STEWART WEBER WINS.

The $500 Cash Prize Won by Stewart Weber, of Aaronsburg.

Stewart Weber, of Aaronsburg, who is at present teaching school at that place, was granted the prize of $500 offered by the Reporter for the best sketch of Dr. Pattengill's Thursday afternoon talk at the recent teachers' institute on the "War of 1812". The article appears in another column and is published as written, the language, orthography, capitalization and punctuation being the writer's. The article is a creditable one, and its author is welcome to the money placed in Superintendent Gramley's hands.

Why there were not more efforts made on the part of school teachers to secure this little cash prize can best be answered by the teachers themselves. If the cash offered was too insignificant the Reporter is at fault. But that sum represents, on an average, almost one week's salary paid school teachers. The effort should not have required more than two or three hours' work on the part of any one. The subject was history from beginning to end, and any ordinarily prepared school teacher should be able to write up one or two columns on the war of 1812 had he or she never heard Dr. Pattengill's talk. The fault lies somewhere else. The cause, which need not be cited here, is one of the strongest reasons why the wages of the school teachers in Centre county should be increased.

CENTRE'S SHARE OF $500,000

School Appropriation Struck Off by Gov. Stone is $46,294.

When Centre county gets its full share of the $5,000,000 appropriated each year for school purposes it will be $23,147, or for the two years covered by the appropriation, $46,294, in addition to the warrants already issued. There is not the least doubt that each district in the county will be paid its full quota of appropriation before the April rains come. Other districts took early action and today they are jingling in the till their portion of the $500,000. Centre county will not long be behind.

The amount due the borough of Centre Hall, is $98.48—a plump little nest egg, isn't it?

Twenty-five years or more ago Mr. Porter went to Johnstown where he secured a position as bookkeeper in one of the large iron mills at that place which position he kept continuously until his death. The deceased was aged about fifty years and unmarried. When at the Old Fort hotel with his father, Mr. Porter was a conspicuous figure among the young people of Penna. Valley and Centre county, and many of those who have now reached middle life will recall the deceased with pleasant recollections. COUNTY GRANGE AT MILESBURG.

Friday Morning's Storm Lessened the Attendance, but Increased the Ardor.

The first regular quarterly meeting of Pomona Grange met at Bald Eagle Grange Hall Friday of last week. The storm of the preceding night, which had not spent its force on that morning deterred many patrons from being in attendance, but the meeting proved to be of particular interest to all present, and much of the business before the body was disposed of.

Worthy master of County Grange George Dale opened the meeting in regular form. The minutes of Secretary D. M. Campbell were read and approved, after which a recess for dinner was taken.

Mr. Lyman welcomed the members to Bald Eagle Grange Hall. He said all should be steady workers in the grange; that it was by attending all its sessions that patrons got the full benefit of the order. Mr. Eby responded.

Hon. L. Rhone offered a resolution to name a committee to prepare a memorial on the death of J. J. Musser, the treasurer of the order.

James A. Keller read the quarterly report of the fire insurance company, which was encouraging. The amount of insurance in the company is steadily increasing, and the rate kept among the lowest reported in the state.

By appointment of the Worthy Master Frank Musser was declared treasurer to fill the unexpired term of his father, J. J. Musser, deceased.

Col. Weaver read the report of a committee appointed to draft suitable blanks for reporting to the county grange the names of all subordinate grange members and other information, to be entered upon an especially prepared register kept by the secretary of the county grange. The prime idea of this register is to bring all members of subordinate granges within easy reach of the county grange for the dissemination of literature.

The picnic committee was reappointed for 1901. The treasurer of the committee, J. J. Arney, being absent the committee did not make a report.

A petition was read from Clearfield county asking the fire insurance company to eliminate from its regulations the clause which debar from insurance all buildings in which engines are located. A motion to strike out the clause referred to was lost. In Clearfield and Elk counties engines are largely used by farmers to cut feed and grind grain.

The chairman of the special institute committee, Hon. L. Rhone, made an elaborate report of the special institutes held in the various parts of Centre county. They were well attended and of the greatest interest.

Mrs. Bloom, lady assistant steward of the State Grange, and her husband, of Clinton county, were present.

Memorial services were held for J. J. Musser, deceased, the treasurer of County Grange. The committee on resolutions for the deceased, consisting of Hon. L. Rhone, Col. Weaver, and Mrs. Dale, made up their report which was read by Col. Weaver.

Resolved: That in the death of Brother Musser the Grange has lost a true friend and a long and faithful official with whom it was an honor to be associated.

That in his unwavering integrity, Christian deportment and gentle manly demeanor, his life was a model for our imitation.

That we extend to the family of the deceased brother our sincere sympathy and commend them to the protecting care of Him who has promised to be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.

That a copy of these proceedings be spread upon the minutes of this Pomona Grange and an engraved copy furnished to the family of the deceased.

Colyer.

