimes flung out because there is such great pressure on the col-umns, and that an accurate report of a speech is expected, although the utterance be so indistinct the discourse is one long stenographic guess, and that the midnight which finds you asleep demands that they be awake, and that they are sometimes ground between the wheels of our great brain manufactories; sickened at the often approach of men who want complimentary newspaper notices or who want newspaper retraction; one day sent to report a burial, the next day to report a puglistic encounter; shifted from place to place by sudden revolution which is liable to take place any day in our great journalistic establish-ments; precarious life becoming more and more precarious -- if you understood it you you would be more sympathetic. Be affable when you have not an ax to be sharp-ened on their grindstone. Discuss in your mind what the nineteenth century would mind what the interest in century would be without the newspaper and give en-couraging words to all who are engaged in this interest, from the chief of editorial department down to the boy that throws the morning or evening newspaper into your basement window. Encourage mechanics. They will plumb the pipes, or they will calcimine the celi-ings, or they will put down the carpets, or they will grain the doors, or they will fashion the wardrobe. Be not among those who never say anything to a mechanic ex-cept to find fault. If he has done a job well, tell him it is splendidly done. The book is well bound, the door is well grained, the chandeller is well swung, the work is grandly accomplished. Be not among those employers who neversay anything to their employees except to swear at them. Do not your basement window. employes except to swear at them. Do not be airaid you will make that mechanic so be alraid you will make that mechanic so puffed up and arrogant he will never again want to be seen with working apron or in shirt sleeves, for before the night comes of that day when you praise him there will be a lawsuit brought against him because he did not finish his work as soon as he promised it, forgetful of the fact that his wife has been sick and two of his chil-dren have died of scarlet fever and he has head a felon on a flager of the right hand. dran have died of scarlet fever and he has had a felon on a flager of the right hand. Denounced perbaps because the paint is very faint in color, not recognizing the fact that the mechanic himself has been that he did not find out the trouble in time, or scolded at because he seems to have lamed a horse by unskillful shoeing, when the horse has for months had spavin or the borse has for months had spavin er the borse has for months had spavin or scolded at because he seems to have lamed a horse by unskillful shoeing, when the horse has for months had spavin or the borse has for months had spavin or the summer months. Do you ever the summer months. Office seekers go through the land and they stand on politi-rial platforms, and they tell the farmers is a story about the independent life of a farmer, giving flattery where they ought to give sympathy. Independent of worked on a farm, I know all about it. I hardly saw a city until I was grown, and I tell you that there are no class of people in this country who have it harder and who more need your sympathy than larmers. Independent of what? Of the and a felon on a finger of the right hand.

enrculio that stings the peach trees, or the rust in the wheat, of the long rain with the rye down? Independent of the grass-hopper, of the locust, of the army worm, of the potato bug? Independent of the drought that burns up the harvest? Inde-bard of the core with the bollow hore. pendent of the cow with the hollow horn, or the sheep with the foot rof, or the pei horse with a nail in his hoof? Independent of the cold that freezes out the winter grain? Independent of the snow bank out of which he must shovel himself? Indepen-dent of the cold wasther when he stands dent of the cold weather when he stand dent of the cold weather when he stands thrashing his numbed fingers around his body to keep them from being frosted? In-dependent of the frozen ears and the frozen feet? Independent of what? Fancy farmers who have made their fortunes in the city and go out in the country to build houses with all the modern improvements and make farming a luxary may not need any solace but the a luxury may not need any solace, but the yeomanry who got their living out of the soil and who that way have to clothe their families and educate their children and pay their taxes and meet the interest on mortgaged farms-such men find a terrific struggle. I demand that office seekers struggle. I demand that office seekers and politicians ford up their gaseous and imbecile speeches about the independent life of a farmer and substitute some word of comfort drawn from the fact that they are free from eity conventionalities and city epidemics and city temptations.

city epidemics and city temptations. Encourage the doctors. You praise the doctor when he brings you up from an awful crisis of disease, but do you praise the doctor when, through skillful treat-ment of the incipient stages of disease, he keeps you from sinking down to the awful crisis? There is a great deal of cheap and heartless wit about doctors, but I notice that the people who get off the wit are the first to send for a doctor when there is any-thing the matter. There are those who thing the matter. There are those who undertake to say in our day that doctors are really useless. One man has written a book entitled, "Every Man His Own Docbook entitled, "Every Man His Own Doc-tor." That author ought to write one more book entitled, "Every Man His Own Un-dertaker." "Oh." says some one, "phy-sicians in constant presence of pain get hard hearted!" Do they? The most cele-brated surgeon of the last generation stood in a clinical department of one of the New York medical colleges, the students gathin the amphitheater to see a painful operation on a little child. The old surgeon said: "Gentlemen, excuse me if i retire. These surgeons can do this as well as I can, and as I get older it gives me more and more distress to see pain."

