BANDS FOR PAN-AMERICAN.

Their Music Will Be a Great Feature of the Exposition at Buffalo, Arrangements have already been made for the appearance at the Pan-American Exposition of some of the most famous bands of the American Continent. Throughout the season, from May 1 to Nov. 1, concerts will be given daily in various parts of the Exposition grounds by these bands, and the variety of musical entertainment the organizations engaged is Sousa's Band, which is known wherever there are lovers of music and whose suc-Foreman.

The most notable achievement in the history of international events was perhaps the triumphal tour made by Sousa and his band through Europe, extending from April to September, 1900. It was 22 years since an American band had been heard on the European Continent, and so emphatic was the success of the American conductor and composer that the tour became a series of ovations throughout France, Germany, Belgium and Holland. It was the official band at the Paris Exposi-

The Mexican Government Mounted Band has been engaged to give concerts during the Exposition.

Fanciuilli's Seventy-first Regiment Band of New York has been engaged for a series of concerts during the season. This band has also a great reputation for its rendition of military music, and it followed Sousa's Band in the ncerts at Manhattan Reach.

NIO ONE PRETENDS TO CRITICISE the supreme court of the United States for delay in announcing a decision. It would be impertinent to do so. Still, so long a time has elapsed since the Porto Rico case was argued, it is not strange there is much comment on the fact that the supreme court still holds back. Reviewing the facts of the matter, the Washington "Post" points out that the Porto Rican act was passed more than two years ago. It was based on the theory that the constitution does not follow the flag; that our new insular acquisitions are not under the constitution; not integral parts, but colonial dependencies of the United States. That theory has shaped our policy toward all of those acquisitions. It was opposed by some of the brainiest statesmen and jurists in the Republican party and by the solid opposition to that party. It was the "paramount issue" of the presidential campaign. But in spite of all opposition it has been the Government's policy for more than two years. Meanwhile, cases have been pending in the Federal courts-most of the time in the supreme court-involving the validity of the Porto Rican act, and, consequently, the constitutionality of the Government's insular policy.

That is a fair statement of the situation, and of the momentous consequences that hang on the deferred decision. If the court sustains the Democratic contention—the view entertained by the late Benjamin Harrison, by George F. Edmunds, and a number of Republican congressmen-there can be no duty laid on any of the products of our islands, nor can our immigration laws be applied to Filipinos or Porto Ricans. And if such a detestable decision is made many leading Republicans have advised that we abandon the Philippines. About Porto Rico it does not make so much difference. But there will be a tremendous crash in things political should the supreme court decide that the constitution follows the flag.

EX-SENATOR WADE HAMPTON, of South Carolina, is a poor man, after years of service to his State, the Confederacy and the United States; but he is not for sale. Senator McLaurin, late Democrat, who seems to have been vested by the President with the control of the Federal patronage in South Carolina, it is reported, tendered the postoffice at Columbia to General Hampton. It is worth $3,500 a ly treated as soon as this cough apyear, but Hampton emphatically declined what was in effect a bribe. He replied, according to a Columbia dispatch to the New York "Tribune," that he "could accept nothing from that source, and the people of South Carolina should know by this time that I cannot be bought." From the McLaurin standpoint this must be accounted most unaccountable and shocking.

NWHAT TINY PINWHEELS the world revolves. There were Pennsylvanians before Quay, from Penn and Franklin down, and this was a great Commonwealth always, grand in its natural resources and the sturdy, industrious and enterprising character of its people. But the gospel preached at the Quay banquet in Philadelphia of the day was the formal "weighingwas that the progress of the State, in all the avenues of wealth, power, education and benevolence, was the sole work of the Quayites in politics and office and Quayism as a governing principle in administration and legislation. This was simply absurd. Quayism and all that it implies is discredited with the intelligence and morality of the State. It has degraded Pennsylvania in the roll of State, and made of the good old Commonwealth a scoffing and a byword. It has been repudiated time and again at home, and its enormities have so disgusted even the Republican party that it has been split into fragments by crimes it could no longer stomach or endure. Around the banquet tables in Philadelphia and in the Legislature at Harrisburg, with each succeeding one more degrading and offensive than its predecessor, we have exhibits of its personality that settle the question that it is unworthy even of confidence or respect. This is the a shot gun, the elder Hoffner went to universal opinion of one party, and it is largely shared by the other.

Of all the cool assumptions put forth at Philadelphia by Quay himself and his admirers was the brazen idea that the progress of Pennsylvania in wealth, manufactures, commerce, education and philanthropy was due to Quayism in politics and government. The enterprise and statesmanship of capital, the industry and ingenuity of labor, the kindly influences of humanity and Christianity were all absorbed as the mere promptings of Quayism in politics. The great body of the people were left out, and all that was good centered in a political machine that for audacity, corruption and downright knavery is without parallel in American politics. If Quayism, as we now see it tory. Round-trip tickets, good going in legislation and administration, is the capsheaf of Pennsylvania statesmanship, God save the Commonwealth.

> THE DEMAND FOR SUCH a change in our tariff policy as would remove the inducement to build up an export trade at the expense of the home consumer is not by any means confined to any one political party or to partisan jonrnals. The following plain talk on the subject is from the non-partisan "Engineering News." It says:

> The great bulk of the rolling mills of the country, including those best fitted to engage in international trade, are under the control of a single huge corporation and if it continues selling at reduced prices to the foreign purchaser while maintaining a higher price to the home consumer, the tendency will be to increase our exports of rolling mill products at the expense of our export of more highly finished goods. It may be said that in some of its departments, such as bridges, wire and tinplate, the United States Steel Corporation itself turns out its product in a highly finished state. Admitting the truth of this, it is nevertheless the case that its products form the raw material for hundreds of small manufacturers, and that a discrimination against them in favor of their foreign competitors is unwise and injurious to the export trade. This is not a theoretical view of the case by any means. It is the practical condition which is now confronting manufacturers in a hundred lines; and the demand for relief from it is insistent.

WE GET SOME IDEA of the juvenile criminal population from a report made to the National conference of Charities and Corrections at Washington by C. D. Hillies, of Lancaster, O. At the close of the century there were in the reformatories and houses of refuge of the country, exclusive of the District of Columbia, Montreal and Utah, 11,980 boys and from the same institutions, except Nebraska, 15,006 boys have gone forth. While the reform schools have returned Tolerand To to society 128,000 boys whose careers have been useful 28,000 have relapsed into crime. Reform and training schools for boys are based on the idea that prevention is better than cure.

Beware of a Cough.

A cough is not a disease but a symptom. Consumption and bronchitis, which are the most dangerous and fatal diseases, have for their first indication a persistent cough, and if properpears are easily cured. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven wonderfully successful, and gained its wide reputation and extensive sale by its suc cess in curing the diseases which cause coughing. If it is not beneficial it will not cost you a cent. For sale by Mrs. J. W. Keller, Linden Hall; J. F. Smith, Centre Hall.
