

Pretty Underwear.

The variety of pretty silk and woolen underwear to be had at such reasonable prices, is very tempting to dainty women, yet many refrain from purchasing such account of their inability to insure this trouble may be avoided. When ready to begin fill a tub half full of warm water, in which dissolve a fourth of a bar of Ivory Soap, and wash the articles through it with the hands, rinse in warm water, and squeeze, but do not wring. Hang on the line and press while still damp.

"Evil Dispositions Are Early Shown."

Just so evil in the blood comes out in shape of scrofula, pimples, etc., in children and young people. Taken in time it can be eradicated by using Hood's Sarsaparilla. In older people, the aftermath of irregular living shows itself in bilious conditions, a heavy head, a foul mouth, a general bad feeling.

It is the blood, the impure blood, friends, which is the real cause. Purify that with Hood's Sarsaparilla and happiness will reign in your family.

Blood Poison.—I lived in a bed of fire for years owing to blood poisoning that followed small pox. It broke out all over my body, itching intensely. Tried doctors and hospitals in vain. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped. I kept at it and was entirely cured. I could go on the house-tops and about about it. Mrs. J. T. WILLIAMS, Carbonate, Pa.

Scrofula Sores.—My baby at two months had scrofula sores on cheek and arm. Local applications and physicians' medicine did little or no good. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him permanently. He is now four, with smooth fair skin. Mrs. S. S. WROTEN, Farmington, Del.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Never Disappoints

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, non-irritating and the only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Electric Mail Delivery.

In Geneva a novel system for delivering letters in high apartment houses is to be tried. On the ground floor is arranged a cabinet having as many compartments and boxes as there are floors in the house. When a letter is deposited in any box, it makes a contact which rings a bell on the corresponding floor. The bell can only be stopped by the removal of the letter. The same current that rings the bell opens a valve connected with a water tank in the top of the house. Here are located cylinders attached by cords and pulleys to the letter boxes and so arranged that when they are filled with water they will serve to haul up the letter box and its contents to the proper floor. When the box arrives, the letter is automatically dumped into a stationary receptacle and at the same time the cylinder is discharged of its water. The letter box then descends to the lower floor, the bell stops ringing and it remains in position waiting for the next visit of the postman.

Mrs. McKinley is said to receive about two hundred letters a day.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 29, 602]

"Two years ago I was a great sufferer from womb trouble and profuse flowing each month, and tumors would form in the womb. I had four tumors in two years. I went through treatment with doctors, but they did me no good, and I thought I would have to resort to morphine.

Another Tumor Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"The doctor said that all that could help me was to have an operation and have the womb removed, but I had heard of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine and decided to try it, and wrote for her advice, and after taking her Vegetable Compound the tumors were expelled and I began to get stronger right along, and am as well as ever before. Can truly say that I would never had gotten well had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound."—MRS. A. STAHL, WATSONTOWN, PA.

What Mrs. Pinkham's Letter Did.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—After following the directions given in your kind letter for the treatment of leucorrhoea, I can say that I have been entirely cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and will gladly recommend them to my friends.

"Thanking you for your kindness, I am gratefully yours, A. B. DAVIDS, BINGHAMPTON, N. Y."

Lazy Liver

"I have been troubled a great deal with a torpid liver, which produces constipation. I found CASCARETS to be all you claim for them, and secured such relief the first trial, that I purchased another supply and was completely cured. I shall only be too glad to recommend Cascarets whenever the opportunity is presented."

THE EMINENT DIVINE'S SUNDAY DISCOURSE.

Subject: "Dishonest Transactions"—One of the crying evils of modern life is the Abuse of Trust—Beware of the Web of Persecution—Advice to Business Men.

TEXT: "Whose trust shall be a spider's web."—Job viii. 14.

The two most skillful architects in all the world are the bee and the spider. The one puts up a sugar manufactory and the other builds a slaughter house for flies. On a bright summer morning you see the spider comes out and spins upon the spider's web, bedecked with dew, the gossamer structure seems bright enough for a suspension bridge for aerial beings to cross on. But alas for the poor fly which is drawn into it and is caught and dungeoned and destroyed! The fly was informed that it was a free bird and would cost nothing, but at the other end of the bridge the toll paid was its own life. The next day there comes down a strong wind, and away go the web and the marauding spider and the victimized fly. So delicate are the silken threads of the spider's web that many thousands of them are put together before they become visible to the human eye, and it takes 4,000,000 of them to make a thread as large as the human hair. Most cruel as well as most ingenious is the spider. A prisoner in the Bastille, France, had one so trained that at the sound of the violin it every day came for its meal of flies. The spider of modern times was a leading scientist of his day, had no doubt watched the voracious process of this one insect with another and saw spider and fly swept down with the same broom or scattered by the same wind. Alas that the world has so many designing spiders and victimized flies!

