Reporter Supplement

In this issue of the Reporter will be found a supplement. If it is not carefully perused, the reader will miss valuable reading and advertising matter.

The Wide, Wide World.

The title of this periodical truthfully represents its scope. Its reading matter is as varied as the world is wide. The illustrations are superb. It is ideal in many respects and should be read by young and old.

Historical Notes.

The first installment of historical notes by Mr. J. D. Murray appears in this issue of the Reporter. It is predicted that the historical columns will contain much matter never hereto- will be placed in the White Oak Flat fore put into print, and that the notes will be carefully read. It will require several weeks before the historian reaches Centre Hall proper.

Garrity's Stream Stocked.

Station agent F. W. Bradford Saturday morning received twelve cans of trout from the state hatchery. The little beauties were promptly taken to the Seven Mountain trout stream and carefully distributed. The cans each contained about one thousand fish, measuring in length from three-quarters to one and one-half inches.

Boy Drowned.

Two boys named Marshall Cunningham and Frank Gardner, of Renovo, built a raft of logs and started down the river. After going a short distance the logs parted and the boys fell into the river. Gardner was rescued by men who happened to be near by. The other lad went to the bottom and although grappling and dynamite firing were resorted to, the body could not be recovered.

Neighbors Arbitrate.

The suit brought by Earnest Hess against Ezra S. Tressler to recover a alance claimed on a horse sale, was eft to arvitration and satisfactorily adusted to both parties. The ca-e was rought before Justice W. B. Mingle, who persuaded the principals to take he course they did. The arbitrators ere Messrs. John Fortney, Boalsurg; James A. Keller and E. M. #### FIRE ECHOES

Linden Hall Business Enterprises Will be

J. H. Ross, who lost heavily by the flouring mill burning at Linden Hall, stated in the presence of the writer, that it was his purpose to erect a structure forty by fifty feet in dimensions, two and one-half stories in height above the basement. The mill will be fitted up with the latest improved roller process flour machinery, manufactured by the Sprout, Waldron

& Co., Muncy, Pa. Work on the foundation of the new structure will be commenced as soon as possible. The gable end wall of the old stone structure was toppled over last week. The work was performed with considerable difficulty. It was first attempted to push the wall over, but that was impossible with the force of men at hand. It was then decided to undermine it, and after working for a considerable length of time and at great peril, the wall was weakened and finally cast. Mrs. J. W. Keller's store front is about completed. The entire front is newly weather boarded. The story told by witnesses and the fire marks indelibly stamped upon the store building, emphatically praise the bravery and "sticktoativeness" of the firefighters who gathered early Tuesday morning, March 7, to perform just such a feat if it would be possible.

Any mention of note of Linden Hall would be incomplete without a word from Daniel Hess, who located at that place some forty years ago and engaged in business. The rest of the story of Mr. Hess' business success is well known to the Reporter readers. He is now in his eighty-third year; transacts his own business entirely; reads readily and does his corresponding without the aid of eye glasses. Mr. Hess later will come in for a chapter in Mr. Murray's history of Centre Hall and surrounding country.
