THE BORO ELECTION.

The boro election passed off with a great deal of quiet animation. Every vote was polled except about 15 absentees. The Democratic vote was 31 and the Republican vote 31, as the result on inspectors shows. The Democratic nominees were elected excepting one of the school directors on account of some citizens charging it was a set-up, causing a ripple on all sides and was heavily set down on in the interest of harmony in school affairs. The fight was an interesting one and all interest was centered on the schools. The Republicans succeeded in re-electing W. O. Rearick to the board by a vote of 69 to 61 over S. W. Smith, through dissatisfaction in the Democratic party.

Four Children Burned to Death.

Late last Thursday night the home of Frank Carson, a woodsman, at Huntley's lumber camp, near Medix Run, Elk county, was destroyed by fire, and four of his children, ranging in age from two to twelve years, met death in the flames. The father was absent, and the mother and five children were alone. Mrs. Carson was awakened by the flames, and with her small baby in her arms escaped through a window, leaving the other children, three boys and a girl, in their beds. Her screams attracted neighbors, who got out one boy, but he was so badly burned that he soon died. The remaining three could be seen and their cries heard, but it was impossible to reach them.

Horse Sale.

Uplinger & Meyer's horse sale at Rankle's hotel Saturday brought a great many into town from all parts of the county. Owing to the blizzard the horses did not arrive at Centre Hall until Saturday morning, being detained two days getting through the Pittsburgh yards. Nineteen horses were in the lot, and they were considered the finest selection yet offered in these parts. Those sold brought prices near and over the hundred mark. From Bellefonte he moved to Madisonburg, where he ran a general store for some time, returning to reside in Bellefonte until the family moved to Pittsburg last fall. He is survived by his widow and four sons: Lyman, Charles, Harry and Joseph.

How It Was in Washington.

S. M. Leitzel, of the government signal service at Washington, a son of Martin Leitzel, formerly of Potters Mills, in a letter of 19 inst., says:

"Only one line of street cars in this city able to give service during the last three days. To-day the drifts were pretty well shoveled out and business is being resumed.

"Coal sold as high as 60 cents per bushel and dealers would deliver only four bushels to a customer. Many of the streets had the appearance of the pike between Old Fort and Centre Hill after hard drifting snows—35 inches of snow in this "Sunny Southern" city, with 30 to 70 miles of wind per hour puts us in the same class with Montana, and the oldest inhabitant is completely nonplussed. This snow storm set in Saturday evening, after the thermometer registered 15° below zero in the morning and we then had about 15 inches of snow on the ground."
