WOMAN'S SPHERE.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Says She Should Rule as a Queen in the Home.

Its Value as a Field of Usefulness -- The Mother's Influence.

[Copyright 1901.1 WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage extols home as a field of use-fulness and especially encourages wives and mothers; text, Genesis i, 27, "Male and female created He them." In other words, God, who can make no mistake, made man and woman for a spe-cific work and to move in particular spheres, man to be regnant in his realm, woman to be dominant in hers. The boundary line between Italy and Switzcr-land, between England and Scotland, is not more thoroughly marked than this distinction between the ampire masculine and the empire feminine. So entirely dis-similar are the fields to which God called them that you no more compare them similar are the heids to which God called them that you no more compare them than you can oxygen and hydrogen, water and grass, trees and stars. All this talk about the superiority of one sex to the other sex is an everlasting waste of ink, and speech. A jeweler may have a scale so delicate that he can weigh the dust of diamonds, but where are the scales so deli-cate that wou can weigh in them affection cate that you can weigh in them affection against affection, sentiment against sentiment, thought against thought, soul against soul, a man's word against a woman's word? You come out with the stereotyped re-mark that man is superior to woman in intellect, and then I open on my desk the swarthy, iron typed, thunder-bolted writ-ings of Harriet Martineau and Elizabeth Browning and George Eliot. You come on with your stereotyped remark about wom-an's superiority to man in the item of af-fection, but I ask you where was there more capacity to love than in John, the disciple, and Robert McCheyne, the Scotchman, and John Summerfield, the Methodist, and Henry Martyn, the mis-sionary? The heart of those men was so large that after you had rolled into it the hemispheres there was room still left to marshal the hosts of heaven and set up the throne intellectual. I deny to woman the You come out with the stereotyped rethrone intellectual. I deny to woman the throne affectional. No human phraseology will ever define the spheres, while there is an intuition by which we know when a man is in his realm and when a woman is in her reake, and when either of them is out of it. No bungling legisla-tion ought to attempt to make a definition or to say, "This is the line and that is the line." My theory is that if woman wants to watts to embroider and keep house he ought to be allowed to embroider and keep house. There are masculine women and there are effeminate men. My theory is that you have no right to interfere with that you have no right to interfere with any one's doing anything that is rightcous. Albany and Washington might as well decree by legislation how high a brown thrasher should fly or how deep a trout should plunge as to try to seek out the height or the depth of woman's duty. height or the depth of woman's duly. The question of capacity will settle finally the whole question, the whole subject. When a woman is prepared to preach she will preach, and neither conference nor presbytery can hinder her. When a wom-an is prepared to move in highest commer-cial spheres, she will have great influence on the exclasses and no beards of trade on the exchange, and no boards of trade can hinder her. I want woman to under-stand that heart and brain can overflow any barrier that politicians may set up, and that nothing can keep her back or keep her down but the question of capacity. I know there are women of most under I know there are women of most under irable nature who wander up and down the country, having no homes of their own or forsaking their own homes, talk-ing about their rights, and we know very well that they themselves are fit neither to vote nor fit to keep house. Their mis-house. Over the child's rough crib there are the chantings of angels, as those that sounded over Bethlehem. It is hone. These children may come up after awhile, and they may win high position, and they may have an affluent residence, but they will not until their dying day forget that humble roof under which their father rested and their mother sang and their sisters played. their sisters played.

their sisters played. Oh, if you would gather up all tender memories, all the lights and shades of the heart, all banquetings and reunions, all filial, fraternal, paternal and conjugal af-fections, and you had only just four let-ters to spell out that height and depth and length and breadth and magnitude and eternity of meaning, you would, with streaming eyes and trembling voice and agitated hand, write it out in those four living capitals, H-O-M-E! What right does woman want that is grander than to be queen in such a realm? Why, the eagles of heaven cannot fly across that dominion. Horses, panting and with lathered flanks, are not swift enough to run to the outpost of that realm. They say that the sun never sets on the British empire, but I have to tell you that

British empire, but I have to tell you that on this realm of woman's influence eternity never marks any bound.

nity never marks any bound. hity never marks any bound. Heabella fied from the Spanish throne, pursued by the nation's anathema, but she who is queen in a home will never lose her throne, and death itself will only be the annexation of heavenly principalities. When you want to get your grandest idea of a queen, you do not think of Cath-erine of Russia or of Anne of England or Maria Theresa of Austria, but when you want to get your grandest idea of a queen you think of the plain woman who sat op-posite your father at the table or walked with him arm in arm down life's pathway, sometimes to the thanksgiving banquet, sometimes to the grave, but always to-gether, soothing your petty griefs, cor-recting your infantile sports, listening to your 'evening prayers, toiling for you with in your infantile sports, listening to your evening prayers, toiling for you with needle or at the spinning wheel and on cold nights wrapping you up snug and warm. And then at last on that day when she lay in the back room dying and you saw her take those thin hands with which she toiled for you so long and put them teacher in a dwing nearest that commend. together in a dying prayer that commend-ed you to God whom she had taught you to trust—oli, she was the queen! The cha-riots of God came down to fetch her, and as she went in all heaven rose up. You cannot think of her now without a rush of tenderness that stirs the deep founda-tions of your soul, and you feel as much a child again as when you cried on her lap, and if you could bring her back again to speak just once more your name as ten-derly as she used to speak it you would be willing to throw yourself on the ground and kiss the sod that covers her, crying, "Mother, mother!" Ah, she was the queen, she was the queen!