There has not been a time when the utter and black irresponsibility of many of our leading financial interests of others in charge has been more evident than in these last few years. The bankruptcy of banks and disappearance of administrators with the funds of large estates and the discredited accounts of United States officials have sometimes made a pestilence of crime that solemnizes every thoughtful man and woman and leads every philanthropist and Christian to ask, "What is to be done to stay the plague? There is ever and anon a monsoon of swindle abroad, a typhoon, a ströice. I sometimes ask myself if it would not be better for men, women and children to be left to themselves, and to begeth the property directly to the executors and officers of the court and appoint the widows and orphans a committee to see that the former got all that did not belong to them. The simple remedy means that there are a large number of men sailing yachts and driving fast horses and members of expensive clubs and controlling country seats who are not worth a dollar if they return to others their rights. Under some sudden reverse they fall, and with afflicted air seem to retire from the world and seem almost ready for monastic life, when in two or three years they blossom out again, and are paid their nothing but regret, and the only difference between the second chapter of prosperity and the first is that their pictures are in Chrillon's instead of Kenosha's and their horses go a mile in twenty seconds less than their predecessors, and instead of one county seat they have three. I have watched and have noticed that nine out of ten of those who fall in what is called high life have more means after than before the failure, and in many of the cases failure is only a stratagem to escape the payment of honest debts and put the creditor in the trap while they practice a large swindle. There is something woefully wrong in the fact that these things are possible.

First of all, I charge the blame on careless, indifferent bank directors and boards having in charge great financial institutions. It ought not to be possible for a president or cashier or prominent officer of a banking institution to swindle it away after without detection. I will undertake to say that if these funds are carried on for two or three years without detection either the directors are partners in the infamy and pocket part of the theft, or they are guilty of a culpable neglect of duty for which God will hold them responsible as He holds the acknowledged defrauders. What right have prominent business men to allow their names to be published as directors in a financial institution so that unscrupulous people are thereby induced to deposit their money in or buy the scrip thereof when they are published directors, are doing nothing for the safety of the institution? It is a case of deception most reprehensible. Many people with surplus money, not needed for immediate use, although it may be a little further on indispensable, are without friends competent to advise them, and they are guided solely by the character of the men whose names are associated with the institution. When the crash came and with the overthrow of the banks went the small earnings and limited fortunes of widows and orphans and the helplessly aged, and the directors and officers, and the creditors, and the creditors of the frenzied depositors and stockholders who had lost their all, and to the arraignment of an indignant public, had nothing to say except "We thought it was all right. We did not know there was anything wrong going on." It was their duty to know. They stood in a position which deluded the people with the idea that they were carefully observed. Calling themselves directors, they did not direct. They had opportunity of auditing accounts and inspecting the books. No time to do so? Then they had no business to accept the office. It seems to be the pride of some moneyed men to be directors in a great many institutions, and all they know is whether or not they get their dividends regularly, and their names are used to induce others to bring others to be made game of. What first of all is needed is that 500 bank directors and insurance company directors resign or attend to their business as directors. The business world will be full of fraud just as long as fraud is so easy. When you arrest the president and secretary of a bank for an embezzlement carried on for many years, be sure to have plenty of sheriffs out the same day to arrest all the directors. They are guilty either of neglect or complicity.

We must especially deplore the misfortunes of banks in various parts of the country in that they damage the banking institution, which is the great convenience of the centuries and indispensable to commerce and the advance of nations. With one hand it blesses the lender, and with the other it blesses the borrower. On their shoulders are the interests of private individuals and great corporations. In them are the great arteries through which run the currents of the nation's life. They have been the resources of the thousands of financiers in days of business exigency. They stand for accommodation, for facility, for individual, State and national relief. At their heads and in their management there are as much interest and moral worth as in any class of men, perhaps more. How notorious, then, the behavior of those who bring disaster upon this venerable, benign and God honored institution.