Encourage the lawyers. Iney are often cheated out of their fees, and so often have to breathe the villainous air of courtrooms, and they so often have to bear ponderous responsibility, and they have to maintain against the sharks in their profession the dignity of that calling which was honored by the fact that the only man allowed to stand on Mount Sinai beside the Lord was Moses, the lawyer, and that the Bible speaks of Christ as the advocate. Encourage lawyers in their profession of trans-cendent importance-a profession honored by having on the bench a Chief Justice Story and at the bar a Rufus Choate:

Encourage the teachers in our public schools-occupation arduous and poorly compensated. In all the cities when there comes a fit of economy on the part of offi-cials the first thing to do is always to cut down teachers' salaries. To take forty or fifty boys whose parents suppose them precoclous and keep the parents from finding out their mistake; to take an empty head and fill it; to meet the expectation of parents who think their children at fifteen years of age ought to be mathematicians and metaphysicians and rhetoricians; to work successfully that great stuffing ma-chine, the modern school system, is a very ardnous work. Encourage them by the usefulness and the everiastingness and the magnitude of their occupation, and when your children do well compliment the instructor, praise the teacher, thank the educator.

Encourage all invalids by telling them how many you have known with the same aliments who got well, and not by telling them of their sunken eye or asking them whether the color of their check is really nectic or mentioning cases in which that style of disease ended fatally or telling them how badly they look. Cheerful words are more soothing than chioral, more stimulating than cognac, more tonic than bitters. Many an invalid has re-covered through the influence of cheerful surroundings. Surroundings. Encourage all starting in life by yourself becoming reminiscent. Established mer-chants, by telling these young merchants when you got your first customer, and how you sat behind the counter eating your you sat behind the counter eating your iuncheon with one eye on the door. Es-tablished lawyers, encourage young law-yers by telling of the time when you broke down in your first speech. Established ministers of the gospel, encourage young ministers by merciful examination of theo-logical candidates, not walking around with a profundity and overwhelmingness of manner as though you were one of the of manner as though you were one of the eternal decrees. Doctor established, by telling young doctors how you yourself once mistook the measles for scarlatina. And if you have nothing to say that is en-couraging, O man, put your testh tightly together and cover them with the curtain of your lip, compress your lips and put your hand over your mouth and keep still. Encourage the troubled by thoughts of release and reassociation. Encourage the aged by thoughts of eternal juvenescence. Encourage the herdsman amid the troughs of sin to go back to the banquet at the father's homestead. Give us tones in the major key listead of the minor. Give us "Coronation" instead of "Naomi." You have seen cars so arranged that one car And every man that finds the value, the value of value of value value of value of value value of value of value value value of value value value of value value value of value val A gentleman in England died leaving his A gentleman in England died leaving his fortune by will to two sons. TREATY NOW RATIFIED. A Hard Fight Over It to the Last Moment.

THE VOTE WAS 57 TO 27.

The Senate Confirmed the Action of the Peace Commissioners-Both Sides Worked Like Beavers to Keep Their Lines Unbroken-Effect of the Attack By the Insurgents.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special.)-The Senate Monday afternoon ratified the treaty of peace with Spain by a vote of 57 to 27, sir Senators being absent and paired.

The vote was taken in executive session, and until the injunction of secrecy was removed the result was supposed to be pri-Tate, but the Vice-President had no more than announced the figures before Senators rushed out from every door leading, from the Senate chamber, declaring that the treaty had been ratified. Some made the mistake of stating that there were three votes to spare. There was, in fact, only one vote more than was necessary. No vote has been taken in the Senate since the repeal of the purchasing clause of Herman law, that has been followed with as close interest as was the vote of Monday. Only the select few knew how Senator Mc-Enery, of Louisiana, and Jones, of Nevada, would vote half an hour before their vote was cast, and not even these knew when the bell rang for executive session at a quarter past 2 o'clock. Result In Doubt To the Last.

