AT EVENFALL

Soft creep the shadows along the hill; still. And glad as a child at its mother's call Is the home-bound heart at evenfall.

At evenfall is rest!

The day brings labor and strife and pain, Heavy the burden and sore the strain. tell by the sound, both teams were run-But the home-bound heart forgets it all In the peace that comes at evenfall. At evenfall is rest!

Fresh as a flower that lifts its head, By the dews of twilight comforted; Light as a bird let loose from thrall. Is the home-bound heart at evenfall.

At evenfall is rest! -Blanche Treanor Meath, in Good Housekeeping.

The Adventure of Foote, the Tankman.

 BY FRANKLIN W. LLES CALKINS.

derness still extends across northern about him until his wrecked lantern was Minnesota. There is an immense dis- wrenched free of the ring in his hand. trict into which only here and there the Then he leaped backward and fell over lumberman or the solitary squatter has the tank tongue, penetrated. Here the moose, bear, deer Instantly the snarling wolves were up the writer met Henry Foote, a tankman, mal's teeth through the blanket cloth of and from him and his mates learned his winter garments. some stirring tales of adventure.

huge log tank over the snowy roads, ves, seized the top beam of the tank throwing water by means of faucets up- with both hands. He succeeded in geton the tracks, in order that immense ting a foot upon the lift lever, and thus loads of logs may slip easily over the he climbed up, wrenching himself, for quickly formed coating of ice. The tank the moment, out of the grasp of his asis a colossal affair, which resembles a sailants. But the brutes had inflicted flat-roofed blockhouse on runners. It is some severe bites, and they had torn filled with water by means of high his blanket jacket to shreds. pumps thrust through the ice of a lake He had thought to get out of their cross in winter.

horse team.

abouts.

gray wolves squatted on either side, their with icy water, and Henry rose from hands. eyes glinting in evil star points.

of cold weather, these wolves gathered frantically, as they swam around the along the road in unusual numbers. The sides in a vain attempt to find some way tankman's horses shied and snorted as out of the trap. they passed a thicket where flitting. Despite the cold, the tankman laughed snapping forms jumped out at them. In gleefully. His first impulse was to seize vain Foote swung his light and shouted the wolves by the scruff of their necks The wolves followed on either hand, and and hold them under water until they grew momentarily more bold and dem- should drown; but he thought better of was impossible for Henry to guess and grasp the rail-posts of the well. It They followed in numbers on either was only by great exertion that he sucside of his team, and kept leaping in and ceeded in drawing himself out of the out among the shadows, and snapping tank pit. Had he waited two minutes and snarling until his horses were well- longer his case would have been as desnigh unmanageable.

The tankman had a difficult task to When he had struggled to his feet water-level at his elbow he was obliged the tank faucets. to neglect entirely.

logging-camp.

light, Henry abandoned his perilous fatal injuries. stand and scrambled to the top of the For a time he heard the splashing and he put his lantern between his feet and animals were dead, gave his sole attention to the horses He returned to camp at daylight in one another in paroxysms of terror.

snapping at them on both side and in of the lake to a log road, and then had front. Henry caught up a long whip gone straight to camp. Their swift grass not more than twenty feet from which projected from its socket above running and the flying tug-chains which the tank, and swung it wildly. The had bruised their legs had doubtless horses were kept in the roadway only saved one or more of them from being because they could not get out of it.

