"He That Any Good Would Win"

Should have good health. Pure, rich blood is the first requisite. Hood's Sarsaparilla, by giving good blood and good health, has helped many a man to success, besides giving strength and courage to women who, before taking it, could not even see any good in life to win.

Cured by the Telephone.

There is a popular character in Pendleton who has a slight impediment in his speech. He talks eloquently, but he stammers some. He recently located in Pendleton because he admires Missourians, and he has found the right kind here. The other day he went to the telephone to talk to a friend in Portland. When the talk was finished the Portland man said: "Well, old man, you seem to talk better since you went to Pendleton. You do not stutter anything like as much as you did." "No," said the Pendleton man, clear and straight as a bell, "a man cannot afford to stutter through a telephone when it costs 75 cents a minute."—East Oregonian.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 9427]
"I am so grateful to you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me that I feel as though I must tell about it. A year ago I was taken very sick. Doctors could do me no good only to deaden the pain which I had almost constantly. I got some of your Compound and took one bottle and received benefit from it at once. I have taken it ever since and now have no backache, no pain in my side and my stomach and bowels are perfectly well. I can honestly say that there is nothing like it. If I could only tell every woman how much good your medicine has done me, they would surely try it."—MARTHA M. KING, NORTH ATTLEBORO, MASS.

Women Would Surely Try Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine if They Only Knew, Says Mrs. King

The way women trifle with health shows a degree of indifference that is past understanding. Happiness and usefulness depend on physical health; so does a good disposition. Disease makes women nervous, irritable and snappish. The very effort of alling women to be good-natured makes them nervous. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, she will help you to health and happiness.

It costs nothing to get Mrs. Pinkham's advice. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE EMINENT DIVINE'S SUNDAY DISCOURSE.

Subject Settled in Heaven—The Fate of Nations as Well as of Individuals in God's Hands—The World Not Governed in a Haphazard Way.

Copyright, Louis Klopfers, 1893.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The idea that things in this world are at loose ends and going at haphazard is in this discourse combated by Dr. Talmage. The text is Psalms cxi, 8, "Forever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven."

The world has been in process of change ever since it was created—mountains, born mountains dying, and they have both cradle and grave. Once this planet was all fluid, and no being such as you or I have ever seen could have lived on it a minute. Our hemisphere turns its face to the sun and then turns its back. The axis of the earth's revolution has shifted. The earth's center of gravity is changed. Once flowers grew in the arctic and there was snow in the tropics. There has been a redistribution of land and sea, the land crumbling into the sea, the sea swallowing the land. Ice and fire have fought for the possession of this planet. The chemical composition of it is different now from what it once was. Volcanoes once terribly alive are dead, not one throbs of fiery pulse, not one breath of vapor—the ocean changing its amount of saline qualities. The internal fires of the earth are gradually eating their way to the surface—upheaval and subsidence of vast realms of continent. Mountains in Greenland have revealed their hot poles because the advancing sea submerged them. Linnæus records that in eighty-seven years a great stone was 101 feet under the water than when he wrote. Forests have been buried by the sea and land that was cultivated by farmer's hoe can be touched only by sailor's anchor.

Loch Nevis of Scotland and Dingle bay of Ireland and the fjords of Norway, where pleasure boats now float, were once alleys and glens. Many of the islands of the sea are the tops of sunken mountains. Six thousand miles of the Pacific Ocean are sinking. The diameter of the earth, according to scientific announcement, is 133 miles less than it was. The entire configuration of the earth is altered. Hills are denuded of their forests. The frosts and the winds and the air bombard the earth till it surrenders to the assault.

The so-called "everlasting hills" do not last. Many railroad companies cease to run bridges because the iron on a life of its own, not a vegetable life, or an animal life, but a metallic life, and when that life dies the bridge goes down. Oxidation of minerals is only another term for eating their death. Moons and worlds weeds help destroy the rocks they decorate.

The changes of the inanimate earth only symbolize the moral changes. Society ever becomes different for better or worse. Friendly lines between nations are settled until the next war unsettles them. Uncertainty strikes through laws and customs and legislation. The characteristics of this world is that nothing in it is settled. At one hour we are hoped that the gratification planned last Summer at The Hague, Holland, would forever sheathe the sword and spike the gun and dismantle the fort; the world has on hands the evidence which are digging graves for the flower of English and American soldiery. From the presence of such geological and social and national and international uncertainties it is plain that in the end of things forever settled, but in higher latitudes than we have ever trod. "Forever, O Lord, Thy word is settled in heaven." It's up in the palace of the most august things are settled—that nations which go continuously and persistently wrong perish; that happiness is the result of spiritual condition and not of earthly environment; that this world is a schoolhouse for splendid or disgraceful graduation; that with or without us the world is to be made over into a scene of arborescence and purity; that all who are adjusting to the unparalleled One of Bethlehem and Nazareth and Golgotha will be the subjects of a supernal felicity without any tacking off.