Winter has come at last and everybody seems to enjoy it, for the sleigh bells are jingling in every corner.

E. M. Huyett has closed his stove mill on account of the cold snap.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Grove, Grace Grove and Annie Hockman were the guests of W. H. Meyer's on Sunday.

Miss Annie Huldaman is home from Bellefonte visiting her mother at this place.

Miss Savilla Creader intends leaving Mr. Kline this week, at whose place she was doing the housework. Mr. Kline needs help badly.

There will be lots of changing around in this section in the spring.

Anyone desiring to buy a property of 33 acres of land with all kinds of fruit and over 600 peach trees on the same, and good water that can be piped to the house, good buildings, etc., should apply to Henry Moyer.

The Colyer's Mills Band is about to have its band wagon remodeled. They intend having the seats changed and a new canopy top placed on it.

John Royer is still talking of going west this spring. Whether it will come to pass or not is hard to tell.

The Colyer negro is still about. He has charge of Mr. Huyett's engine digging these cold ditches.

Mrs. Frank Wright is slowly improving from her illness. Mrs. Henry Moyer is also improving.

Miss Nora Huldaman is at present in Bellefonte, where she intends to stay for some time.

THE SPINSTERS' CONVENTION.

A Large Audience Greeted the Maids of Uncertain Age.

The "Spinsters' Convention" held in Grange Arcadia, Saturday night under the auspices of the ladies' aid society of the Presbyterian church, was a grand success from every point of view, and the success from a financial standpoint was not the most insignificant—it was a $53.00 house, and netted the society something over $40.00.

But the convention! It was called to order by the President, Miss Flora Love, for the sole purpose of bringing the spinsters of uncertain age into more congenial relations with the marriageable male element. The centre of attraction, the one thing sought, was MAN. This body was not composed of the proverbial man hater, but quite the opposite, for their only desire was MAN.

The convention delegates were attired in silks, satins, etc., the costumes worn during the first half of the past century on social occasions, which had been carefully preserved by the thoughtful grandmother, and handed down to the present generation. The gowns in nearly every instance had been worn by a belle at some social gathering, but on the stage they looked odd—crazy—but not more so than will the frock of today fifty years hence. Those present at the convention were the president, Miss Flora Love; secretary, Miss Roxanna Brisbin; treasurer, Miss Grace Smith; Misses Jennie Odenkirk, Blanche Boal, Elsie Krise, Emma McCoy, Claire Kennedy, Anna Bartholomew, Edith Lutz, Savilla Rearick, Mrs. J. Q. A. Kennedy, Mrs. John Heckman, Mrs. W. O. Rearick, Mrs. J. T. Potter, Mrs. George Bushman, Mrs. F. W. Bradford, Mrs. Rose De Woodie, Mrs. S. W. Smith. Not contented with their station in life the spinsters, pretended and otherwise, availed themselves of an opportunity to enter Prof. Makeover's (Fred Christine) remedioscope, with his assistant, John Heckman, transformed them into handsome tads and lassies with accomplishments as varied as were their costumes in colors. The "madeovers" were Misses R-xanna Brisbin, Mary Rearick, Elsie Krise, Mabel Arney, Helen Hosterman, Emma Wolf, Claire Kennedy, Mary Kennedy, Helen Bartholomew, Messrs. Will Sandoe and Roy Rearick and Master Ross Bushman.

Polly Ann Pratt, in the person of Mrs. Rose De Woodie, was an important figure on the stage. She was the clown—every twinkle of the eye, every movement of her body and every word she spoke, was comical—and comical without an effort on her part.

While every one who took part did well—excellent—there were a few who are deserving of special praise. Notably among those were Miss Elsie Krise, and the Misses Bartholomew. Miss Krise represented the dress reform element of the spinsters. Her manners were easy and her performance on the guitar excellent. Miss Anna Bartholomew, who advocated the continuance of the maids' present costumes, is always welcomed by a Centre Hall audience, who know there is a good treat in store for them when she steps before the public.

Miss Helen Bartholomew's song, "Daisy, Tell My Fortune," was rendered in an exceptionally pleasing manner. Miss Bartholomew threw her whole soul into the song and acted as well as she sang.

The convention closed with a grand march in which all participated.

Much of the success of the entire affair is due Mrs. Schuyler, wife of the pastor of the Presbyterian church, who acted as critic during the rehearsals and eliminated all objectionable language, costumes and performance.

A charter was granted the Westmont Coal Company, Bellefonte; capital, $1000.

Clyde Condo penetrated his foot with the tines of a fork and consequently is nursing that member.

James W. Runkle, the new landlord of the Centre Hall hotel, with his wife and daughter, Miss Laura, arrived this morning, and will at once take charge of the hotel.

A party of young people from town greatly enjoyed a sledding party Wednesday evening. They drove to Potters Mills hotel, took supper, kept time with the orchestra and returned home before morning.
