STAR ROUTE BOX DELIVERY.

Mail Carrier: Must Put Mail into Private

Boxes If Required. Under the Star Route mail carriers' July 1st, free rural mail delivery becomes operative along the mail route. The new ruling provides that any person erecting a mail box along a star route line can have his mail placed therein daily upon giving his postmaster a written order to that effect.

All mail can thus be delivered except registered letters. The mail thus delivered is entirely at dressee's risk. must without compensation receive advanced basis. all letters properly stamped from anyone along his route and mail them at the first postoffice he reaches. The department does not describe any particular design of box to be used for this service, but the person provid. ing a box should see that it is of such character as to afford ample protection to his mail. The box should be so located on the road side that the carrier can deposit mail therein through an opening in the box, without leaving his vehicle.

An illustration of this new ruling is here given: Suppose John Foreman decides to take advantage of this regulation. He would then put up a suitable mail box at the junction of the Red Mill road and the pike, label it with his name: write to J. C. Bible, postmaster at Centre Hill, to send his mail with James Horner, the mail carrier, to the box designated, and Mr. Horner must do so aud charge Mr. Foreman nothing for the service. The same can be done by anyone else who resides without the limits of a borough and eighty rods from a postoffice.
