

SUPPLEMENT.

The King and the Republican.
Among stories of the late King Humbert told by the Roman correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung we read:
"He is not like a king," said the president of a half socialist trades union. "He is like an honest private man who finds himself accidentally upon a throne."
Another who was elected as spokesman for his trade union on account of his bold republicanism said to the king, "Majesty, I am a republican, but I confess that if the republic were established I should use all my influence to get you elected as our first president." "My dear advocate," said King Humbert, "would it not be better for our fatherland if you were to take me as I am?"
Another after coming from an audience with King Humbert said to his colleagues, "It is not half so difficult a matter to interview the king as it is to interview the principal of our firm."

Heartless Advice.
"My brain is on fire!" tragically exclaimed Mrs. Bobkins as she threw herself down upon the sofa.
"Why don't you blow it out?" absentmindedly replied Bobkins, deeply absorbed in the evening newspaper. And then he dodged a flying hairbrush.

Because the World Can't Help It.
"A true poet writes poetry because he can't help it."
"Oh, no; a true poet writes poetry because nobody can stop him."—Chicago Record.

A feature of the export business of the port last month was the unusually heavy shipment of apples abroad. The steamers sailing from Boston on the different lines took out 113,511 barrels, while last year the shipments amounted to 27,245 barrels for the same period.

What It Would Make.
It has been truly remarked that the logic of children is excellent, but that they lack experience. The following authentic anecdote, however, comes somewhat under the head of exceptions to that rule. A lady was giving a lesson in "concrete arithmetic" to her little boy.
"Now, supposing I give you a chocolate," she said, "and then another, how many would that make?"
"Two."
"And then supposing I gave you four more, what would that make?"
"It would make me very sick," was the wholly unexpected reply.

Morality.
On what is the whole of morality based? To live nobly and rightly in these five relations of life: Sovereign and subject, parent and child, husband and wife, elder and younger, brother and brother, friend and friend. To each of these belongs appropriate conduct. For a universal love of mankind without distinction of persons gives more to him to whom less is due and less to him to whom more is due.—Confucius' Law of Life.

A signal act of courtesy was the request of Bryan that all pictures of himself be removed from the windows of Lincoln, Neb., prior to the visit of Roosevelt, who spoke in that city Oct. 2. Contrast this with Roosevelt's persistent and undignified vilification of Bryan.

Just Like Other Men.
She—Which would you rather marry, the prettiest woman in the world or the homeliest?
He—The prettiest, of course. Why do you ask?
She—Merely to find out if you weren't just like all the other men.—Exchange.