We also deplore abuse of trust funds because the abusers fly in the face of divine goodness which seems determined to bless this land. We are having a series of unprecedented national harvests. The wheat gamblers get hold of the wheat, and the corn gamblers get hold of the corn. The full tide of God's mercy toward this land is put back by those great divines of dishonest resistance. When God provides enough food and clothing to feed and apparel the whole nation like princes, the scramble of dishonest men to get more than their share, and get it at all hazards, keeps everything shaking with uncertainty and everybody asking "What next?" Every week makes new revelations. How many more bank presidents and bank cashiers have been speculating with other people's money, and how many more bank directors are in imbecile silence, letting the perfidy go on, the great and patient word only knowing that we have got near the bottom. The wind has been pried from the great bubble of American speculation. The man who thought that the judgment day was least a year off, found it in 1898 or 1897 or 1896. And this nation has been taught that men must keep their hands out of other people's pockets. Great businesses built on borrowed capital are being obliterated as they were never there. Men who have lost all they had, I believe we are on a higher career of prosperity than this land has ever seen, if, and if, and if.

If the first men, and especially the young men, will learn never to speculate upon borrowed capital—if you have a mind to take your own money and turn it into titles to fly them over every common in the United States, you do so with no wrongs, latter when you tumble your helpless children into the poorhouse for the public to take care of. But you have no right to take the money of others and turn it into titles. This is one word that I delayed more people into bankruptcy than any other word in commercial life, and that is the word borrow. That one word is responsible for all the defalcations and bankruptcies of the last twenty years. When executors conclude to speculate with the funds of an estate committed to their charge, they do not purloin, they say they borrow. When a banker makes an overdraft upon his institution, he does not commit a theft; he only borrows.

If I had only a worldly weapon to use on this subject, I would give you the fact, stated from the highest of scientific authority, that ninety per cent of those who go into wild speculation lose all, but I have a better warning than a worldly warning. From the place where men have perished—body, spirit and soul—of off. Abstract pulpits must step aside on this question. Faith and repentance are absolutely necessary, but faith and repentance are no more doctrines of the Bible than is "Honor to all their dues." "Owe no man anything." And while I mean to preach faith and repentance, more and more to preach them, I do not mean to spend any time in charging the commercial honesty of men with the sins of Bible times when there are so many evils right around us destroying men and women for time and for eternity. The greatest evangelist that the world ever saw, the man who died for his evangelism—perfectly, a man who died for the Romans, "Provide things honest in the sight of all men;" wrote to the Corinthians, "Do that which is honest. Let every one of you prove his own work. Whatever things are honest," wrote to the Hebrews, "Willing in all things to live honestly." The Bible says that faith without works is dead, which, being liberally translated, means that your business life does not correspond with your profession your religion is a humbug.

Gathered in all religious assemblages there are many who look upon trust funds as a common thing, and who have been so instructed, but I charge you, in the presence of God and the world, be as careful of the property of others as you are careful of your own. Above all things, keep your private accounts, books, blotches, blackboards, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets,—beauty for ten cents. Effective Means.

Bulgaria is going to take effective means to increase its population. For every son born beyond a minimum number, twenty francs will be paid not only to the father, but to the mother also. A soldier showing a dozen sons will receive a pension large enough to support him, and besides a decoration. The same reward will go to his wife.

A missionary in one of the islands of the Pacific preached on dishonesty, and the next morning he looked out of his window and he saw his yard full of goods of all kinds. He wondered and asked the cause of all this. "Well," said the natives, "our gods that we have been worshipping permit us to steal by according to what you said yesterday, the God of heaven and earth will not allow this. So we bring back all these goods and we ask you to help us in taking them to the place where they belong. If next Sabbath all the ministers in America should preach sermons on the abuse of trust funds and on the evils of purloining, and the sermons were all heard of God and regulations were made that all these things should be taken to the city halls, it would not be long before every city hall in America would be crowded from cellar to cupola.

Let me say in most emphatic manner to all young men, dishonesty will never pay. An abbot wanted to buy a piece of ground and the owner would not sell it, but the owner finally consented to let it to him when he sowed across a crop of 200 years! And I tell you, young man, that the dishonesties which you plant in your heart and life will seem to be very insignificant, but they will grow up until they will overshadow you with horrible darkness, overshadow you all time and all eternity. It will not be long for 200 years, but a crop for everlasting ages.