Presently his road descended toward panion. an arm of the lake among a thicket of jack-pines; and here, as the wolves jumped at them more holdly than before, and became entirely uncontrollable.

hold his lines and lantern and keep his grave received him, he was a short, un-track upon an incline, his leaders swung His eyes were bluish gray. His chin off the log road and the four plung- so far from being broad and strong, ed downward over a steep pitch. There was narrow and pointed. His teeth was a lurch, and Henry fell backward were large and projecting, the teeth of upon the tank; then a grinding crash, a carnivor. Providence alone knows as the runners struck some solid ob- through what miscarriage in the zeons struction at the bottom of the pitch, and of evolution the soul of some fierce and the driver and his lantern were projected far-off carnivor got into the body of this into the depths of a drift, himself and his light out of the snow, had Billy lived he might have grown to to find that his horses had broken loose be a bad man!-Everybody's Magazine. from the tank and were plunging through drift and tamarack brush to- King George of Greece has lately taward the lake. They were out of sight ken up pistol practice as an amusement in a moment, and soon he heard their and is developing a considerable talent shod hoofs ringing on the wind-swept in that direction, so that he was able at top speed along the arm of the lake THE FATE OF PETER GREER.

and so toward camp. So far, so good. A moment's exami-The loud wheel stops and the world is nation convinced Henry that his leaders" evener had come unhooked from the tongue-rod, and that the "beamers" had broken theirs short off at the hammer. He believed their traces had become unhooked in thrashing through the tamarack bushes, for, as nearly as he could ning freely. Thinking himself out of present danger, Henry turned his attention to the tank. He found the big road-sprinkler right-side-up, but embedded to the base logs in a drift of snow. Then, while he stood listening ruefully to his horses' receding hoofs and the cries of the wolves, he saw amid the bushes more of those evil star points, and knew that the stragglers of the pack had come up.

Hoping to send these animals after the others, Henry rushed at them, yelling and swinging his lantern. In his excitement he gave his circling light too wide a sweep, and battered it to a shapeless wreck upon the body of a sapling This left him in darkness, and he retreated, in some alarm, to the tank. Before he could turn to climb, however three dusky figures leaped at him with snarling cries. He sprang aside, and striking out with his lantern, hit one of his assailants upon the head. As this An almost impenetrable belt of wil- did not discourage the wolves, he laid and timber-wolf abound, for the timber on him, tearing at his stout clothing. growth is so dense that it almost defies. One seized him by an arm which he the efforts of hunters and trappers. flung up to protect his face and neck At an isolated lodging-camp recently and he felt the sharp pinch of the ani-

He gave himself up for lost, but strug-It is Henry Foote's duty to drive a gled to his feet, and dragging the wol which the company's various log roads reach by climbing up on the tank, but his hope was quickly dispelled. On one Henry's work is done entirely in the side of the tank was the elevation down night. It is solemn and lonely busi- which it had plunged, and against this ness, which often takes him five or six rise the snow-drift was tightly packed miles from camp; his road winds among The wolves were quick to renew their black lines of overlopping pine-trees, and assault from this point of vantage. Deis lighted only by the rays from his lan- spite the kicks and buffets which Henry tern reflector. He is glad of the com- bestowed, all three quickly leaped upon pany of his snorting, steaming four- the tank, and again attacked him with fury.

On still nights the grind and creak of Fighting desperately, the tankman was his runners may be heard for a mile or again borne down, falling this time upon more. At other times, when the north a rim of ice which surrounded the tank wind roars among the tree-tops, and a well. The wolves were upon him infine snow is falling, his "headlight" lan- stantly, but the desperate young fellow tern gives the only sign of his where- was seized with an inspiration. With sudden quickness he caught two of his On such nights deer and moose are assailants, one by either leg, in a lumsometimes seen standing to gaze within berman's grip, and throwing one foot up the semicircle of his light, or a lynx behind the well rail, plunged himself and the bottom gasping. He heard the wol-One night, after a protracted season ves sneezing and churning the water it as a chill ran up his spinal column How many there were in the pack it By standing on tiptoe he could just reach perate as that of the entrapped wolves.

perform-to drive four horses with one upon the tank, the third wolf, taking hand, to swing his lantern with the warning from the strange disappearance other, and to keep his feet upon the of its fellows, slunk away among the driver's stand in front of his tank. The bushes. Henry lost no time in closing

