

Colyer.

Mrs. Bertha Hubler and Miss Annie Rouninger, of Penn Hall, were guests at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. J. H. Moyer Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rinkle, Mrs. Katie Reiber, Misses Katie Boal and Carrie Bottorf, all of this place, attended the fair at Bellefonte Thursday last and report having had a very nice time.

Mrs. Swabb, of Aaronsburg, spent some time with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Lee recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moyer and son E. mer were guests at the home of Gardner Grove, at Penns Cave over Sunday.

Two of P. C. Cities young ladies were badly disappointed Saturday evening—ask C. and K. about it.

Misses Katie Boal and Carrie Bottorf, two accomplished young ladies of P. C. City, spent Sunday pleasantly with their friend, Miss Mary Meyers.

Claude Wert passed through this vicinity with some of the choicest peaches. Claude is a good salesman.

John Taylor and Arthur Colyer, of Linden Hall, spent Sunday at the home of Wm. Taylor.

Mrs. Alfred Reiber returned home Sunday after spending some time at the home of Wm. Reiber.

Woodward.

C. W. Hosterman lost a valuable two-year-old colt. The animal evidently fell on the hill side of a pasture field, and died immediately from the effects.

The public schools opened Monday. H. Detwiler, of Rebersburg, is in charge of the Woodward school; Buck Williams, of Woodward, is instructor in the Vonada school, and H. Yearick, of Woodward, is teaching the Aaronsburg grammar school.

Those who anticipated a local shortage of fruit, potatoes and corn will be disappointed. There has been an abundance of all kinds of fruit, except apples, and the potato and corn crops are also good, some specimens being the largest ever grown in this section.

Messrs. Ed. and Samuel Ketter and Charles Guisewhite left for Yeagertown, Millin county, to work in the axe works. A gentleman in the interest of the company was here to secure employees—one hundred if he could get them—but only succeeded in getting the three named.

W. R. Motz left for Pittsburg Wednesday of this week where he will be engaged in the lumber business.

Mrs. Mary Glonce Sunday went to Brush Valley where her husband is staying.

Peaches and melons are plenty. Three wagon loads were on the street at one time.

John Haines Monday began canvassing for books.

Penn Hall.

Most of our farmers have finished their fall seeding and are now engaged in cutting their corn.

This section was not largely represented at the Centre County fair last week. It seems the people about here take more interest in the Lewisburg and Milton fairs.

George Gentzel, wife, and daughter Carrie, from Georges Valley, were visiting in this section on Sunday.

Mrs. Jno. H. Gramly, who has been on the sick list for the last few weeks, is improving.

H. H. Mark, of Salona spent Sunday at his parent's home north of town.

J. B. Showers, of Lock Haven, who was a former resident of this place, recently moved to Poe Valley where he will work a Stave Mill.

Merchant Chas. W. Fisher and sister Mary, returned from an enjoyable trip to the Pan American.

This section is well represented at the Grange picnic at Centre Hall this week.

The schools opened with a small attendance.

George W. Sheesley and son recently moved their saw mill east of Coburn where they will operate for P. Aumiller.

H. E. Bickle has taken the contract for running a stave mill for Wm. Bittner in the Seven mountains.

J. C. Condo is sporting a new driving horse which is to be an extra fast driver.

The band is engaged in furnishing music for the Grange Encampment this week.

Spring Mills.

Earl Bartley is nursing a sore hand, caused by boils.

Dr. H. S. Alexander and wife, and Emanuel Smith and son Earl, of Potters Mills, spent Sunday with Smith Bros.

Wallace Neese and Howard Neese and wife, of Auburn, N. Y., are visiting at the home of their mother.

John Bron and wife are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Hettinger, in Altoona.

WORK IN A LIGHTHOUSE.

Daily Tasks Performed in Keeping the Lamps Bright.

The duties of the lighthouse keeper are many and important. The top of the tower is usually a tiny room, all glass windows. The lantern in the center of the room. It is a great prism of glass, in shape like a beehive. The lamp is set into this, and the lenses magnify the comparatively small light of the lamp and make it a great beacon seen far off over the waters. Should the luminant be a flashlight, there is machinery to be wound up every few hours to cause it to revolve. At sunset the keeper climbs the steep steps in the high tower, takes down the curtains that darken it throughout the day and sets the lamp inside the lantern. At midnight the lamp is changed. A freshly filled one is put in the place of the first lighted one.