Now, can you tell me how many thou-sand miles a woman like that would have to travel down before she got to the ballot box? Compared with this work of ballot box? Compared with this work of training kings and queens for God and eternity, how insignificant seems all this work of voting for aldermen and common councilmen and sheriffs and constables and mayors and presidents! To make one such grand woman as I have described how many thousand would you want of those people who go in the round of god-lessness and fashion and dissipation, dis-torting their bodies and going as far to-ward disgraceful apparel as they dare go so as not to be arrested of the police, their behavior a sorrow to the good and a caricature of the vicious and an insult to that God who made them women and not that God who made them women and not gorgons, and tramping on down through a frivolous and dissipated life to temporal and eternal destruction?

O woman, with the lightning of your soul strike dead at your feet all these al-lurements to dissipation and to fashion! Your immortal soul cannot be fed upon such garbage. God calls you up to em-pire and dominion. Will you have it? Oh, give to God your heart, give to God your best energies, give to God all your culture, give to God all your refinement,

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

General Trade Conditions.

New York (Special) .-- Bradstreet's eview of trade says: An improvement alike in tone and in demand is noted in rade circles this week.

Weather and crop conditions in the Northwest combine to give that section specially generous yields. Good crops in the Pacific Northwest are also reported.

The iron and steel strike shows little change, but despite the lowered consumption growing out of the strike stocks of pig iron are smaller that they were a month ago on a comparatively trifling decrease in production.

Boot and shoe manufacturers have booked good orders. Leather is active and hides are firm. Wheat, including flour, exports for the week in the United States aggregate 9.039.761 bushels as against 8.832.199 last week, and 3.113,641 in the week last year. Wheat exports, July 1 to date aggregate 44.072.332, as against 19.944.996 last year.

Corn exports aggregate 508,807, as against 990,714 last week, and 3,017,089 last year. July 1 to date exports are 9,227,168 against 23.676.349 last season. Business failures in the United States number 178. as against 185 last week, 168 in this week a year ago, 172 in 1899. 195 in 1898, and 221 in 1897. For Canada failures for the week number 25, as against 29 last week. 24 in this week a car ago and 20 in 1899.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Crop conditions in the ter-ritory most affected by the recent drought are improving and the weath-er has been highly satisfactory in neary all districts cast of the Missouri river. though rains have interrupted the spring wheat harvest.

The steel strike has affected prices extensively, particularly on sales for immediate delivery. In tin plates the advance has been greatest, while hoops sheet, skelp and billets are sold at premiums. Confidence is steadily shown by placing of distant deliveries at regular prices.