Very few Senators left the chamber except those engaged in the cloak rooms in trying on the one side, to gain votes for the treaty. and on the other to prevent a break in the ranks. Senators Aldrich, Lodge and Eikins, who had given their especial attention to securing the necessary votes to insure ratification, were doubtful of the result when the secret session began, while Senators Gorman and Jones, the leaders of the opposition, considered their forces intact. Half an hour afterwards it was whispered about that Senator McEvery, of Louisiana, had been won over on condition that his leciaratory resolution should be adopted subsequent to the passage of the ratification resolution. When this news was confirmed It was known that ratification was assured, for Senator McLaurin, of South Carolina, had already announced his intention to vete for the treaty in view of the condition of affairs at Manila. Senator Jones, of Nevada, went over at the last moment, making the vote one more than was necessary. There was no applause when the result was apnounced, but many Senators heaved a sigh of relief and rushed from the chamber to give the news to the waiting world. In advance of the voting speeches were made by Senators Ross, Money and Fairbanks.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the Vice-President nierrupted Senator Money, who was then speaking, to announce that the hour had arrived for a vote. But one amendment was offered, that prepared by Senator Vest placing the Philippines on the same footing as Cuba in the treaty. In the temporary absence of Mr. Vest it was presented by Mr.

What Bloom Is For.

The white powdery coating seen on ome fruits and the leaves of many plants is known to botanists as bloom. It is of a waxy nature, and, according to experiments recently made at Oberlin College, its chief purpose is to prevent water from passing too readily out of the leaves. When the bloom was removed the transpiration of water was greatly increased, the loss in some cases being in a given time two and a half times as much as before the removal.

The use of soaps containing a disinfectant of some kind has become so general, says the Medical Press, that observations on the practical value of such combinations cannot fail to be of interest. Dr. Reithoffer has recently published the results of some experiments carried out by him with various kinds of soap, having for object to determine their value as microbicides.

He used the ordinary mottled soap, white almond soap perfumed with notrobenzine, and hard potash scap. He found that these soaps were very inimical to the cholera mivrobe, al per ent solution killing them in a short space of time, while a 5 per cent solution of the potash soap killed them in five minutes. We are, therefore, at liberty to infer that, as in washing the hands the strength of the scap solution is never less than 5, and may go as high as 45, per cent this method of disinfecting the hands, as well as the clothes, etc., is fully trustworthy, Most stronger solutions are required, however, to destroy the bacill of typhoid. the coll-bacillus, etc., not less than 10 per cent being sufficient. None of the soaps experimented with appear to The practical result of these investigations is that it is always preferable ing the hands in the disinfectant solution afterward. This is an important point, which merits to be generally made known.

Locomotor Ataxia ' Paralysis Can be Cured.

These extreme nervous disorders were treated with wonderful success by the discoverer of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, previous to his discovery being offered to the public generally. This remedy is the only known specific in many diseases that, until recent years, were pronounced incurable. Mere is the proof:

James Crocket, a sturdy old Scetchman living in Detroit, Mich, at 83 Montcalm St., was cured of Locomotor Ataxia by these pills. For many sears he has been a chief engineer of one of those big passenger palace steamers plying upon the great lakes. This is a position of great respon-sibility and the auxiety causes a great mervous strain. Mr. Crocket says: "For filteen years I watched the big engines and boilers without a single accident, and only noticed that I was getting nervous. Suddenly without assess he has been sick, and was prostrated. I had the best of physi-dan's prostration, and had destroyed suy whole nervous system and merving prostration, and had destroyed suy whole nervous system and the doctor said I had locomotor stazia, and would never be able to walk again.

again. "The pains and suffering I experienced during those years are almost Indescribable. The friends that came to see me bid me good/sye when they left me and I was given up. The doctors said nothing more could be done. My wife kept reading to me, articles about Dr. Williams Pink Fills for Pale People. We finally decided to try them. The first box gave me relief. I continued to use them for about two years before I could get iterative counts to walk. strength enough to walk. The vote was immediately announced and pages were sent scurrying through the corridors to announce to the few Senators who were not in their seats that the cuiminating event had arrived. The call proceeded quietly until the name of Senator McLaurin was announced. He created the first stir by a speech in explanation of his vote for the treaty. This was the initial break in the ranks of the opposition. Mr. McLaurin made a brief statement in explanation of his change of position. He said that the attack upon our troops at Manila had brought about a new condition of affairs and that he should vote for the treaty.

He had hardly concluded when Sepator McEnery approached him with a word of congratulation, saying that he had decided upon the same course. The Louisiana Senator made no speech of explanation to the Sepate.

Mr. Jones, of Nevada, did not vote in the first roll-call, but came in from the cloakroom before the vote was announced, and by unanimous consent made a brief and feeling speech. He said that he was against expansion, and if he thought the ratification of the treaty meant expansion, he would not vote for it, as he considered a policy of ex-pansion would prove the ruin of the conntry. The events in Manila during the past two or three days, in his judgment, were likely to do more to discourage expansion than anything that had happened, but had at the same time produced a crisis which made the ratification of the treaty necessary. He considered it a patriotic duty to vote for the treaty, and consequently cast his vote in the affirmative.

The vote on the ratification of the treaty was then taken, and resulted as stated above-57 to 27.