He dared not attempt to walk to camp He would have given his winter's but secured his tank ax and attacked the wages for a gun, but all sorts of offen- tamaracks and young pines near at hand. sive weapons, as well as intoxicating His match-box was waterproof, and he liquors, were wisely prohibited at the soon had a roaring fire, before which he dried his clothing and nursed his hurts At last, as he saw the wolves were Only his thick lumberman's clothing had likely to attack the horses despite his saved him from serious and perhaps road-level, he was out of reach. Then sounds finally ceased, and he knew the which were lunging and crowding upon the morning, to find that his horses had arrived in the night, battered and bruis-The wolves were now leaping and ed but safe. They had followed an arm pulled down and killed .- Youth's Com-

Billy The Kid's Appearance.

Near the present home of Pat Garrett the horses took the bits in their teeth is the grave of Billy the Kid, one of the worst of the outlaws of the West, and It was as much as Henry could do to certainly bad as man could be. As the dersized little man, with legs none too Suddenly, at a critical turn of the good, and the habit of a riding man. little man. He died at the age of twen-Wholly unhurt, the tankman pulled ty-one. A man for every year-indeed

A Royal Pistol Shot. ice and the sharp, eager velos of pursuin a recent tournament to defeat someting wolves. The animals were running of the best shots in the kngdom.

MET THE SAME END AS ONE OF HIS COWBOYS.

A Thrilling Tale About a Picturesque Cattleman Who Died Recently in Western Nebraska-An Instance of His Personal Courage.

The picturesque cattlemen of the plains are gradually passing away. They were a set of men who belonged to a phase of American life that is past, They were the outgrowth of the wild, free life of the unlimited and undivided cattle ranges. The situation is changed there are no longer vast plains of grazing land free to all. There is left little unclaimed cattle land. The methods of the cattlemen are becoming more and more like those of the farmer. cattle are fenced and housed and fed. This system does not produce the old rangers of twenty-five years age. The cowboy is being reduced to the farm-

A former cattleman of the Centropolis Hotel was telling about one or the oldtime rangers who died recently in western Nebraska. This man was Pete

"He was one of the biggest men I ever knew," said the former cattleman. 'He stood six feet three inches in his stocking feet. He was straight and broad at the shoulders, and the quality of fear was left out of him. I remember an experience which he once had in New Mexico several years ago that will show Pete Greer's personal courage. He was with a party of cowboys who were riding southward with a wagon and cooking outfit, riding out after a bunch of stray cattle. The story was told me by one of the men in the party, and I remember how he swore when he told me of the heat of the plains. Greer was a sort of boss or foreman of the party. One day it was discovered that one of the men was missing. He had scattered with the others looking for the cattle and had been away from the party a day when his absense was discovered. Then Greer at once gave orders that search be made for him. When Green spoke no one replied. Then one man grumbled that it would be no use, that the lost man would be dead. The others joined in mutiny, and all of them refused to leave the wagon. Pete pleaded and bluffed them. The men were obstinate. Then big Pete piled together about the wagon all the equipment of their camp. Along with this were three barrels of water, which had been carried from the last stream passed. The heat was a torture. A man walking over the dry turf was followed by a stream of dust. The party was miles from water. There was no shelter in the supty plain around

"When Greer had made a heap of all that stood between the sowboys and death, he placed under and around it dried grass and wood. Then he stood square in front of the pile.

"Now, boys," he said, 'fi you don't go will raise its big, catlike head to blink the wolves head foremost into the tank. out and look for this man I'll set fire at the blaze. Again there may be big The hold was more than half filled to this." He had his revolvers in his

"This man who told me this story said that Pete Greer was a man who never made empty threats. They knew that when he said anything it wentand they obeyed.

"That day they found their missing comrade, lying face downward on the prairie, dead from the heat,

"And it seems a cruel thing that the big, brave, manly Pete Greer should himself have been found face downward dying with the heat on his own ranch in Nebraska only a month ago.

