LETTER FROM ILLINOIS.

Centre County People in Stephenso County, Who are Known to Readers.

A kind "subscriber" sends news about Stephenson county people, who were formerly from this county. Prospering, prospering, prospering, that's what their friends and acquaintances will be glad to hear.

Emanuel McCool farmer, came here from Spring Mills, in 1885, engaged in farming, worked hard, and was economical, and now owns one of the best farms in Oneco township of 190 acres. The family consists of his wife, two sons, William and Wallace. They are good citizens and neighbors, held in high es eem by all who

A A. Krape-Born near Millheim came here in his early youth with his parents, William Krape and wife. The Prof. as he is familiarly known, has served two terms as county superintendent of schools in Stephenson county. He is also president of the Dixon Assembly Association and is a very popular man; is a leader in church work, and a very enthusiastic Free Mason and Odd Fellow.

Thomas Tate, from near Bellefonte, came to this country about twelve years ago and has been successful. He first worked as a farm hand, and now owns a fine livery outfit at Orangeville; honest and upright in all his dealings and has the confidence of his neighbors and the traveling public; his horses and rigs are all first-class.

Benjamin Wieland came from Linden Hall in an early day, engaged in farming and made a success of it. He is now over eighty years old; his wife died about six years a to and be now makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Harry Hale, on their farm near Orangeville. The old gentleman is quite feeble owing to old age; in his younger days he was a useful citizen and

H. W. Hartzell, editor of the Orangeville Cour- and have their lecture rooms done up. ier, came here from Jacksonville, Pa. He is a son of Rev. George P. Hartzell, who at one time was the pastor of the German Reformed church at Jacksonville, but is now located at Liscomb, Iowa. The Courier is a live paper and has a large circulation. The editor is a Democrat and a hustler, and whatever he undertakes is well done, if within the reach of his two hundred and fifty pounds averdupois, and is held in high esteem by his neighbors and wherever known.

Mrs. Eilert, better known as g rand-mama Eilert, came from Haines township, Centre county in an early day. She is a sister of Mrs. James L. Evans, of Spring Mills, is now in her ninety seventh year, but does not seem to suffer from the infirmities of old sge, her mind being bright and clear. Physically she is as active as many who claim to enjoy good health not half so old. She makes her home with her son Thomas, who lives at Dakota, Ill.

John Candy, farmer near Rock Grove, 'son of Levi Candy, came out here from Hublersburg about forty years ago with his family, and many of the older people of Nittany Vall y will remember the Candy's. They were good people, industrious, honest in their dealings with their fellow men. The writer was very well acquainted with Levi while in the east.

William Dunlap, carpenter, son of Jesse Dunlap who was also a carpenter, came west while a young man, lives in Freeport and is foreman of a gang of men employed by the I. C. R. R. Company, and is considered a very reliable man by said company. He is sent with his men to do work along said R. R. line all over the county, especially to the south. Will is a whole souled jolly fellow and respected by all who know him.

Daniel Meyers, a wealthy retired farmer, came west from Repersburg, Pa., and now lives at Dakota. He is a leading citizen of his neighborhood; is a brother to ex-County superintendent of schools, Henry Meyers.

James Conley, farmer near Freeport, a son of John Conley, near Centre Hall, came west a few years ago. For some time he was engaged variously at honorable employment in the above said city. Being of a very amoitious nature, and having a desire to settle down, he married a very amiable lady, went to farming and is doing well, indeed he is prosperous, and has a noble wife to encourage him. She is a woman who is not afraid to carry her part along the path of life No fault to find with James

Peter Wolf, brother of John Wolf, of Sprucetown, came west in an early day, and by economy and industry ac-umulated considerable wealth, is now located at Dakota, Ill., where he is enjoying the fruits of his labor; he is a fine man, a good citizen and is highly respected by his neighbors.

George Smith, Dakota, Ill., came west some years ago and run a blacksmith shop for several years, afterward opened a hardware store, and with it an undertaking establishment, and is prospering, and owns considerable property in the village. His father, Joseph Smith, of near Penn Hall, makes his home with George. Both are men well to do and merit the respect of their Orangeville, Ill.
