At the 'Phone. Maud Mullet on a summer's day, Called "Number, please" to earn her pay. B fore her, numbers, printed small, Fell down when any one would call. The Judge took down his office 'phone, And made to Maud his wishes known, Said he, "I'll ask you just once more, For four-eleven forty-four." Said Maud, as mild as summer seas, 'What number did you ask for, please?" Said be, "I've told you twice before, It's four-eleven forty-four.'

Said Maud, and you could hear her smile, "Just hold the 'phone a little while." A weary interval ensued, The wire hummed an interlude. And broken bits of talk came o'er The 'phone, and made the waiter sore. The wishbone shaped receiver book, He seized upon and wildly shook, Till Maudie's voice he heard once more, "What number are you waiting for?" The Judge responded with a roar, "It's four-eleven forty-four." Screnely Maud made answer then, "That line is busy; call again." The Judge had business late that day,

And so he merely walked away.

And this is what he sadly said:

But as he walked he shook his head,

"Of all the words of tongue or pen,

The d-dest are, 'Busy; call again."

Next Monday, the fifteenth, the trout season opens. If the weather is favorable the streams will be lined with fishermen, and some great stories will be told about the speckled beauties, how they missed such a nice one, all the big ones will get away for them. Who will come home with the greatest number of trout? Not the most in weight but in number.

Caught a Dreadful Cold.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its mer-its." For sale by Mrs. J. W. Keller, Linden Hall; J. F. Smith, Centre Hall.