"Greer's ranch was near Seneca, in the western part of the State. In different parts of his grazing land he had windmills to provide water for his cattle. "One afternoon, a month ago, when the hot spell was at its zenith, Greer rode out on a horse over his range to see that his windmills were in order He thought nothing about the heat. He had never been sick a day in his life and he was in his prime.

"A few hours later his horse trotted up to the door of the ranch house with an empty saddle. "Mrs. Greer, sitting in the house, was the first to see the horse. She walked quickly out of doors and looked everywhere for her husband. Others came up. Mrs. Greer had never ridden a horse in her life. She had not been strong and had never taken an active tank, where, some nine feet from the scratching of the wolves, but these part in ranch life. But she climbed into her husband's empty saddle, and with two or three men from the ranch started out under the burning sunshine, Mrs Greer allowed the horse which she rode to take its own course. And it was she who found her husband's body. He was lying face downward in the parched one of his windmills. The direction of his body showed that he had tried to reach the water of the tank at the windmill, but had fallen. He was uncon> scious. "They picked him up, laid his body across the saddle of his horse and took him back to his ranch house. He lingered unconscious three days and died.

> "And when I heard how Pete Greer died I thought of that little event in which he showed his courage many years ago on the plains of New Men' -Kansas City Star.

Peculiar Lese Majeste.

A German judge cites a rather remarkable case of lese majeste, which, he says, may be called "unintentional nformation." A peasant woman who had seen the Kaiser's consort as a slender girl im Perin Kenau, gave blunt rustic expression to her astonishment as to how the figure looked after the birth of several children. Her outcry was mentioned in gossip at a village inn when it struck/the ear of a gendarme who happened to be present. This gendarme reported the matter. His superfor prosecuted it, and the amazed and trial in London for murder, revealed bewildered old woman was transported what he claimed was a plot to kill Josfrom her cottage to a cell.-Argonaut.

SUMMARY OF THE LATEST NEWS.

Domestic.

A waterspout swept over Jamaica Bay, nearly engulfing a train crossing a trestle on the Long Island Railroad. A tidal wave and storm followed, spreading through the summer resorts that locality. The engagement was announced of Capt. Thoms F. Lyon, of the Marine Corps, to Miss Florence Evans. They net at the Pan-American Exposition. Grace Wilson, 17 years old, of Chi-ago, became despondent from brooding over the death of President McKiney and committed suicide.

Mrs. Mattie Hughes, charged in Coumbia, S. C., with killing her husband, out on man's clothes and escaped. Rev. Joseph H. Tilton, 86 years old, of Reading, was quietly married to Mrs. Caroline P. Griswold, aged 82. Miss Nancy Stone, daughter of ex-Senator James G. Stone, of Kansas, eloped with a poor farmer.

The cigar factory of David Spangler, at Red Lion, was partially destroyed by

The Sovereign Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, began week's convention in Indianapolis. The grand sire, A. C. Cable, of Covington, Ky., delivered his annual ad-

The executive committee of the Italan United Societies in New York decided to suspend the celebration of the inniversary and started a movement for monument.

At Spiceland, Ind., the safe of the vilage bank was blown open and its contents stolen, including $500 worth of stamps deposited in the banl: by the ostmaster.

The schooner G. Ellen, of Racine, was wrecked in the lake near Milwaukee and the four seamen were rescued just as their vessel was about to go

The battleship Retvizan, built by the Cramps for the Russian government, returned to Philadelphia after a most satisfactory builders' trial trip.

The hearing of the caveat to the will of Jacob S. Rogers, the millionaire locomotive builder, was begun in Tren-

State Superintendent John McCullagh asked 200 warrants on account of ille-gal registration in New York. It was decided to have the first international yacht race on September 26 and the second on the 28th. The annual meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Association was begun

Calderon Carlisle, a well-known lawyer of Washington, died in Asheville,

The battleship Illinois was put in ommission at Newport News. At the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic Commander-in-Chief Rassieur made a violent attack on Pension Examiner Evans and his method of administering the pension laws. The Democratic State Committee of Virginia declined the proposition of the Republican committee for a joint debate by the gubernatorial candidates of he two parties. Immigration Commissioner Powderand Congressman Cornell are drafting a bill, to be submitted to Congress, which, if passed, will prevent anarchists anding here.

