Renting Locomotives.
Hundreds of locomotives are rented every year. Several corporations make their chief revenue this way. The Baldwins have many machines out on the rental form of payment—that is, the engines are rented in the same way that you would buy a stove on installments—so much down, so much a month, the payments to apply on the final purchase money. It is seldom, however, that a railroad rents locomotives. They are usually let out to contractors who construct temporary railways for hauling dirt from excavations.

Contractors who hire the locomotives usually have their own names gilded on them so that the public may suppose that they belong to them. The engines, as a usual thing, are cast offs. They may have pulled express trains once, but now they are only fit for gravel cars. The engineers who work them are oftentimes also the cast offs of the profession. They may have operated express engines, but through carelessness or other incapacity have been discharged from one road after another until they are only fit to haul gravel or wood trains.—Philadelphia Record.

Golf Before a Mirror.
One of the chief teachings in the religion of style is that to attain to orthodoxy it is necessary or at least desirable to practice daily in front of a looking glass so as to make sure that all the motions of the true style are being correctly carried out.

This always appeared to me a very "hard saying" until I had consulted W. G. Grace, John Roberts, C. B. Fry, K. S. Ranjitsinjhi, H. K. Foster, Kraenzlein, E. C. Bredin and other champions of sport.

All the above were unanimous in attributing the high degree of skill to which they have attained in various games and sports to the fact of their having devoted many hours a day from a very early stage of their careers to attitudinizing in front of looking glasses in their bedrooms.—Golf Illustrated.

Ingleby Items.

This valley has had no damaging fires this spring and pasture is in fine condition.

A stranger came to the home of Joseph Eisenhuth and will remain permanently.

Mrs. Reed in company with her sister, Mrs. Michael Everet, were guests at the home of Emanuel Eisenhuth on Sunday.

The Ingleby farmers finished corn planting last week and are now ready to take bicycle exercise the remainder of the season.

The Walter and Reister peach orchard makes a beautiful appearance.

No particular news from Georgetown except that the scribe is in trouble; he saw the Major in uniform with a musket on his shoulder, and don't know what it means.

John Gaier, the Rankletown attorney, was a welcome visitor at the home of the scribe; he reports times booming in his section.

Work will be plenty in this section during the summer; one party has taken fifty cords of paper wood to cut, another twenty-five cords, and the scribe of Ingleby took a car of oak poles.

His Idea of an Alibi.

A talesman who was called in a murder trial in a certain state was asked whether he had any prejudice against an alibi plea on the part of a man accused of crime. The talesman replied that he had not.

"Do you fully understand what is meant by the term alibi?" he was asked.

"I think I do; yes, sir."

"What do you understand by it?" The talesman reflected a moment and then, with a hesitancy indicative of graveness, replied, "An alibi is when the fellow who did it wasn't there."
