K.-retribution.—They have twins at that house across the street. "I am glad of it." "Why, what difference does it make to you?"

"The man who lives there is the same man who used to wake me at 5 o'clock every Sunday morning last summer with his infernal law mower."

A Conclusive Argument.—Think!—Do you think our Presidential campaigns are too long for the best interests of the country? Grabs!—Yes. For instance, you make a bet right after the nominations, and win or lose, you're out the interest on your money for three or four months.

The Gospel of Paying.

No matter how fast a man may make money, he owes it to society as well as to himself to be economical. Any young man who will live up to the following set of rules will get more genuine happiness out of life than his neighbor who violates them.

Out of every dollar earned save 25 cents. Save 75 cents if you can but never less than 25.

Be honest; always have the courage to tell the truth.

Don't depend on others. Even if you have a rich father, strike out for yourself.

Get up at a regular hour every morning and work until the things that are before you are finished. Don't drop what you have in hand because it is 5 o'clock.

Cultivate independence at the very outset.

Learn the value of money. Realize that it stands, when honestly made, as the monument to your value as a citizen.

Be jealous of your civic rights. Take a wholesome interest in public affairs, but do not let politics, or anything else, interfere with the rigid administration of your private duties. The state is made up of individuals.

Be clean and decent. Don't do anything that you would be ashamed to discuss with your mother.

Don't gamble.

Be circumspect in your amusements. In connection with amusements, I have never been able to understand why the young men of to-day deem the theatre an absolutely essential in seeking diversion.

An evening with a good book is, or ought to be, more satisfying to the young man of brains than an evening in a hall where a lot of make-believe characters are strutting up and down the stage, like children at a masquerade. When the human race reaches its highest mental development there will probably be no theatres.

Not a Suitable Reference.—"Of course, you quite understand that I shall call upon Mrs. Whiffer for your character," remarked Mrs. Taggerty to the girl she had just engaged.

"Certainly, m'm," replied the girl, "although I would rather you didn't, for Mrs. Whiffer is so eccentric that she is not always to be relied upon."

"In what way is she eccentric?"

"She insists that her husband is quite a model father and husband, and that her children have never caused her a moment's anxiety."

"H'm, not much in that."

"Then she says that she is perfectly content with one new dress and one new hat each season."

"H'm, she is eccentric, then?"

"And, finally, she has never attended a bargain sale, and says that the only things sold at them are the women who buy!"

"Oh, the woman's mad! I shan't trouble her for your character, you can come in when you like!"

Voorhees' Proposed Libel Law Endangers the Right of Every Publisher and Editor—John Mudrany Exonerates His Brother of a Crime—Witness Committed to Jail for Refusing to Testify—Keller's Arms Pulled From Sockets.

One of the bills introduced in the legislature and which attracted a great amount of attention was by Mr. Voorhees, of Philadelphia. It is an amendment to the present libel law, and is of gravest importance to every newspaper in the State. The proposed law is as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., that Section 1 of an act entitled "an act relating to libel and its punishment," approved the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven, which reads as follows:—

"Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., that in all criminal prosecutions or indictments for libel, if the matter charged as libelous is, in the opinion of the Court proper for public information, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury," be and the same is hereby amended, so as to read as follows:—

"Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., that in all criminal prosecutions and indictments for libel, if the matter charged as libelous is, in the opinion of the Court proper for public information and was published without malice, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; provided, however, before the defendant must prove to the satisfaction of the Court that the person affected was informed in writing of the intended publication and personally served with a copy thereof, unless he be a fugitive from justice, and given full opportunity to deny the truth thereof, and that the denial, if any be made was published at the same time, and together with the said matter charged as libelous."

Section 2. That Section 3 of said act, which reads as follows:—

"Section 3. In any civil action for libel the plea of justification shall be accepted as adequate when it is pleaded by the defendant that the publication is substantially true in every material respect and is proper for public information, and if such a plea be established to the satisfaction of the Court and jury there shall be no recovery. In no civil action for libel shall damages be awarded beyond just restitution for injury actually sustained," be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:—

Section 2.—In any civil action for libel the plea of justification shall be accepted as adequate, when it is pleaded by the defendant that the publication is proper for public information, is substantially true in every material respect, and was published without malice, and if such a plea shall be established to the satisfaction of the court and jury there shall be no recovery. Provided, however, that before said plea shall be accepted as adequate, and before any evidence shall be offered to the establishment thereof, the defendant must prove to the satisfaction of the court that the person affected was informed in writing of the intended publication, and personally served with a copy thereof, unless he be a fugitive from justice, and given full opportunity to deny the truth thereof, and that the denial, if any be made was published at the same time and together with the matter charged as libelous.

Section 3.—All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Lola Vernon, aged 15 years, the adopted daughter of William G. Vernon, was drowned in Crum Creek, near Swarthmore. With a number of other young people she had been skating when the ice gave way. Lynn Merritt and Foster Harrower, two boys, tried to save the girl. She caught hold of Merritt's foot and he was dragged into the water. Harrower grasped his companion and succeeded in keeping his head above the water until Henry Hanum and George Gawthrop came to the rescue with hockey sticks. Both boys were utterly exhausted when taken out, young Merritt not regaining consciousness for some time. The body of the drowned girl was recovered.

