Subject: An Ancient Epigram-As Old Saying Used to Illustrate the Ludicrous Behavior of Those Who Magnify Small Sins and Ignore Great Ones.

[Copyright, Louis Klopsch, 1890.]

WASHINGTON, D. C .- In this discourse founded on an ancient epigram repeated by Christ, Dr. Talmage illustrates the folly of being very particular about insignificant things, while neglectful of vast concerns. The text is Matthew xxiii., 24: "Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat and swallow a camel.

a camel." A proverb is compact wisdom, knowledge in chunks, a library in a sentence, the elec-tricity of many clouds discharged in one bolt, a river put through a mill race. When Christ quotes the proverb of the text, He means to set forth the ludicrous behavior of these rehe makes a great histor about of those who make a great bluster about small sins and have no appreciation of small sins and have no appreciation of great ones. In my text a small insect and a large quadruped are brought into com-parison—a gnat and a camel. You have in museum or on the desert seen the latter, a great awkward, sprawling creature, with back two stories high and stomach having a collection of reservoirs for desert travel, an animal forbidden to the Jews as food an animal forbidden to the Jews as food and in many literatures entitled "the ship of the desert." The gnat spoken of in the text is in the grub form. It is born in pool or pond, after a few weeks becomes a chrysalis and then after a few days be-comes the gnat as we recognize it. But the insect spoken of in the text is in its very smallest shape, and it yet inhabits the water for my text is a misning and ought water, for my text is a misprint and ought to read "strain out a guat." My text shows you the prince of incon-sistencies. A man after long observation has formed the suspicion that in a cup of has formed the suspicion that in a cup of water he is about to drink there is a grub or the grandparent of a gnat. He goes and gets a sieve or strainer. He takes the water and pours it through the sieve in the broad light. He says, "I would rather do anything almost than drink his water un-til the large he optimized." This matter til tois larva be extirpated." This water un-is brought under inquisition. The experi-ment is successful. The water rushes through the sieve and leaves against the side of the sleve the grub or gnat. Then the man carefully removes the insect and the man carefully removes the insect and drinks the water in plasidity. But going out one day and hungry, he devours a "sb'n of the desert." the camel, which the Jews were foroidden to eat. The gastron-omer has no computions of conscience. He suffers from no indigestion. He puts the lower jaw under the camel's forefoot and his upper jaw over the hump of the camel's back and gives one swallow, and dromedary disappears forever. He strained out a gnat; he swallowed a camel. While Christ's audience was yet smilling

While Christ's audience was yet smiling at the oppositeness and wit of His illustra-tion-for smile they did, unless they were too stupid to understand the hyperbole-Christ practicali said to them, "That is you." Functilious about small things; reckless about affairs of great magnitude. No subject ever winced under a surgeon's knife more bitterly than did the Pharisees under Christ's scalpel of truth. As an an-atomist will take a human body to pleces and put the pieces under a microscope for examination, so Christ finds His way to the heart of the dead Pharisee and cuts it out and puts it under the glass of inspection for all generations to examine. Those Pharisees thought that Christ would flatter them and compliment them, and how they must have writhed under the redhot words as He said, "Ye foois, ye whited sepulchers, ye blind guides, which strain out a gnat and swallow a camel."

There are in our day a great many gnats strained out and a great many cameis swal-lowed, and it is the object of this sermon

