

SHOES

That Stand on Their Own Bottoms

That is true literally and it is just as true metaphorically. Our shoes stand on their own bottoms. They rest on their well earned reputation. People know them. People like them. People buy them. People wear them.

We carry no shoes that must be bolstered up with clever names and elaborate advertising. We advertise our shoes to let the public know what we are doing, but our advertising is merely an incident. With some it is the whole thing. Without advertising some business would die. This is not that sort of a business.

For many years we have been shoeing the people of this bailiwick with unvarying satisfaction. Upon the record we have made the business stands. We maintain that record by maintaining the same high quality in our shoes and by keeping the prices down to the lowest safe point.

Was in 23 Battles

In last week's Reporter we noted the death of John Adam Miller, at Millheim, on 13 inst. He was a member of Co. A, 148 reg. and was in twenty-eight battles. Remarkable as it seems, he came out unharmed.

Upon one occasion he lay upon the ground between two companions and a shell was seen coming direct for them. A moment later and his two companions were dead on either side of him. The shell tore the knapsack from his back scattering the contents about him, among which were photographs of members of his family, and these Mr. Miller gathered up.

At one time he was on a 42 days' march, and in that time he had only one night's sleep. He experienced many hardships during his life in the army. His funeral was largely attended.

Captured the Cubs.

Joseph Lundy, a butcher of Slabtown, near Williamsport, was driving up Hoagland's branch Thursday, when he saw a bear with four cubs step out of the bushes. The mother bear swam the creek, but the cubs, not liking the water, climbed a tree instead. Mr. Lundy called a boy to watch, while he went after a farmer named Warburton. The two men felled the tree and threw the cubs in Mr. Lundy's wagon. Both men were considerably scratched by the cubs. The mother bear sat on the opposite side of the creek making a peculiar noise, but made no move to prevent the capture of her young.

Farmer Benefitted.

The farmer would be more benefitted by good roads than any other class. The value of a farm is determined by its accessibility. The land that is favored by the best transportation facilities will bring the best price per acre when put on the market. There is no doubt that one mile of good macadamized road is more valuable in this country than five miles of plough and scraper road that goes to pieces in one year.

Large Peach Crop.

George Keister, the large peach grower of Aaronsburg, predicts a crop of 1,700 bushels from his old orchard containing 1,500 trees. He says that contrary to his predictions his fruit does not seem to have been hurt at all by the winter.

Teachers' Examination.

Prof. C. L. Gramley will hold the teachers' examination at Centre Hall, tomorrow, Friday, for this district, composed of Centre Hall and Potter township. The class will be a large one.

INJURED BY A VICIOUS BULL.

Mrs. Joshua T. Potter Badly Hurt by a Maddened Animal.

A vicious and maddened bull attacked Mrs. Potter, the good wife of Joshua T. Potter, on Tuesday afternoon, in the stable on their farm about two miles west of Centre Hall, and inflicted such injuries upon the lady that she has been confined to her bed since.

The animal which attacked Mrs. Potter was a Jersey short-horn bull. The animal has had an ugly disposition for some time, but at no time was it considered unsafe. On Tuesday Mr. Potter was in Centre Hall, and towards the latter part of the afternoon Mrs. Potter went to the fields to bring in the cattle. The bull was among them, and made an attempt to attack her, but with the use of a few well-thrown stones, Mrs. Potter drove off the animal. The bull showed no disposition to be ugly on the way to the barn, and when the cattle reached there, the bull did not want to enter the stable. With a pitch fork Mrs. Potter finally drove the animal into the stalls. The bull had always been tied and Mrs. Potter went into the stall to put the chain about his neck. The bull at once attacked her, but having the fork with her she belabored the animal over the head and kept him off for a while until the fork broke. The bull then rushed at her and struck her on the breast, knocking her down under the hay rack. Mrs. Potter fell close to the rack and this probably alone saved her life, for the bull unable to strike her with his head tried to trample her under his feet, but could scarcely reach her.

