Bryan.

It is not surprising that the administration should have quietly overlooked the break made by Prof. Haupt, a member of the present and of the last Canal Commission, in confirming the general impression that influences strong enough to thwart the almost unanimous wish of the people of this country, had been successfully used to canal, and even to prevent the publishing of the report made by the last commission, which is said to contain a scathing exposure of some of these in- and the rest of the time to military urer's office. fluences. The subject is chock full of training political dynamite, and the administration was afraid of it. Therefore, instead of calling Prof. Haupt down for his too truthful exposure of a National scandal and firing him from the new Commission, the administration got him to write a letter saying he had been misquoted by the newspaper that printed the exposure, and was glad to let it go at that. The new Commission met last week, authorized the appointment of Committees, and adjourned to meet again, in Washington, July 6th.

They are now scheming to bring about that consumation, but they will hardly succeed. I am for Bryan in 1900, and a repetition of the Chicago platform, with some additions. I favor the election of U.S. Senators by direct vote, and also hope to see the initiative and referendum mode a part of our governmental system."

A prominent Ohio Republican has been telling party tales out of school. He said of the fight on Senator Foraker, by H. H. Kohlsaat, editor of the Chicago Times-Herald, which has caused so much talk because of the close personal relations known to exist between Mr. McKinley and Mr. Kohlsaat; "I have absolute personal knowledge that the assaults made upon Foraker, in the Chicago-Times Herald are the result of an understanding between its editor and Mr. Hanna. limit of ticket.
