INDEPENDENT REPUBLICANS.

ing on the recent Centre county Republican convention says ; The speech of Ex-Governor Hastings was a remarkable one to be made from the chair of a Republican county convention and applauded by its hearers. It was a comprehensive and detailed arraignment of the Republican organization of the State, for the violation of every public pledge and the betrayal of all public interests "in dishonest and cruel efforts for personal gain and to advance individual ambition." No Democrat or Independent has denounced in stronger terms the whole course of the Legislature and the State administration, and this in a county convention of the party which this administration claims to represent.

The machine found no defenders except in two or three officeholders, to whom the convention refused to listen. The Republicans of Centre county did themselves justice in disavowing all responsibility for the crimes that have disgraced their party organization. No incident in recent politics has been more encouraging than this. It shows that when the people of the State have an opportunity to express themselves, repudiation of political brigandage will not be restrained by obligations to a party control that has forfeited their respect.

When the issue is clearly drawn, as it will be in Pennsylvania this year, between the people and the corrupt machine, true patriots will be found upon the one side, irrespective of the party popular revolt that will spread throughout the State.

Business held back by the shipping in anticipation of free trade is now going on. The United States in its present flourishing condition has everything to gain by a free exchange of products, not only with the West Indies, but with the greater part of the world.