Mrs. Potter tried to get up several times but the bull always rushed viciously at her, knocking her down. She finally got upon her feet and noticing several rungs out of the hay rack, tried to get through there. In this she was successful, aided of course by the vicious rushes of the bull. Her daughter Mary Delinda was in the gang way, and with a pitch fork tried to fight off the maddened animal which was attacking her mother. She clubbed the bull until her mother was safely away.

By the time Mrs. Potter got safely away from the bull she was completely exhausted and almost all the clothes were torn from her person. She was assisted to the house, and Dr. Lee was summoned to dress her wounds. The left ear was almost torn off the lady, and the collar bone dislocated. Her face had several ugly cuts upon it, and her arms, legs and body were black and blue from the bruises she received from the trappings of the bull.

Mrs. Potter has been unable to leave her bed since, but Dr. Lee has excellent hope, of pulling her through.

The bull fortunately had been dehorned, but for this fact the results may have been far more serious for Mrs. Potter than they were.

A Marker for Graves.

Ex-treasurer D. C. Keller has collected money for a marker for the graves of the two soldiers who were killed in Indian Lane, a little east of Old Fort, in a fight with five Indians whom they met near the fields of General Potter and whom they engaged. One of the soldiers, Thomas Van Doran, was shot dead. The other, Jacob Shadacre, came to a hand-to-hand encounter with one of the Indians, and both used their knives. Shadacre killed his antagonist. But another Indian came up and shot him. The two soldiers were buried in the lane, and only rude stones marked their resting place. Now a suitable marker is being prepared and with proper inscription the grave of these pioneer soldiers will be preserved to future generations.

The encounter occurred July 24, 1778. Why not mark the graves of the Stamford family, massacred by the Indians at their homes near McBride's Gap, and buried in one of the fields of the Ephram Keller farm, a short distance west of Centre Hall?

Lieut. Jackson, of Bellefonte, Died in the Philippines.

General MacArthur notified the War Department on Tuesday that Second Lieutenant George L. Jackson, 14th Volunteer Infantry, died at Manila on Monday, 21st, of Bright's disease.

Lieut. Jackson was born at Bellefonte, in 1869, and served during the Spanish war as first lieutenant of the 5th Penn'a Volunteer Infantry. He was mustered out in November, 1898, and in August, 1899, was appointed second lieutenant in the 47th Volunteer Infantry and accompanied that regiment to the Philippines in the following year. He was a son of George Jackson, banker, who died at Bellefonte a few years ago.

A Good Law if Enforced.

Under a recent law the county commissioners are authorized to take from the jail prisoners sentenced to confinement and put them to work on the county roads. This plan was put into operation at Scranton last week and twelve men set to work to earn part of the expense of their keeping.

Lawn Social.

DEATH OF MRS. RISHELL.

The Estimable Lady Succumbs After an Illness of Several Weeks.

Mrs. Margaret Dauberman Rishell died at her home at about half-past ten o'clock yesterday morning, after an illness of over four weeks, from consumption, at the age of 76 years, 4 months and 13 days.

Mrs. Rishell had spent about six months up to the first of April, with the family of her son Ward, in Philadelphia, when she came back to Centre Hall again to reside, taking rooms in the residence of Miss Elizabeth Runkle. A few days after returning to Centre Hall, Mrs. Rishell was taken ill, and since that time her condition was such that little hope for recovery was given her family.

Mrs. Rishell was the widow of John Rishell, deceased, one of the prominent citizens of Potter township, who died about thirteen years ago. Since the death of her husband she has made her home most of the time with different members of the family. She was a daughter of John Dauberman, deceased, and was born at Centre Hill, having resided in this section all her life. She was the mother of nine children, seven of whom are left to survive her. They are: Aaron, in Chathage, Mo.; Mrs. George Baker, Downs, Kas.; Ward, in Philadelphia; Willis, at Montgomery, Pa.; Howard and John, living in New York City; Rev. McClellan, in charge of the M. E. church at Woodland, Pa.