Do you doubt my first proposition—that nations which go wrong perish? We have in this American nation all the elements of permanence and destruction. We need not borrow from others any trowels for upbuilding or torches for demolition. Elements of ruin—idleness, infidelity, agnosticism, Sabbath desecration, inebriety, sensuality, extravagance, fraud; they are all here. Elements of safety—God-worshiping men and women by the score; millions, honesty, benevolence, truthfulness, self-sacrifice, industry, sobriety and more religion than has characterized any nation that has ever existed; they are all here. The only question is as to which forces will gain dominancy—the one class ascendant, and this United States Government, I think, will continue as long as the world exists; the other class ascendant, and the United States Government such small pieces that other governments would hardly think them worth picking up.

Have you ever noticed the size of the cemetery of dead nations, the vast Greenwood and Pere le Chaise, where mighty kingdoms were buried? Open the gates and walk through this cemetery and read the epitaphs. Here lies Carthage, born 109 years before Rome, great commercial metropolis on the bay of Tunis, a people of five millions that gave the alphabet to the Greeks and their great language to the Hebrews; her arms the terror of nations, commanding at one time 150,000 miles of coast; her Hamular leading forty thirty myriads, or 300,000 troops; her Hannibal carrying out in manhood the oath he had taken in boyhood to preserve eternal enmity to Rome, leaving costly and imposing monuments at Agrigento and the heap of ruins; Carthage, her colonies on every coast, her ships plowing every sea; Carthage—where are her splendors now? All extinguished. Where are her towers? The last one broken. Where are her towers and long ranges of magnificent architecture? Buried under the sands of the Bagradas. As ballast of foreign ships merchant vessels have been carried away to build the walls of transatlantic cathedrals, while other blocks have been blasted in modern times by the makers of the Tunis railway. And at one of our great and mighty city and kingdom that the tourist flocks to-day is here and there a broken arch of what was once a fifty-mile aqueduct.

Our talented and genial friend, Henry M. Field, in one of his matchless books of travel labors to prove that the ailments of that city are really worth visiting. Carthage buried in the cemetery of dead nations. Not one altar to the true God did she rear. Not one of the Ten Commandments but she conspicuously violated. Her doom was settled in heaven when it was decided far back in the eternities that the nation and kingdom that will not serve God shall perish.

Walk on in the cemetery of nations and see the long lines of tombs—Thebes and Tyre and Egypt and Babylon and Medo-Fersia and Macedonian and Roman and Saxon heptarchy, great nations, small nations, nations that lived a year and nations that lived 500 years.

Our own nation will be judged by the same moral laws by which all other nations have been judged. The judgment day for individuals will probably come far on in the future. Judgment day for nations is every day, every day weighed, every day approved or every day condemned. Never before in the history of this country has the American nation been more surely in the balance than it is this minute. Do right, and we go up. Do wrong, and we go down.

I am not so anxious to know what this statesman of that warrior thinks who had better do with Cuba and Porto Rico and the Philippines as I am anxious to know what God thinks we had better do. The destiny of this nation will not be decided on your capital hill or at Manila or at the presidential ballot box, for it will be settled in the heaven above.

Nothing that thing decided in the same high plane is that happiness is the result of spiritual condition and not of earthly environment. If we who may sometimes have a thousand dollars to invest find it such a perplexity to know whether to invest it and soon after find that we invested it where principal and interest have gone down through roguery or panic, what must be the worryment of those having millions in the worlms of those losses correspond in magnitude with their resources? People who have their three or four dollars a day wages are just as happy as those who have an income of $50,000 a year.

Sometimes happiness is seated on a footstool and sometimes misery on the throne. All the gold of the earth in one clink cannot purchase five minutes of complete satisfaction. Happiness is not a commodity that breeds the maggots of envy and jealousy and hate. There are those who will never forgive you if you have more emoluments or honor or ease than they have.

Keep your eyes on the ground and wish for most of those who are not as high as you are. They will spend hours and days and years to outstep you. They will hover around your newspaper offices to get one mean printed appreciating you. Your heaven is their hell.