Shamrock II. had two lucky escapes from serious disaster while taking a spin. She was struck by a squall and came very near running into a yacht. The strike situation remains unchanged. The steel combine has reused to entertain further propositions of settlement from the Amalgamated Association. Shipping is tied up at New Orleans oy a strike of the longshoremen, whose demand for higher wages has been reused by the shipping agents. A rear-end collision took place on the Pennsylvania Railroad at Wilmington, Del., and over a dozen people were injured. Mrs. E. B. Clagget, of Baltimore, was badly briused and shaken up.

Johann Most, the anarchist, was arrested in New York city. A mob of negroes broke into the jail at Wickliffe, Ky., and lynched three negroes who confessed having robbed a respected colored man.

While on a sick bed Miss Zoe Daughtrey, of Atlanta, was married in Norfolk to Dr. Louis Sage Hardin, also of Atlanta. A misplaced switch caused a wreck on the West Shore Railroad near Syracuse, in which 25 passengers were shak-

Foreign.

King Edward has ordered the court to go into mourning for one week for the death of President McKinley. In every place of public worship in Lon-don Sunday the clergymen made special references to the American nation's Suspected anarchists are being arrested in all parts of France pending the visit of Emperor Nicholas. When the inperial cortege passes through Rheims no spectators will be permitted on the Marie Josephine Eastwick, the Philalelphia lady accused in London of forging a railroad certificate of £100,000, was remanded for a further hearing.

The directors of the wrecked Hei-bronn Gewerbe Bank were arrested. The losses of the bank in speculation will be more than 3,000,000 marks. Dr. Broeckman, who was public prosecutor at Johannesburg under the Transvaal government, was put on trial on he charge of treason. The Duke and Duchess of York arrived at Quebec on the royal yacht Ophir and were received with much

The Czar and Czarina with their party sailed on the imperial yacht Standart from Kiel for France. Twenty-three persons were drowned by the wrecking of a ferry-boat near Osali, Croatia. Colonel Crabbe has surprised the camp of Van de Merwe, in Cape Colony, killing him and another Boer, and took 37 prisoners. The Peace Conference at Glasgo 7 took steps looking to the settlement of the American question The late Dowager Empress Frederick bequeaths 3,000,000 marks to Count Seckendori, grand marshal of her court, with whom, it is asserted, she contracted a morganatic marriage. Lord Kitchener reports that Methnen, on September 6 and 8, drove the Boers from strong positions, killing 18 and capturing 41 prisoners. Martial Faugeron, a Frenchman, on eph Chamberlain.

ROOSEVELT TAKES GATH AS PRESIDENT. LEON CZOLGOSZ Falters for a Moment With Emotion, and Then in Firm Tones, Accepts the Honor. Buffalo, N. Y. (Special).-Theodore Roosevelt, at 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, in the library of the residence of Ansley Wilcox, at Buffaio, took the constitutional oath as President of the United States, Elihu Root, Secretary of War, acting in behalf of the Cabinet of the late President, in a voice tremulous with grief, formally requested Mr. Roosevelt to take the oath. The new President, in a voice that at first faltered from emotion, said: "I shall take the oath at once in accordance with your request, and in this hour of deep terrible national bereavement I wish to state that it shall be my aim the policy of President McKinley for the peace and prosperity and honor of our beloved country."

Judge John R. Hazel, of the United States Court, administered the oath. Following the ceremony President Roosevelt shook hands with the Cabinet officers and all others in the room A brief conference between the President and Cabinet officers followed, during which he requested the members of the Cabinet who were present-Secretaries Root, Long and Wilson and Postmaster-General Smith-to remain in office, at least for the present. They assured him that they would, and Presi-dent Roosevelt subsequently stated that he had also received similar assurances from the absent members of the Cabinet.