sion seems to be to humiliate the two sexes at the thought of what any one of us might become. No one would want to live under the laws that such womgive yourelf to Him for this world and the next! Soon all these bright eyes will soon all these bright eyes will be quenched and these voices will be hushed. For the last time you will look upon this fair earth. Father's hand, mother's hand, sister's hand, child's hand, will be no more in yours. It will be night, and there will come up a cold wind from the Jordan, and you must start. Will it be a lone woman on a trackless moor? Ah, no! Jesus will come up in that hour and offer His hand, and He will eay, "You stood by Me when you were well, now I will not desert you when you are sick." One wave of His hand and the storm will drop; an-other wave of His hand, and midnight shall break into midnoou, and another wave of His hand and the chamberlains of God will come down from the treasure houses of heaven with robes lustrous, blood mashed and heaven glinted, in which you will array yourself for the mar-riage supper of the Lamb. And then with Miriam, who struck the timbrel by the Red Sea, and with Deborah, who led the Lord's host into the fight, and with Han-nah, who gave her Samuel to the Lord, and with Mary, who rocked Jesus to sleep while there were angels singing in the arr. and with Florence Nightingale, who Ive under the laws that such wom-en would enact or to have cast upon society the children that such women would raise. But I will show you that the best rights that woman can own she already has in her possession, that her position in this country at this time is not one of commiseration, but one of congrat-ulation; that the meaders and save ulation; that the grandeur and power of her reaim have never yet been appre-ciated, that she sits to day on a throne so high that all the thrones of earth piled on top of each other would not make her a footstool. Here is the platform on which she stands. Away down below it are the ballot box and the Congressional assem-blage and the legislative hall. Woman always has voted and always Woman always has voted and always will vote. Our great grandfathers thought they were by their votes putting Wash-ington into the Presidential chair. No. His mother, by the principles she taught him and by the habits she inculcated, made him President. It was a Christian mother's hand dropping the ballot when Lord Bacon wrote, and Newton philoso-phized, and Alfred the Great governed, and Jonathan Edwards thundered of judgment to come. How many men there have been in high political station who would have been insufficient to stand the test to which their moral principle was Lord's host into the fight, and with Han-nah, who gave her Samuel to the Lord, and with Mary, who rocked Jesus to sleep while there were angels singing in the air, and with Florence Nightingale, who bound up the battle wounds of the Cri-mea, you will from the chalice of God drink to the soul's eternal rescue. One twilight after I had been playing with the children for some time I lay down on the lounge to rest, and, half asleep and half awake. I seemed to dream this dream: It seemed to me that I was in a far distant land-not Persia, although more Oriental luxuriance crowned the cities; nor the tropics, although more than tropical fruitfulness filled the gar-dens; nor Italy, although more than Ital-ian softness filled the air. And I wan-dered around, looking for thorns and het-tles, but I found none of them grew there. And I walked forth and I saw the sun rise, and I said. "When will it set again?" And the sun sank not. And I saw all the people in holiday apparel, and I said. "When will they put on workingman's garb again and delve in the mine and swelter at the forg?" But neither the garments nor the robes did they put off. And I wandered in the suburbs and I said. "Where do they bury, the dead of this great city?" And I looked along by the hills where it would be most beauti-ful for the dead to sleep, and I saw castles and towers and battlements, but not a mausoleum nor monument nor white slab could I see. And I went: into the great chapel of the town and I said: "Where do the poor worship? Where are the benches on which they sit?" And a voice an-swered, "We have no poor in this great city.". And I wandered out, seeking to find the place where were the hovels of the destitute, and I found mansions of am-ber and ivory and gold, but no tear did I see or sigh hear. I was bewildered, and I said ."What test to which their moral principle was put had it not been for a wile's voice that put had it not been for a wife's voice that encouraged them to do right and a wife's prayer that sounded louder than the cia-mor of partisanship! Why, my friends, the right of suffrage as we men exercise it seems to be a feeble thing. You, a Christian man, come up to the ballot box, and you drop your vote. Right after you comes a libertine or a sot, the offscouring of the street, and he drops his vote, and his vote counteracts yours. But if in the quiet of home life a daughter by her Christian demeanor, a wife by her indus-try, a mother by her faithfulness, casts a vote in the right direction then nothing try, a mother by her faithfuiness, casts a vote in the right direction then nothing can resist it, and the influence of that vote will throb through the eternities. My chief anxiety, then, is not that woman have other rights accorded her, but that she by the grace of God rise up to the appreciation of the glorious rights she already possesses. I shall only have time to speak of one grand and all absorb-ing right that every woman has, and that is to make home nappy. That realm no one has ever disputed with her. Men may come home at noon or at night, and they one has ever disputed with her. Men may come home at noon or at night, and they tarry a comparatively little while, but she all cay long governs it, beautifies it, sancti-fies it. It is within her power to make it the most attractive place on earth. It is the only calm haroor in this world. You know as well as I do that this outside world and the business world is a long cene of jostle and contention. The man who has a doller struggles to keep it; the man who has it not struggles to get it. Prices up. Prices down. Losses. Gains. Misrepresentations. Gougings. Under-selling. Buyers depreciating; salesmen ex-aggerating. Tenants seeking less rent; Struggles about office. Men who are in tyring to keep in; men out trying to get Catastrophes. O woman, thank God you have a home and that you may be queen in !!

ber and ivory and gold, but no tear did I see or sigh hear. I was bewildered, and I sat under the shadow of a great tree, and I said, "What at that moment there came from among the leaves, skipping up the flowery paths and across the sparking waters, a very bright and sparking group, and when I saw their step I knew it, and when I heard their voices I thought I knew them, but their apparel was so different from any-ting I had ever seen I bowed, a stranger to strangers. But after awhile, when they clapped hands and shouted. "Wel-come, welcome!" the mystery was solved, and I saw that time had passed and that eternity had come and that God had gathered us up into a higher home, and I saw theil tears of gladness were raining down our cheeks and the branches of the Lebanon cedars were clapping their hands and sing and leap and shout, "Home, home, home." hand never yet kindled. There are abodes in the city-humble, two stories, four plain unpapered rooms, undesirable neighborhood—and yet there is a man here to-day who would die on the threshold rather than surrender it. Why? It is home. Whenever he thinks of it he sees angels of God hovering around it. The ladders of heaven are let down to this