Mrs. Rishell was a devout member of the Methodist church, and was a most estimable lady, kind and agreeable and had many friends. The funeral will take place on Saturday morning, services being held at nine o'clock at the house. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Sprucetown cemetery.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES.

Installation of Rev. W. H. Schuyler, Ph. D., on Tuesday.

The installation of Rev. W. H. Schuyler as pastor of the Sinking Creek and Spring Mills Presbyterian churches, took place on Tuesday, May 22, 1900.

The hour of installation was, at Spring Mills at 10 a. m., and at Centre Hall at 1.30 p. m. The same committee of the Presbytery of Huntingdon served at both places.

Dr. Laurie preached the sermon, presided, and asked the constitutional questions. Rev. D. E. Hepler charged the pastor at Spring Mills and the people at Centre Hall. As Rev. J. T. Scott was kept at home by indisposition, Dr. Laurie took his place charging the people at Spring Mills and the pastor at Centre Hall.

In each church the pulpit was embowered in a great profusion of plants and flowers. The weather was exceptionally fine; the attendance of members and others was large. Every one seemed to be in good spirits, and the new pastorate was launched most auspiciously.

Echo of the Evangelical Church Trouble.

The United Ev. Congregation of this place is unexpectedly getting into litigation over the parsonage adjoining their church on the same lot. When the Dubbs and Esher wings were in the courts all over the country as to the ownership of the church property, the Esher wing was declared entitled to the ownership. Thereupon the Dubbs wing, having organized as the United Evangelical Church, purchased the parsonage and church in this place—the Esher wing being without a following here—and the Un. Ev. had the papers executed, believing for the past three years they were the undoubted owners, having paid the price agreed upon between the parties.

It turns up now, that upon some technicality the Esher wing lays claim to the parsonage all the while in the possession of the United Evangelicals, i. e., since the purchase above mentioned. The case goes into court now. Reeder & Quigley for the Esher people and Orvis & Bower for the Un. Ev.

The Fool and the Copperhead.

Lewistown Free Press: Sunday Charles Bechtel and Samuel McCullough, went to Jacks creek to spend the afternoon and saw an unusually large number of snakes. Mr. Bechtel, who thought he was a snake charmer picked up two and played with them but they were not large enough to show his companion his real powers so he started to hunt a bigger one and found it, a four and a half foot copperhead. He caught it back of the neck and picked it up, but his hold was too far back, and the snake buried his fangs in his finger. He made wild efforts to shake the reptile loose and finally succeeded but it went for him again and struck him on the leg. McCullough came to his assistance and killed the snake before it would lose its hold. Bechtel was brought up to town in a hurry and Dr. Parcels cauterized and dressed his wounds.

Death of a Child.

Ciarence Nelson, the four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keen, died last Thursday, of pneumonia. The interment was made in the Centre Hall cemetery Saturday. The family are recent residents of the town, Mr. Keen being employed as sawyer at Colyer's mill.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES.

The Exercises as They Will be Observed in Centre Hall.

The Memorial Day exercises for Centre Hall next Wednesday, will be observed with the usual interesting program by the G. A. R., assisted by the Sons of Veterans. The exercises will take place at six o'clock in the evening, and music will be provided by the Pleasant Gap band, which has been secured. The speaker of the day will be Prof. John D. Meyer. A short address will also be delivered by one of the ministers of the town.

A detail of Co. B, 5th Regiment, will be sent to Centre Hall to decorate the graves of departed members of the company.

The Samuel Shannon Post, G. A. R. will have the Sons of Veterans to assist in the exercises. Post Commander George Sweeney will be in charge of the exercises. The Post invites all the Sunday schools, ministers and the general public to assist in the services. The children and Sunday schools will furnish flowers, which shall be brought to the Post room on Wednesday afternoon.

Killed by Lightning at Milroy.

During the thunderstorm on Friday afternoon, 18, John W. Smith, a stonemason, was killed by lightning while at work on a chimney, at Milroy. He leaves a family.

