THE NATION DISHONORED.

The Senate has voted to break the promise to the Cuban people, says the North American, contained in the Teller resolution of 1898. That resolution affirmed the people of the island to be of right free and independent and volunteered the following pledge: That the United States hereby disclaims any intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island except for the pacification thereof, and asserts its determination when that is accomplished to leave the government and control of the island to its people.

Cuba is pacified, and it is our duty to ourselves and the Cubans to withdraw, but the Senate, instead of ordering that action, has demanded acceptance of conditions by the Cubans which they could not accept and be independent.

If a nation is dishonored when it breaks faith, coolly, openly and for the sake of material advantage, then the United States stands before the world dishonored.

For such perfidy, for such base repudiation of a pledge which the President who signed the Teller resolution has declared to be of the "highest honorable obligation," there can be no excuse offered that will not emphasize the national disgrace.

THE RECORD.

"The United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island, except for the pacification thereof, and asserts its determination when that is completed to leave the government and control of the island to its people."—Resolution of Congress adopted April 20, 1898.

"The pledge contained in this resolution is of the highest honorable obligation, and must be sacredly kept."—President McKinley's annual message to Congress, December 5, 1899.

"Cuban Independence.—To Cuba independence and self-government were assured in the same voice by which war was declared, and to the letter this pledge shall be performed."—Platform Republican National Convention, June, 1890.

"The President is hereby authorized to leave the government and control of the island of Cuba to its people as a government shall have been established in said island under a consideration which, either as a part thereof or in an ordinance appended thereto, shall define the future relations of the United States with Cuba," granting to the United States supervision of the Cuban republic's finances; the right to intervene in Cuban affairs when we see fit; the relinquishment of title to the Isle of Pines; coaling and naval stations "to enable the United States to maintain the independence of Cuba," at points to be selected by the President.—Amendment to army bill, passed by Congress March 1, 1901, approved by President McKinley March 2, 1901.

14,336 BILLS.

The congress was in session 197 days, which is less than any congress for years. The following is given of bills, acts, etc.
Number of bills, 14,336; number of reports, 3,000; public acts, 345; private acts, 1,250; total acts, 1,595; number of joint resolutions, 395.

The features of the Sunday sessions of Congress was the vote of the House defeating the proposition to appropriate $5,000,000 for the Louisiana Produce Exposition at St. Louis and smaller sums for the Pan-American Exposition. Representative Hepburn made a fierce attack on the river and harbor appropriation bill, which he said frittered away millions of public money.

It is rumored that President McKinley will veto the river and harbor bill on the ground that its appropriations, aggregating $50,000,000, are excessive.

Our exports to China diminished over 50 per cent. during the seven months ended January 31, owing to the war.

James B. Nicholson, secretary of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania Independent Order of Odd Fellows, died at his home, 1542 North Seventh Street, Philadelphia, Monday. He was 81 years old. Mr. Nicholson was one of the most prominent Odd Fellows in the country. For nearly a half-century his life was devoted to the interests of the order.

Headache often results from a disordered condition of the stomach and constipation of the bowels. A dose or two of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct these disorders and cure the headache. Sold by Mrs. J. H. Keller, Linden Hall; J. F. Smith, Centre Hall.

more earnestly dedicate ourselves to the task upon which we have rightly entered. We will be consoled, too, with the fact that opposition has confronted every onward movement of the republic from its opening hour until now, but without success. The republic has marched on and on and its every step has been marked with freedom and humanity. We are undergoing the same ordeal as did our predecessors nearly a century ago, and we are following the course they blazed. They triumphed. Will their successors falter and plead excuses and impotency, as the nation surely after 125 years of achievement for mankind will not now surrender our equality with other peoples and our fundamental and essential nationality.

No Grand March at Inaugural Ball.
The culminating event of the inaugural festivities was the inaugural ball, held last night in the vast auditorium of the pension office, with men and women distinguished in every walk of life touching elbows, dancing and mingling with the plain American citizen. As a spectacular event it was unparalleled in the history of inaugural balls, in the sumptuousness of arrangement, in the bewildering splendor of decorations and of marvelous electrical effects and in the countless throngs taking part in the spectacle.

The United States marine band and an orchestra of over a hundred pieces were stationed at one end of the hall, and for an hour before the arrival of the presidential party played patriotic airs.
The presidential party arrived at 10:15 o'clock. They were preceded by a glittering array of officers in full uniform, and were escorted to the private offices of Commissioner Evans, which had been lavishly decorated. Senator and Mrs. Hanna, Lieutenant General and Mrs. Miles, several justices of the supreme court, with their wives, and a number of the cabinet circle joined the party up stairs. The crowds on the main floor had been pushed back to make room for the grand march, and the band was ready to break into the opening strains of the march from "Tannhauser." But word came that Mrs. McKinley was indisposed and that the president would remain by her side. The march consequently was abandoned. The band struck up Strauss' "Blue Danube," and the first regret of the assemblage at missing the grand march, with the president and the first lady of the land at its head, gave way before the gayety on the ball room floor. Vice President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived about the time the president came in. After paying their respects to the president and holding an informal levee amid the groups of governors, officers, senators and distinguished officials the vice president and his wife proceeded to the ball room floor.

