spective of Results in the Courts. The following letter, dated July 31, 1896, addressed to the president of the People's bank, was mailed in an envelope to John S. Hopkins, cashier of the bank:

"Dear Sir: On Monday we will mail you a check for one hundred thousand dollars for the credit of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, general fund, which will make a credit to our account of six hundred thousand dollars. The understanding is that I am not to draw against any part of this six hundred thousand dollars deposited until the Hon. R. R. Quay has paid or arranged satisfactorily to you the loan of one hundred thousand dollars, which you are to make him next week.

'Very truly yours,

"B. J. HAYWOOD, "State Treasurer."

A telegram referring to the letter was dated at Muscoco, Ontario, and addressed to John S. Hopkins, cashier, as follows.

'I wrote your president last Friday night, saying we would not draw any part of the deposit of $600,000 until R. R. Quay had paid or arranged satisfactorily to you the $100,000 you were to loan him this week

"B. J. HAYWOOD,

Following is a letter of Sept. 4, 1897 from M. S. Quay:

"Dear John: I have yours of the 1st and enclosures; and return note signed, as per request; much obliged. It will be queer if the stock does not go down $10 a share. My purchases always do, though they come out right in the end. U. G. I. and Sugar are saddening, but Dolan don't like us well enough to let us in on the first, and the second is a dangerous gamble.

The next letter from Quay, dated Sept. 21, 1897, reads:

"Dear John: I have at Huhn's 909 shares of Met. I wish you to take out for me. It stands $110.812.50 Aug. 31. and with your $61,625 will make $172. 437.50 I will owe your bank. Treasurers Come and Go, But the Treasury Key Does Not Change Hands.

Let the state treasury's history for the last 20 years answer the question whether improvement can be expected from the success of the Quay ticket next November.

William Livsey, who has exiled himself from the state since 1891, was appointed cashier of the state treasury in 1880 by Treasurer Samuel Butler. Silas M. Bailey was elected treasurer in 1881, and continued Livsey as cashier. Livsey was elected state treasurer in 1883, and was succeeded in that office by Mr. Quay, who was elected in 1885

By appointment from Quay Livsey returned to the cashier's desk, and held it until Quay, in the second year of his term, resigned, and Livsey was appointed to serve as treasurer for the remaining eight months. Upon William B. Hart's election as treasurer in 1887 he made Livsey his cashier. Hart died before his term closed, and again Livsey was appointed to a vacant treasurership.

Henry K. Boyer, elected treasurer in 1889, gave the cashiership to Livsey, who retained it until he became a fugitive at the start of the treasury probing in 1891. Thus, for 11 years, as a representative of the machine, Livsey had held the key

B. J. Haywood, failing to be nominated in 1893 to succeed Treasurer Morrison, was made cashier undor Treasurer Samuel Jackson. Haywood was elected treasurer in 1895, and upon the election of the present treasurer, James S. Beacom, Haywood was restored to the cashiership, which he retained until his death

TWO SIMILAR CASES.

Haywood's troubles had notable precedent in Livsey's case. In 1891 Livsey and his chief had permitted the treasurer of Philadelphia, as agent for the state, to collect $367,604 of license money and to retain it for six months after its payment was due to the state treasury. This money, with other funds of the state and city, was in a rotten bank. Of the $367,604, bondsmen, pursued by a Democratic attorney general and governor, made good $120,-000, and about $30,000 additional was recovered through the exertions of the same officials, but there remained a net loss to the state of $100,000. TREASURER MORE THAN ACLERK

The treasury act of 1897 makes no practical change except in requiring the treasurer to collect two per cent per annum interest from all the state fund depositories except five "active banks," which pay one and a half per cent per annum on the daily balances. The treasurer is empowered to select all the depositories. "subject to the approval of the board of revenue commissioners," one of whom is himself, and the others the auditor general and the secretary of the commonwealth. As the present three commisioners owe their offices to the Quay machine, which they continue faithfully to serve. it is plain that no stronger check upon the selection of depositories exists now than before the new interest law took

NewInterest Law an Inadequate Remedy For Treasury Abuses Recently Aired in Courts.