I have also a word of comfort for all who suffer from the misfortune of others, and every honest man, woman and child does suffer from what goes on in financial redemption. Society is so bound together that all the misfortunes which good people suffer in business matters come from the misdeeds of others. Bear up under distress, strong in God. He will see you through, though your misfortunes should be centipedes. Scientists tell us that a column of air forty-five miles in height rests on every man's head and shoulders. But that is nothing compared with the pressure that business life has put upon many of you. God made His mind long ago how many or how few dollars it would be best for you to have. Trust to His appointment. The door will soon be shut on you and let you up. What sheet of delight for men who for thirty years have been in business anxiously when they shall suddenly awake in a distant holiday! On the maps of the world the regions that are two places whose names are remarkable, given, I suppose, by some polar expedition—Cape Farewell and Thank God Harbor. At this last the Polar wintered in 1871 and the Fregata in 1873. Some ships have passed the cape, yet never reached the harbor, but that I know of many of you, I have concluded that, though your voyage of life may be very tough, run in to icebergs on this side and icebergs on that, you will in due time reach Cape Farewell, and there bid goodbye to all annoyances, and soon find a drop of calm, and untroubled waters of Thank God Harbor. "There the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest."

Billings Round the World.

Probably many readers will be surprised to learn that a cricket ball leaves the hand of a fast bowler at a speed equal to that of an express train. Some time ago a test was made by means of electric screens of the rate of bowling of Turner, the famous Australian bowler. It was found, as the result of a series of trials, that the ball traversed the distance between the wickets at the rate of over fifty miles an hour. As Richardson is a still swifter bowler than Turner, it is safe to estimate his highest speed at a mile a minute. If it were possible, therefore, to have a line of bowlers, placed at suitable intervals, and each one delivering his ball when his predecessor's ball reached him, the distance between London and Leeds could be covered in four hours with ease, and the circuit of the earth at the equator in less than twenty-one days.

The Value of a Trade.

I remember years ago, when I was a very young man, writes Foster Coates, meeting John Roach, the great shipbuilder, in his shipyard at Chester, Pa. I remember, too, what he said then about the value of a trade to a boy.

"Young man," he said, laying his great, broad hand on my shoulder, and looking at me earnestly with his keen, steel-blue Irish eyes, "next to a clear conscience, a trade is as good a thing as any young man can have in this country. You can carry it with you all your life long; you have to pay neither rent nor taxes upon it, and it will help you around a sharp corner when most other things will fail."

I have never forgotten that utterance from a man who started in life—after landing in New York from Ireland—as helper to a machinist, who became the leading shipbuilder of his time, and who, up to the hour he was stricken with a fatal illness, could take the place of any of his workmen, whether it was a man driving rivets or an expert putting together the most delicate parts of a steamship's machinery.

Something very like what John Roach said, I heard another great man, who is now dead, say. This was Peter Cooper, a man of whom American boys cannot know too much, and whom they certainly cannot too much admire.

"If I had my way," said the venerable philanthropist, on the occasion to which I refer, "I would give every boy a trade. Then I would have him stick to it, love it and be good to it. If he does, it will be good to him."

Hot Water in Arizona Wells.

The wells in parts of Arizona have recently become producers of hot water, and apprehension is felt by many of the residents of the region affected that they are about to become participants in a grand volcanic drama. In some of the wells the temperature of the water rose twenty degrees in a single night. In a few the phenomenon disappeared soon after its appearance. In a majority of the cases, however, the wells fairly steamed from their newly-acquired heat.

The first known of this curious state of affairs was a report that the wells at Maricopa, on the Southern Pacific Railroad, thirty miles south of Phoenix, had suddenly become hot.

It was four days thereafter that the phenomenon first was noticed a dozen miles west of the city. A test at one well showed a temperature of nearly one hundred degrees. No difference is noted in wells in the immediate vicinity of Phoenix.

The line of subterranean heat wave follows the general direction of the Sierra Estrella Mountains, a volcanic chain lying immediately south of the Gila River. Thence it appears to continue on in the direction of the Harqua Hala Mountains, near which are a number of large and modern volcanic cones and hills of drifted volcanic ash. Further to the east the lava flows are so geologically modern as to have overwhelmed in a number of places the cliff dwellings of the ancients.

A Primitive Method of Operation. The simplest public railroad now operated is thought to be one between Atami and Odawara, in Japan. It is a narrow-gauge road, and is run by man power. The cars have seats for four persons each, who sit back to back. A train consists of two or three cars, and is drawn up hill by half a dozen coolies; at the top of the incline the coolies jump on to the platform and the train runs down to the terminus by gravity, with the speed of an express train.

It is said there has never been an accident on this road.