Immediately upon assuming his new office. President Roosevelt issued the following proclamation, setting aside as a day of prayer and Thursday mourning throughout the land:

By the President of the United States of America: A Proclamation:

A terrible bereavement has befallen our people. The President of the United States has been struck down; a crime committed not only against the Chief Magistrate, but against every law-abiding and liberty-loving citizen.

President McKinley crowned a life of largest love for his fellow-men, of most earnest endeavor for their welfare, by a death of Christian fortitude; and both the way in which he lived his life and the way in which, in the supreme hour of trial, he met his death, will remain orever a precious heritage of our peo-

It is meet that we as a nation express our abiding love and reverence or his life, our deep sorrow for his unimely death. Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt. President of the United States of America, do appoint Thursday next, September 19, the day on which the body of the dead President will be laid in its last earthly resting place, a day of mourning and prayer throughout the United States. I earnestly recommend all the people to assemble on that day in their respective places of divine worship to bow down in submission to the will of Almighty God and to pay out of full hearts their homage of love and reverence to the great and good President whose death has smitten the nation

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, the 14th day of September, A. D. one thou-with bitter grief.

sand nine hundred and one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-sixth. (Seal) THEODORE ROOSEVELT. Forced Their Way Into Wickilfle Jail and By the President:

JOHN HAY, Secretary of State.

Life of President Roosevelt.

Theodore Roosevelt, who succeeds as thead of the nation, is a member of an old Dutch family which was founded in this country about the middle of the seventeenth century by Klaas Martensen Roosevelt. He was born in New York city on October 7, 1858, and was prepared for Harvard by private tutors. Governor Roosevelt's mother was a Georgian. One of his uncles was an admiral in the Confederate service and the other was a midshipman, who fired the last gun from the Confederate warship Alabama just before she went down, having been sunk by the Kearsarge off Cherbourg, France. He was prominent in college athletics, and was one of the editors of the undergraduate journal, the Advocate. A year of foreign travel followed his graduation, in 880, and almost immediately thereafter ne entered upon a public career. His first position was that of membership n the lower branch of the New York | Dallas. Legislature, in which he sat during the sessions of 1882 and the two following years. The bent of his mind politically was developed at this early stage by his introduction of the first civil service bill in the Legislature, which became a law in 1883.

He was an indepedent candidate for mayor of New York city in 1886, with Republican indorsement, but was not elected. President Harrison appointed him a member of the Civil Service Commission in May, 1889, and he serv-ed as a member of the board and its president for six years, displaying dur-ing the whole of that period a deter-mined purpose to rigidly and honestly enforce the law. In May, 1895, he resigned to become president of the Board of Police Commissioners of New York city, in which position he dis-played equal fidelity and fearlessness. On the inauguration of President Mc-Kinley, in 1897, Mr. Roosevelt resign-ed from the Policve Board to become Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in which position he served until the outbreak of hostilities with Spain, and to his energy and foresignt have been justly ascribed the complete readiness of the naval branch of the service to enter upon that brief and brilliant con-

IS INDICTED.

Refuses to Say a Word When Arraigned in Court at Buffalo.

HE MAY BE FEIGNING INSANITY.

Indictment is Promptly Found and the Mass Who Assassinated President McKinley Will Be Put on Trial Next Monday-Beclined to Plead or Answer Any Questions Put to Him by the District Attorney.

Buffalo, N. Y. (Special),-Leon F Czolgosz, alias Fred Nieman, was indicted Monday by the Erie county grand jury for the crime of murder in the first degree, "in fatally shooting President William McKinley at the Temple of Music in the Pan-American Exposition grounds at 4.15 o'clock on the afternoon of September 6

When arraigned before Judge Edward K. Emery, in the County Court, ne stubbornly refused to answer questions repeatedly asked of him by the Judge and District Attorney Penney as to whether he had counsel or wanted counsel. The District Attorney then suggested that as Czolgosz refused to answer, counsel should be assigned. Judge Emery assigned Hon. Loran L. Lewis and Hon. Robert C. Titus, former Supreme Court justices, of this city, whose names had been suggested by the Erie County Bar Association. The trial will begin next Monday.