Mrs. Philip Shaffer, of Cherry township, rushed into a blazing building and saved her three children and husband from being burned to death at their home. A lamp exploded in a room on the first floor, and believing that she could extinguish the blaze, Mrs. Shaffer did not alarm the other members of the family, who were asleep up stairs, but started to carry water from a well and throw it on the flames. The fire soon gained great headway and Mrs. Shaffer finally desisted in her efforts and fought her way through the flames to the second floor, where she lowered the three children to the ground with bedcoats and then dragged her husband from the burning building.

John Mudrany and his brother, Stephen, were arraigned before Alderman Jones at Johnston on a charge of having murdered Stephen Szabo, a boarding-house keeper at Winbur, by beating him on the head with a jug. No sooner had the interpreter told John that he was charged with murdering Szabo, than he confessed the crime. "I am guilty," he said, "but my brother did not have anything to do with it."

Samuel Douglass, of Washington borough, rather than answer certain questions propounded by the Grand Jury preferred to go to jail. He was to testify in a liquor law violation case, but refused positively to answer vital questions. For his contempt of the Court he was placed in the custody of the Sheriff and remanded to jail.

Henry Keller, an employee at the Chalfant Paper Mill at Atglen, met with a horrible death. His coat caught in the machinery, and his body was drawn between two heavy rollers.

The New Century Post.

Is the editor in?" asked a long-haired youth, on a flying machine, outside a window at the thirty-second story.

"No," replied the janitor, "he declined a poem to-day."

"You don't mean it?"

"Fact; and the rejected dropped a dynamite bomb on the roof, just over his head. There's his hat, his pen-wiper, one shoe, and the remains of a creditor who was suing him for $10!"

The Last Resort.—Clara—He was heartbroken, desperate and ready for anything when I rejected him." Maude—What did he do? Clara—He said he was going to see you.

A CRY FOR HELP.

Result of a Prompt Reply.—Two Letters from Mrs. Watson, Published by Special Permission.—For Women's Eyes Only.

March 15, 1899.

TO MRS. PINKHAM, LYNN, MASS.:

"DEAR MADAM:—I am suffering from inflammation of the ovaries and womb, and have been for eighteen months. I have a continual pain and soreness in my back and side. I am only free from pain when lying down, or sitting in an easy chair. When I stand I suffer with severe pain in my side and back. I believe my troubles were caused by over work and lifting some years ago.

"Life is a drag to me, and I sometimes feel like giving up ever being a well woman; have become careless and unconcerned about everything. I am in bed now. I have had several doctors, but they did me but little good.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been recommended to me by a friend, and I have made up my mind to give it a fair trial.

"I write this letter with the hope of hearing from you in regard to my case."—MRS. S. J. WATSON, Hampton, Va.

November 27, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to acknowledge to you the benefit that your advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have done for me.

"I had been suffering with female troubles for some time, could not walk but a short distance, had terrible bearing down pains in lower part of my bowels, backache, and pain in ovary. I used your medicine for four months and was so much better that I could walk three times the distance that I could before.

"I am to-day in better health than I have been for more than two years, and I know it is all due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I recommend your advice and medicine to all women who suffer."—MRS. S. J. WATSON, Hampton, Va.

NERVOUS WOMEN

CURED BY Dr. Greene's NERVURA.

THE ceaseless drudgery of household cares is more than the strongest man could endure, and it is no wonder that women show the effects of work and worry.

Thousands of women in offices, shops, and factories break down in health under the strain and become weak, tired, nervous, and debilitated, tortured with female complaints, or racked by headache, neuralgia, backache, and kidney trouble.

Here lies the great strain upon the nervous systems of women. They have little or no rest; their life is one continual round of work, duties here, duties there, duties without number. What wonder that such women go to bed at night fatigued, and wake tired and unrefreshed in the morning!

What women need is that great strengthener and invigorator of womanhood, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy—that remedy which rebuilds health and strength, purifies and enriches the blood, gives strength and vigor to the nerves, and the strong vitality and energy to the system which will enable women to do their work and yet keep strong and well. It is this great medicine they need. Nothing else in the world can do its work.

MRS. M. D. PERKINS, of 100 G St., So. Boston, Mass., says:

"I was completely run down and could not eat, for the sight of food made me sick. I did not sleep at night and was tired in the morning as when I retired at night. My head and back ached all the time. I was completely exhausted if I tried to do my housework, and could not walk without being dizzy. I was extremely nervous and very weak."

"Then I began to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I cannot say enough in its praise. I have not felt so well for years as I do at the present time, thanks to this splendid remedy."

"I can now eat and sleep soundly, waking mornings strong and refreshed. I do my housework, which is now a pleasure instead of a burden as formerly. My weight has increased about twelve pounds in the last two months. I would recommend any one afflicted as I have been to use this wonderful remedy."

Dr. Greene Will Advise You Without Charge.

The benefit of Dr. Greene's special advice is at the disposal of every kindly woman, and it is well to write for it or call and see Dr. Greene at his office, 35 W. 14th St., New York City. Doing so may shorten the time required for recovery of full strength, and give information which will guide aright in the future. Absolute confidence is observed in all consultations, and no charge is made.
