Will Build a New House.

James Alexander is having lumber sawed with which he expects to build a new house on his farm at Earlystown, with a view of dividing the farm into two parts. Those who know Abner Alexander and Miss Jennie Odenkirk will begin to calculate who will occupy the new house.

Got an Appointment.

Stewart Weber, teacher of the grammar school at Aaronsburg, has just received a government appointment in the railway mail service as a postal clerk; he left Tuesday afternoon for Lock Haven, from thence to Tyrone, where he will be assigned to duty. Editor Raine, of the Millheim Journal will finish his term of teaching Mr. Weber is the young man who recently secured the $5.00 cash prize given by the Reporter.

Miss Gould As A Giver.

Among those woman who have come into recent note by careful management of great wealth, is Miss Helen Miller Gould, daughter of Jay Gould and sister-in-law of the extravagant Count de Castellane. Miss Gould's work for the soldiers and sailors of the Spanish war is still fresh in the memory. Much that is familiar regarding her gifts and her methods of giving is told by Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton in the March Delineator, Miss Gould is one who dislikes notoriety and therefore, one whose gifts often go unrecorded.

Creasy Has Grangers' Bills. A revenue bill which allows the counties to retain about $3.000,000 annually of the taxes now collected by them for the State was prepared by the committee, and will be introduced in the House to day Thursday, by Mr. Creasy, of Columbia. He will present at same time a petition from the State Grange urging the Legislature to enact a law to make up the revenue which it is proposed to divert from the State Treasury by taxing such subjects which, the Grangers claim, do not now bear their equitable share of State taxation.

Linden Hall Convention.

The musical convention at Linden Hall closed on Friday evening with a grand concert, says the Linden Hali correspondent. The house was crowded and every one seemed to enjoy the evening. Although the weather was very cold and the roads drifted so as to be almost impassable, the attendance during the entire week was good. The proceeds amounted to about sixty dollars, which after the expenses were paid left a nice balance for the i enefit of the singing class. Prof. Crawford instructor, and Ed. L. Bartholomew, organist, proved efficient in the posi-Efons they occupied.

Before the alarm was heeded and assistance came, the hardware store room as any concern in the country, large | was filled with smoke, and it was impossible for any one to enter.

The office of the Centre Hall foundry company was in one corner of the building, and was separated by a brick wall. This was opened and all papers and the safe taken out before any damage was done.

The hose carriages arrived in good time, but the inflammable matter in the cellar was burning at a terrific rate Hospital at Philipsburg. and the flames had crept up the side of the building inside the weather boarding. The building and its contents were doomed. Attention was then given surrounding property, which was that of Dr. J. F. Alexander, D. J. Meyer, W. B. Mingle, Esq , Mrs. McCulley, and Miss Emily Alexander. The wind came directly from the west and was tavorable. The McCulley house, Miss Emily Alexander's and Dr. Alexander's houses were on fire several times, with that disease last week, and died but each time was extinguished. The house occupied by Merchant W. H. Mever was also on fire, as were also : half dozen stables. It took close watching to confine the flames to the original building. SUING FOR SUPPORT.

Sensational Story Circulated in the West

Relative to a Pine Grove Mills Resident. William Harpster, of Freeport, Ill., furnished the following information Miss Grace Lee entertained a num- to the Reporter, relative to a former resident of Pine Grove Mills, who suddenly disappeared nearly half a cen-

By the filing of a suit in the McLean county, Illinois, circuit court by Mrs. Elizabeth Erb, of Pine Grove Mills, Pa., against William Elbert, of Mc-Lean county, for separate support, it is expected the mystery surrounding the disappearance of William Erb from stricken with apoplexy Wednesday his home in Pennsylvania in the fall of 1854 will be solved.

Neighbors and acquaintances of Mrs. Erb have been puzzled nearly half a century over the strange disappearance of Erb, and although one man who was tried for his murder was found not guilty, the accusation against him was still entertained because it was the only plausiole theory advanced. Now people have changed their minds, for the plaintiff declares investigation has shown that her husband was not murdered, as was supposed, but willfully leserted her, went west, changed his name, married again and settled down as a farmer. William Elbert, she says, is the man, and she is seeking to com-el him to support her in her old age. Great interest is centered in the case, which will come up for trial next month, for Elbert's reply to her charges will not be made known until then: If it is found Elbert is the husband of Mrs. Erbit not only will solve the nystery of his strange disappearance nearly half a century ago, but it will tispel the shadow of a crime that was sung over a citizen of Pine Grove dills, ever since he was on trial chargd with the murder of Erb. It is one of the most remarkable cases ever filed a that city, and the story connected with it is interesting.

According to the allegations of the plain iff, she was married to William Erb, at Pine Grove Mills, Pa., Decemer 11, 1849. For five years the couple ived happily. They had a good home. Erb was prosperous, three children were born to them and there was nothng to mar the serenity of their lives. All this came to a sudden ending in ne fall of 1854, when Erb, the husand and father, disappeared. Without warning and with absolutely no cown motive he left home and family and never returned. Suspicion arose that he had met with foul play. Searching parties were organized and the neighborhood was scoured in the tope of finding trace of the missing man. Tue wife's conviction that he had been murdered was shared in by all. Erb's family was well to do, and which would lead to information reabouts. The search for him meantime was continued, but was not succ ssful. Finally it was dropped and the people were convinced he had been disposed of in some way which never would be

One day suspicion was directed agaiust one of Erb's neighbors. He was arrested and charged with the crime. There was nothing against him to speak of; yet the charge was a sensational one, and the state placed' him on trial, although the evidence was nainly circumstantial. The prisoner ed a verdict to his favor. His life previous to this time had been a misera a suitable selection in the west. ole one, and the stigma and long conduement in jail combined to wreck his health and spirits.

It is alleged by the plaintiff that the age. She began an investigation and claims to have deserting her he went directly to Mc-William Elbert began life anew. He started in as a reuter, but saved enough to buy a farm of forty acres about lifteen miles east of Bloomington. He married and two children were born of this union. One of these conducts his farm. His second wife, according to the plaintiff, died several years ago, but he fluds much happiness in the company of his children and grandchildren. Elbert is a man seven y years old.

The above was submitted to a prominent citizen of Furguson township and inquiry made as to its truth. The paragraph relative to an arrest having been made and a trial had before the Centre County Courts is NOT true, according to his statement. It appears also that Erb, some four or five years ago, returned to Pine Grove Mills, of Coburn. He was nearried to Miss The Thomases are still doing carpenter which at that time dispelled any suspicion that might have been entertained Burt K. Drive. C. Holmes, of State College, started Started Saturday night in a sleigh with his sister, Miss Mable Holmes, and a friend, Miss Miller, to drive from the College to Spruce Creek. When in the neighborhood of Pine Grove Mills the sleigh broke through a huge snow drift; the occupants were thrown out, and the horse ran away.

The animal, after running a halfmile overtook a sled in which was Amos Koch and three children. The runaway horse made one spring and lauded with all fours in the sled right among the children, but fortunately without tramping one offthem. The children and driver at once tumbled out into the snow, leaving the horse the only occupant. The horses hitched to the sled took fright and ran away,