lowed, and it is the object of this sermon to sketch a few persons who are extensive-ly engaged in that business. First, I remark, that all those ministers of the gospel who are very scrupulous about the conventionalities of religion, but put no particular stress upon matters of vast importance, are photographed in the text. Church services ought to be grave and soleme. There is no room for frivolity worth $15,000. The Government of the and solemn. There is no room for frivolity in religious convocation. But there are il-hatrations, and there are hyperboles like that of Christ in the text, that will irradi-ate with smiles any intelligent audience. There are men like those blind guides of the text who advocate only those things in minimum contents the text. the text who advocate only those things in religious service which draw the corners of the mouth down and denounce all those things which have a teodency to draw the corners of the mouth up, and these men will go to installations and to presbyteries and to conferences and to presbyteries and to conferences and to associations, their pockets full of fine sieves to strain out the gnats, while in their own churches at home every Sunday there are fifty people sound asleep. They make their churches a great dormitory, and their somniferous sermons are a cradie and the drawled out hymns a lullaby, while some wakeful soul in a pew with her far keeps the files off unconscious persons fan keeps the flies off unconscious persons approximate. Now, I say it is worse to sleep in church than to smile in church, for the latter implies at least attention, while the former implies the indifference of the hearers and the stupidity of the can bear three blocks, will ery out, "Police, police!" That same man the evening of the day in which he watered the stock will kneel with his family in prayers and thank God for the prosperity of the day, then kiss his children good night with an air which seems to say, "I hope you will all grow up to be as good as your father!" Frisons for sins insectile in size, but palaces for crimes dromedarian. No mercy for sins animalcule in proportion, but great len-iency for mastodon iniquity. A poor boy slyly takes from the basket of a market woman a choke pear, saving some one else woman a choke pear, saving some one else from the cholers, and you smother him in the horrible atmosphere of Raymond Street Jail or New York Tombs, while his street sail of New Fork Tomos, while his scousin, who has been skillful enough to steal $50,000 from the city, you make a candidate for the State Legislature. There is a good deal of uneasiness and nervousness now among some people in our time who have got unrighteous for-tunes, a great deal of gneasiness about dynamite. I tell them that God will put under their unrighteous fortunes some-thing more explosive than dynamite, the earthquake of His omnipotent indig-nation. It is time that we learn in America that sin is not excusable in proportion as it declares large dividends and has outriders in equipage. Many a man is riding to perdition postilion ahead and lackey behind. To steal one copy of a newspaper is a gnat; to steal many thousands of dollars is a camel. There is many a fruit dealer who would not consent to steal a basket of peaches from a neighbor's stall, but who would not scruple to depress the basket of peaches from a neighbor's stail, but who would not scruple to depress the fruit market, and as long as I can re-member we have heard every summer the peach crop of Maryland is a failure, and by the time the crop comes in the mis-representation makes a difference of mil-ilons of dollars. A man who would not steal one basket of peaches steals 50,000 baskets of peaches. Go down into the public library, in the reading room, and see the newspaper re-ports of the crops from all parts of the country, and their phraseology is very much the same, and the same men wrote them, methodically and infamously carry-ing out the huge lying about the grain crop from year to year and for a score of years. After awhile there will be a "cor-ner" in the wheat market, and men who had a contempt for petty theft will burg-larize the wheat bin of a nation and com-mit larceny upon the American corn crib, mit larceny upon the American corn crib and some of the men will sit in churches and in reformatory institutions trying to strain out the small gnats of scoundrelism, while in their grain elevators and in their storehouses they are fattening huge storehouses they are fattening huge camels which they expect after awhile to swallow. Society has to be entirely re-constructed on this subject. We are to find that a sin is inexessable in pro-portion as it is great. I know in our time the tendency is to charge reli-gious frauds upon good men. They say, "Oh what a host of frauds you have in the Church of God in this day!" And when an elder of a church or a descent or a minielder of a church, or a deacon, or a minister of the gospel, or a superintendent of a Sabbath-school turns out a defaulter, what display heads there are in many of the display heads there are in many of the newspapers. Great primer type. Five line pica. "Another Saint Absconded," "Clerical Scoundrelism," "Religion at a Discount," "Shame on the Churches," while there are a thousand scoundrels outside the church to one inside the church, and the misbehavior of those who never see the inside of a church is so great that it is enough to tempt a man to become a Christian to get out of their company. But in all circles, religious and irreligious, the tendency is to excuse sin in proportion the tendency is to excluse which proportion as it is mammoth. Even John Milton in his "Paradise Lost," while he condemns satan, gives such a grand description of him you have hard work to withhold your admira-tion. Oh, this straining out of small sins like grant and this graning out of small sins like gnats and this gulping downgreat iniquities like camels. The subject does not give the picture of one or two persons, but is a gallery in which thousands of people may see their