Mrs. McKinley's indisposition was of brief duration, and soon she was able to join the president and the brilliant assemblage in an embowered box overlooking the gay throngs below, where they were joined by Vice President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The president occupied a seat at the right, near the rail, with Mrs. McKinley by his side. To their left sat the vice president and wife, while near the president was Governor Odell, of New York, and grouped further back were Major General Corbin, Admirals Bradford and Crowninshield, Secretary Root, Justices Harlan and Gray, Senator Lodge, Governor Stone, of Pennsylvania, and many ladies of the cabinet, army, navy and official set.

The President's Inaugural Address.
My Fellow Citizens: When we assembled here on the 4th of March, 1897, there was great anxiety with regard to our currency and credit. None exists now. The ordinary receipts of the government are sufficient to meet the current obligations of the government. Now they are sufficient to pay the ordinary expenses of the government. Now I have the satisfaction to announce that the congress just closed has reduced taxation to a sum of $3,000,000. Then there was deep solicitude because of the long depression in our manufacturing, mining, agricultural, mercantile industries and the consequent distress of our laboring population. Now there is a revival of production and activity, labor is well employed, and American products find good markets at home and abroad.

Our diversified productions, however, are increasing in such unprecedented volume as to admonish us of the necessity of still further enlarging our foreign markets by broader commercial relations. For this purpose reciprocal trade agreements with other nations should be liberal spirit be carefully cultivated and promoted.

The national verdict of 1896 has for the most part been executed. Whatever remains unfulfilled is a continuing obligation resting with undiminished force upon the executive and the congress, but fortunate as our condition is, its permanence can only be assured by sound business methods and strict economy in national administration and legislation. We should not permit our great prosperity to lead us to reckless extravagance in business or profligacy in public expenditures. While the congress determines the objects and the sum of appropriations, the officials of the executive departments are responsible for honest and faithful disbursement, and it should be their constant care to avoid waste and extravagance.

Four years ago we stood on the brink of a war without the people knowing it and without any preparation or effort at preparation for the impending peril. I did all that in honor could be done to avert war, but without avail. It became inevitable, and the congress at its first regular session, with a view to providing money in anticipation of the crisis and in preparation to meet it. It came. The result was signally favorable to American arms and in the highest degree honorable to the government. It imposed upon us obligations from which we cannot escape and from which it would be dishonorable to seek to escape. We are now at peace with the world and it is my earnest prayer that if differences arise between us and other powers they may be settled by peaceful arbitration and that hereafter we may be spared the horrors of war.

Entrusted by the people for a second time with the office of president, I enter upon its administration appreciating the great responsibilities which attach to this renewed honor and commission, promising to administer the new estate with their faithful discharge and reverently invoking for my guidance the direction and favor of Almighty God. I should shrink from the duties this day assumed if I did not feel that in their performance I should have the co-operation of the wise and patriotic men of all parties.

Strong hearts and helpful hands are needed, and, fortunately, we have them in every part of our beloved country. We are reunited. Sectionalism has disappeared. Division on public questions can no longer be traced by the war maps of 1861. These old differences less and less obscure the judgment. Exaltation and less demand the thought and quicken the conscience of the country, and the responsibility for their presence as well as for their righteous settlement rests upon us all—no more upon me than upon you.

The Extension of Liberty.
The American people, entrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go, and they reject as mistaken and unworthy the doctrine that we lose our own liberties by securing the enduring foundations of liberty to others. Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension, and our sense of justice will not abate under tropics suns in distant seas. As heretofore, so hereafter will the nation demonstrate its ability to administer the new estate which events devote upon it, and in the fear of God will take occasion by the hand and make the bounds of freedom wider yet. If there are those among us who would make our way more difficult, we must not be deterred, but the

A Good Cough Remedy for Children.
"I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says E. P. Moran, a well known and popular baker, of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold by Mrs. J. H. Keller, Linden Hall; J. F. Smith, Centre Hall.

A Change of Holidays.
Senator Snyder, of Chester county, has introduced a bill in the legislature abolishing the public holiday on February 12th, Lincoln's Birthday, and providing that the second Monday in August be made a public holiday, and that it be known as "Lincoln's Commemoration Day." The object of the bill is to have Lincoln's birth and the emancipation of the slaves commemorated on the same day.

Remarkable Cures of Rheumatism.
From the Vindicator, Rutherfordton, N. C.
The editor of the Vindicator has had occasion to test the efficacy of Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice with the most remarkable results in each case. First, with rheumatism in the shoulder from which he suffered excruciating pain for ten days, which was relieved with two applications of Pain Balm, rubbing the parts afflicted and realizing instant benefit and entire relief in a very short time. Second, in rheumatism in thigh joint, almost prostrating him with severe pain, which was relieved by two applications, rubbing with the liniment on retiring at night, and getting up free from pain. For sale by Mrs. J. H. Keller, Linden Hall; J. F. Smith, Centre Hall.

CELERY KING
NATURE'S CURE
It Makes Restful Sleep.

Sleeplessness almost invariably accompanies constipation and its manifold attendant evils—nervous disorders, indigestion, headache, loss of appetite, etc. To attempt to induce sleep by opiates is a serious mistake, for the brain is only benumbed and the body suffers. Celery King removes the cause of wakefulness by its soothing effect on the nerves and on the stomach and bowels.

Celery King cures Constipation and Nerve, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Diseases. Sold by J. F. Smith, Centre Hall; F. E. Wieland, Linden Hall; G. H. Long, Spring Mills.