A dying President of the United States said many years ago in regard to his lifetime of experience, "It doesn't pay." The leading statesmen of America are giving advice warn young men to keep out of politics. Many of the most successful have tried in vain to drown their trouble in strong drink. On the other hand, there are many who go on in the same old life will have nothing to leave but a good name and a life insurance whose beneficiaries are as indolent of illuminated sons. They wish everybody well. When they die their friends go to the window at midnight to see if it is their store that is on fire, for they never owned a store, and when the September equinox is abroad they do not worry lest their ships will be blown to pieces, for they never owned a ship, and when the nominations are made for high political offices they are not fearful that their name will be overlooked, for they never applied for offices.

There is so much to be said for freedom from care in their laughter that when you hear it you are compelled to laugh in sympathy, although you know not what they are laughing about.

When the children of that family assembly in the sitting room of the old homestead to hear the father's will read, they are not fearful of being out of with a million and a half dollars, but they are all glad to hear of anything more than the farm of seventy-five acres, which yielded only enough plainly to support the household. They have more happiness in one month than most men have in a lifetime.

Would to God I had the capacity to explain to you on how little a man can be happy and on how much he may be wretched. Get you heart right and all is right. Keep your eyes on the ground and wrong. That is a principle settled in heaven.

Another thing decided in that high place is that this world is a schoolhouse or college for splendid or disgraceful graduation. It is an elective course, from good or evil and then pass into the sophomore and then into the junior and then into the senior, and from that we graduate angels or devils. In many a schoolhouse of good or evil and then pass into the sophomore and then into the junior and then into the senior, and from that we graduate angels or devils. In many a schoolhouse of good or evil and then pass into the sophomore and then into the junior and then into the senior, and from that we graduate angels or devils. In many a schoolhouse of good or evil and then pass into the sophomore and then into the junior and then into the senior, and from that we graduate angels or devils.

College Professors and Free Speech.
Liberty of speech is so precious that congress is forbidden by the constitution to abridge it, and such arrests as are common in Germany for mere masticate are impossible here. There is danger, however, of carrying this freedom too far. "I believe in free speech," said the duke of Wellington, "but not on board a man-of-war," and abstinence from ill-timed speech has given Gen. de Gallifet, the new war minister of France, the appropriate nickname of Le Grand Muet. The trustees of the University of Chicago not long since considered the desirability of restraining their professors from "undue loquacity" about controverted public matters. While the decision was unequivocally against such restriction, the question raised deserves consideration, for the college as an institution has rights, as well as the teachers within its gates. The minister in his pulp has a legal right to free speech; but when his opinions misrepresent the principles of his sect, he has other rights than his own to consider. When a professor's pronounced statements are credited against the university of which he is a part, his liberty of speech is a moral wrong, which his manliness should condemn and his conscience restrain. "All things are lawful for me," said St. Paul, "but all things are not expedient."

WOMAN REFUSES To Live with Her Husband Because She Says He is Homely.
New York World: Mrs. Jennie Goldfarb has given a novel excuse for refusing to live with her husband Samuel. She says that he is too homely for any woman to live with. Goldfarb who is a philosopher, admits that he is not an Apollo, but he also insists that his wife has never been known as a professional beauty. The Goldfarbs have had a good deal of trouble since they were married in 1890. It took Mrs. Goldfarb but a short time to discover that her husband did not come up to her standard of manly beauty, and she began to make things uncomfortable for him. Occasionally she went back to her mother. At another time Samuel in despair sent her to Europe, hoping that when he returned he would find favor in her eyes. But matters were still worse when she came back, and according to a number of affidavits, in the possession of former Judge H. W. Leonard, Goldfarb's counsel, she positively refused to live with him at all. Goldfarb in the meantime had spent a small fortune on complexion beautifiers, hair restorers and other toilet luxuries. He became a Berry Wall in his dress. But his wife remained obdurate, and finally, a short time ago, charged him before Magistrate Hogan with desertion. Goldfarb was sent—railroaded, he says—to the island for six months. He gave a bond and was released. He at once sued for a separation, and "for such other relief as may seem just."

Theory of Lubricating Oils.
In a lecture on "The Relations of Physics to the Mechanical Arts," Prof. Abbe stated that Prof. Reynolds was the first to show lubrication is simply a case of the flow of a viscous fluid through a narrow channel. When the journal presses on its bearing, the intermediate space is probably 1-100,000th of an inch in thickness. This space being filled with oil constitutes the thin film that converts the rubbing and tearing of the metals into the sliding and rolling of liquid molecules, like myriads of minute steel friction balls. The results of the difficult researches in molecular physics of Stoker, Kirchoff, and Helmholtz have thus a direct application to the lubricating action of oils.