YOU WALK VERY FAST. 85,930 Miles an Hour About Your Usual

Galt. Have you ever thought of the distance you travel while you are out for an hour's stroll? Possibly you walk three miles an hour, but that does not represent the distance you travel. The earth turns on its axis every twentyfour hours. In round figures call the earth's circumference 24,000 miles, and you must have traveled during your hour's stroll a thousand miles in the axial turn of the earth. But this is not all. The earth makes a journey round the sun every year. Put the distance of our planet from the sun at 92,000,000 miles. The diameter is therefore 184,000,000 miles, and the circumference described by the earth 578,000,000 miles. In other words, the earth trayels around the sun each day 1,584,000 miles, and every hour-for instance, the hour during which you took your walk-the earth moved through 66,000 miles. So, adding your three miles of leg travel to the hour's axial movement of the earth, this to the earth's orbital journey and that again to the earth's excursion with the sun, and you will find you have traveled within the hour 85,930 miles.

Beau Door.

Buffalo Commercial: In old New England farmhouses, in addition to the regular front entrance, it was the custom to have a second outside door opening directly into the front parlor. A knock on this door usually meant that a bashful young man was outside, who wanted to call on the daughter of the family. Now that there are no more bashful young men a sofa or a chair is usually rolled against the beau door, and callers run the gauntlet of the family entrance.

Williamson, the Yonge street book-seller, consists of twelve great folio volumes, containing the text, each page being accompanied with illustrations, of which there are in all over 15,000 in the whole work. The collection is the result of the efforts of a lifetime spent by one of the greatest Biblical scholars in Canada. He sought pictures from every source, and has succeeded in getting together a collection that is most interesting and instructive. It includes reproductions in steel, wood, copper and other engravings, and chromo-lithographs, etc., of the work of some of the world's greatest masters. Among the great painters whose labors are represented are Dore, Raphael, Van Dyck, Rubens and Bartlett, while the names of the engravers are in many cases bardly less noted.

The great fault of church services to-day is not too much vivacity, but too much sonnolence. The one is an irritating gnat that may be easily strained out: the other is a great, sprawing and sleepy-eyed camel of the dry desert. I take down from my library the biogra-phies of ministers and writers of the past ages, inspired and uninspired, who have done the most to bring souls to Jesus Christ, and I find that without a single ex-ception they consecrated their wit and their humor to Christ. Elijah used it when he advised the Baalites, as they could not make their god respond, to call louder, as their god might be sound asleep or gone a-hunting. Job used it when he said to his self-conceited comforters, "Wisdom will die with you." Christ not only used it in the text, but when He ironically com-plimented the corrupt Pharisees, saying, It in the text, but when He ironically com-plimented the corrupt Phalisees, saying, "The whole need not a physician," and when by one word He described the cun-ning of Herod, saying, "Go ye and tell that fox." The Government of the United States took off the tax from personal income, among other reasons because so few people would tell the truth, and many a man with an income of hundreds of dollars a day made statements which seemed to imply he was about to be handed over to the overseer of the poor. Careful to pay their passage from Liverpool to New York, yet smuggling in the Saratoga trunk ten silk dresses from Paris and a half dozen watches from Geneva, teiling the custom house officer on the wharf, "There is nothing in that trunk but wear-ing apparel," and putting a $5 gold piece in his hand to punctuate the statement. Such persons are also described in the text who are very much alarmed about the small faults of others and have no alarm small faults of others and have no alarm about their own great transgreesions. There are in every community and in every church watch-dogs who feel called upon to keep their eyes on others and growl. They are full of suspicions. They wonder if this man is not dishonest, if that man is not unclean, if there is not some-thing wrong about the other man. They are always the first to hear of anything wrong. Vultures are always the first to smell carrion. They are self-appointed detectives. I lay this down as a rule with-out any exception that those people who out any exception that those people who have the most faults themselves are most merciless in their watching of others. From scalp of head to sole of foot they are full of jealousies and hypercriticisms. But lest too many might think they es-cape the scrutiny of the text I have to tell you that we all come under the divine sat-ire when we make the questions of time more prominent than the questions of eternity. Come, now, let us all go into the confessional. Are not all tempted to make the question, Where shall I live now? greater than the question, Where shall I live forever? How shall I get more dollars here? greater than the question, How shall greater than the question. Where shall I live forever?