Here follows testimony, from a high Republican source, against Quay machine assertions that under the act of 1897 regulating in some degree state deposits of money and interest thereon the state treasurer cannot continue abuses like those recently aired n the courts. Governor Hastings, on Oct. 15, 1898, at a Republican mass meeting in the Academy of Music, at Philadelphia, which State Chairman Elkin had called, declared:

"It cannot be questioned that the public funds have been used for political purposes by depositing them in cus, is openly charged by many memfavorite banks, where such deposits bers of his regiment, the 10th, with were expected to yield returns in the shape of political influence. This system cannot be defended. While the new interest law is an improvement, it does not, in my judgment, meet the In Barnett's own county, and other difficulty and correct the evil. A striking illustration of state treasury abuses referred to by Governor Hastings was presented on Aug. 24, 1898, to Auditor Holding, appointed by the court to take testimony concerning the defunct Chester County Guarantee Trust and Safe Deposit company. It had been a depository for state funds, and the late ex-Congressman Darlington, president of the concern, when asked what was meant by "current expenses," charged in the books, testified that they were political con-tributions "of from 2 to 3 per cent annually to the Republican state and county committees, paid pursuant to a sort of implied understanding with the parties who were influential in controlling the state deposits."

The men who controlled the state treasury in the periods of time referred to by Governor Hastings, by the Darlington testimony, and by the disclosures resulting from the People's bank failure, are the men who die ated the Republican nominations this fear.

The Transvaal war situation is not ovely for the British just now.

of the appropriation unconstitutionally reduced by Governor Stone. Nothing could be plainer than the constitutional language that while the governor may veto an item, he has no right to divide an item. Yet he cut a million dollars out of the item through which the legislature had voted in a lump sum, $11,000,000 to the public schools.

the state they get but ten dollars out

The treasury deficiency which gave him the excuse for doing this had been caused primarily by former machine legislators in unnecessarily increasing public officials and petty clerkships in the several departments, and in unjustifiably increasing salaries. The efforts of the anti-machine majority in the late house to remedy this deficiency through the Creasy revenue bill and other measures were defeated by the Quay controlled senate.

The governor's disregard for the constitution is shown again in his obstruction of the movement for reform in the registration of voters. The late legislature adopted a resolution for submission to a popular vote a proposed constitutional amendment which would facilitate, among other reforms, personal registration, and would authorize enactment of laws for special legislation on this subject for the large cities in which election crime is rampant. After the adoption of this resolution by the next legislature the people could vote on the question. The governor, without right or justification, vetoed the resolution, and his cabinet officers, taking the cue, refuse to carry out the provision for advertising the proposed amendment. Thus is attempted a deprivation of the people's constitutional right to pass upon a question of amending their fundamental law.

Hope to Be Saved by Shouting For now as he tried to do at the opening of the last gubernatorial campaign, when Candidate William A. Stone predicted that McKinley's conduct of the war with Spain would so absorb patriotic attention as to make opposition to the Republican ticket impotent. Quay and his henchmen now court the national administration's favor by advocating McKinley's renomination, and play the old game of arguing that their loss of the state treasury would be a slap in McKinley's face from Pennsylvania Republicans. Suppose their candidate for state treasurer makes good promises. All their candidates for state treasurer have done that. Their candidate for governor last year was given no chance by the anti-machine coalition in the last house to act upon pinch or grab

C.A.SNOW&

It is reliably reported that not 50 of the 10th reg. will vote for Barnett.

an item of the general appropriation bill, as he did in depriving the public schools of a million dollars, and of refraining from contemptuous disregard of the legislative majority in his an-constitutional appointment of Quay.

McKinley. Quay attempts to cloud the issues bills which he had promised on the stump to veto. But chances which he failed to improve included those of placing no unconstitutional obstruction in the way of reformed registration of voters; of respecting the constitutional prohibition against dividing