District Attorney Penney presented the evidence in the case to the grand ury. Aside from the surgeons and physicians, no witnesses were sworn other than those who were in the Temple of Music and witnessed the shoot-

At 4.15 P. M., just exactly ton days after the shooting, the jury voted unanimously to indict Czolgosz. Then ensued a wait of an hour, but the rumor that the murderer was to be arraigned before Judge Emery spread and in a short time the courtroom was crowded. The prisoner was brought in shackled to a detective and another detective held his other arm. Assistant Superintendent Cusack marched in front and a number of patrolmen behind. When Czolgosz was taken before the court the people in the courtroom made a rush for him, but were compelled to resume their seats. Czolgosz is of medium height, of fairly good build and has light curly hair, but a ten days' growth of beard on his face gives him an unkempt appearance. Apparently he feigned insanity, not stupidity. His glance roamed about, but his eyes were always downcast. Not once did he look the County Prosecutor or the Judge in the face.

"Czolgosz, have you got a lawyer?
Do you wish a lawyer? You have been indicted for murder in the first degree. Do you want a lawyer to defend you?

Zolgosz, look at me and answer. District Attorney Penney fired these questions in turn at the prisoner, his voice rising with each succeeding question, but Czolgosz stubbornly refused to answer. Judge Emery then asked the assassin several times if he had counsel, but there was no answer, de spite the fact that police officers told him the Judge was speaking and that he must answer.

The court then assigned counsel, as

ASSASSIN'S FATHER TO AID

In Drawing From Son Stery of the Plot to Kill Nation's Chief. Cleveland (Special).-Paul Czolgosz, he father of the assassin, will be taken o Buafflo by the police to aid them in heir effort to solve the mystery of the plot to kill President McKinley. He professes little affection for the son who has made his name a disgrace and says his son has no claim to mercy. For the sake of making what amends he may for the crime of his son he will do all in his power to unravel the mystery of the assassination plot. Interpreters, unseen, will make record of every word that father and son utter, and the nterview will be arranged to make its dramatic effect on the prisoner as intense as possible. THREE HANGED BY NEGRO LYNCHERS.

Avenged Wash Thomas' Murder. Cairo, Ill. (Special) .- A mob of ne groes broke into the jail at Wickliffe, Ky., across the river from this city, and lynched three negroes. Frank Howard, Sam Reed and Ernest Harrison. They hanged the men to a cross-beam in

John McCauley's mill. The crime for which the men were hanged was the murder of an old and respected negro, Wash Thomas. Last Saturday night they waylaid Thomas on the railroad track, hit him with a club, killing him, and then robbed the dead body. The murderers confessed their crime

BOLD HOLL-UP MAN SHOT. Kill As He Fired to Secure Iron Workers' Wages.

before the mob.

Bedford, Pa. (Special) .- A bold attempt by robbers to steal the money being taken to Riddlesburg on the morning train for the regular pay day of the Co-Ionial Iron Company was made at Mount

The money was in charge of W. Souder. With R. H. Kay he occupied a rear seat in one of the coaches. Mount Dallas a stop was made while the engines were being changed. At that point two men with drawn pistols came nto the car. One of them fired at Mr. Souder, but missed him, the other man keeping Mr. Kay covered. Mr. Souder returned the fire, instantly killing one of the robbers. The other man fled when he saw his companion The dead robber was identified as William Fry, colored, of Bedford.

Steel Strike Is Called Off.

New York (Special).-The great steel strike, which began on June 30, was brought to an end at a conference held here between the leaders of the Amalgamated Association and officers of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation. agreement was signed under which the nen will return to work immediately in the mills that have been idle. This announcement was made at the offices in this city of the American Tin Plate Company, where the conference was