He was at the new parsonage for the Free church and was at work on the chimney at the east end when the storm came up about 4:30 o'clock. He quit work and walked to the other end of the building and was looking out of the window alongside the chimney when the lightning struck him and he fell out of the third story window to the ground beneath. Death was evidently instantaneous, says the Sentinel.

Unable to Come.

O. P. Cromley, of Cedarville, Ill., who expected to have a horse sale at Runkle's hotel on Friday, has been compelled to cancel his date owing to not being able to secure a car load on time. Mr. Cromley writes that good horses are becoming quite scarce in his section, and he does not desire to impose upon his Penns valley friends by bringing in a lot of culls and low grade animals such as have been brought to the section, and selling them only to have dissatisfied purchasers. He will come to Centre Hall as quickly as he can buy a load, and prospective purchasers would do well to wait for his arrival and get a good animal.

Killed at Harrisburg.

Roland Gates, son of William Gates, of Rock Springs, Centre county, was run over by a train Friday night while at work in the yard of the Pennsylvania railroad company at Harrisburg. His injuries were so severe that the doctors were compelled to amputate his right arm Saturday morning. The shock of the operation was too severe for him and he died from the effects of it. The unfortunate young man was born at Rock Springs, and was about thirty years of age. He leaves a wife and one child. His wife is a daughter of Christopher Guise, of Graysville.

Died at Millheim.

A very sad death occurred at Millheim Tuesday evening. Mrs. Buck, wife of Rev. H. W. Buck, pastor of the Evangelical church at that place, passed away at 9 o'clock on that evening at the parsonage on Spring street. She was 67 years of age and her death was due to pneumonia. She leaves to mourn their loss, a husband, two sons, Harry and Thomas, and one daughter, Laura. The deceased was a kindly christian lady and will be greatly missed in the community where she was a great power for good. The interment will take place Friday at Lewisburg.

Will Sawdust Kill Fish?

Is sawdust injurious to fish? Fishermen believe it is. Last week a young man had a lot of suckers and some trout in a fishbox anchored in a stream about 40 rods below a sawmill which was in operation, the sawdust running into the stream. Next morning about a dozen suckers were found dead in the box. The morning following about as many more suckers and the trout were found dead. The sawdust floating into the box is believed killed the fish—the stuff gets into the gills of the fish and kills them it is alleged.

A Big Gain in Weight.

Elmer Royer, one of our practical farmers, sold a bull last Thursday to J. G. Dauberman, which tipped the scales at 1324 pounds. Elmer started to fatten this bull just sixty-eight days before he sold him. At that time he weighed 1070 pounds, and during the sixty-eight days, he added 254 pounds to the weight, a daily average gain of nearly four pounds. This is remarkable feeding during that time. The animal dressed 772 pounds.

Getting Pledges.

The Rev. W. E. Detweiler, financial agent of the Central Pennsylvania College at New Berlin, makes a gratifying report, that he has already been pledged more than the one-half of the $100,000 endowment fund that he started to raise for the institution only one month ago, just after the conference of the Evangelical church. This college educates for the ministry of that faith.

A CARD!

To The Public.

A Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

Selling well made, new, stylish, honest goods at honest prices since I have established, has been my aim, delight and principle.

A child is as much at home with us as a grown person, pays the same price that a father and mother would pay. We try, we think we are square dealers. The people of Centre county know our motto which is "Fairness and Squareness" and "Money Back for the Asking." You are not asked a dozen questions when you desire to have your money back, but with a smiling face we cheerfully refund your money. Our policy is and ever will be, "Failure with Honesty" rather than success with perfidy. We have lived here and expect to remain here as good liberal citizens, and advocate and adhere to the policy of honest goods at honest "Live and let live" prices. Its our style of laying a solid foundation so that it will not fall and crumble but stand by us in the future. After reading the above statements you certainly will come to the conclusion that

The Best Plan to Adopt in Buying

Is to come here and see that everything is just as represented. We have more at stake in every transaction than the buyer. Goods must satisfy, wear well, in fact give satisfaction in every detail. Otherwise they would reflect on us.