When storms are raging or fogs prevailing, the keeper stays awake to wind the machinery that keeps the fog signal booming over the water. Many sleepless nights are thus spent by the light keepers in devoted vigil of the aids to navigation. At the gray of dawn the keeper is again climbing the steep iron ladder to the tower top. Before the red rim of the sun appears the lamp is extinguished, the fine prismatic lenses are covered, and the huge panes of glass that form the walls of the room are curtained. The large lamp is carried down the flights of an almost perpendicular ladder and when filled, trimmed and cleaned is ready for the sunset hour. The work of the keeper is not concluded with this feat. The most perplexing portion of the daily routine is now to be performed.

The lighthouse must give an account of his stewardship. A record is kept of every gill, pint, quart and gallon of oil that is nightly consumed by the lamps, the fractional parts of inches of wick burned, the lamp chimneys broken and the general consumption of all supplies furnished yearly in large quantities by the government.—Woman's Home Companion.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Currants are delicious when served with bananas. Slice the latter fruit and add plenty of sugar because of the acidity of the currants.

For cleaning a hairbrush use a weak solution of soda water. When tepid, shake the bristles in it. They will be cleaned without being weakened.

Space in a closet can be much increased by using hangers or wire forms hung on slats put across above the wooden strips that hold the usual hooks.

How do you get the paraffin on top of the jelly? Put a piece that you think when melted will cover the jelly in the glass. Pour the hot jelly in. The wax will come to the top.

When you wash handkerchiefs, collars, etc., put them in a pillowslip before they go into the boiler. You spend no time fishing for them, and they don't get lost or thrown out with the soaps.

Pineapple juice drained from the fruit and mixed with currant, lemon, blackberry or raspberry juice makes a delicious drink. A few wedges left to float in the lemonade bowl improves the flavor of that beverage.

All on $200 a Year.

A clergyman by the name of Mathson was minister of Patterdale, in Westmoreland, England, 60 years and died at the age of 100. During the early part of his life his benefice brought him only £12 a year. It was afterward increased to £18, which it never exceeded. On this income he married, brought up four children and lived comfortably with his neighbors, educated a son at the university and left behind him upward of a thousand pounds.

With that singular simplicity and attention to forms which characterize a country life, he himself read the burial service over his mother, he married his father to a second wife, and afterward buried him also. He published his own banns of marriage in the church with a woman he had formerly christened, and he himself married all his four children.

Alaska Driftwood.

No trees grow anywhere on the coast of western and northern Alaska, and yet these shores for thousands of miles and the islands of Bering sea are strewn with immense quantities of driftwood, in places piled high on the beach, bearing good testimony to the work of the rivers. This drift is the salvation of the Eskimo, furnishing him with fuel and material for houses, boats and sleds. The entire northeastern half of Bering sea is very shallow, less than 500 feet in depth, while the southwestern half is mostly about 12,000 feet deep.

Even Ruts Have Their Uses.

Life's monotones are a blessing, and not in disguise, for they contribute directly to longevity, health and happiness. The long lived man is not the adventurer, the explorer, the plunger, the man who has worries, but he who takes the world as he finds it and slips along through life with as little friction as possible, forms easy going habits, seeks to them and cares not one straw for the opinions of men who say that he is in a rut. He is healthy because he has peace of mind and regularity of life; he is happy because he is healthy and in a good, smooth, comfortable rut, which he prefers to the macadam on the sides of the road. Goldsmith's pastor, who had spiritual charge of the deserted village, who never had changed nor wished to change his place, is an excellent example of the man who makes the most possible out of the monotones of life.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The entire stock must be sold and the stock has been placed in the hands of the New York Salvage Company, the largest institution of its kind in the world. As this sale will only last 10 days, everything will go rapidly. This is the first of this kind and magnitude that has ever occurred in this city, and it may never occur again. The opening will be made a gala day. Bring the children. There will be music all day, and in order to prove to you what tremendous sacrifices must be made, we mention a few of the extraordinary bargains that will be offered. And bear in mind there are 1,000 different articles we cannot mention here. We advise you to save this and bring it with you, so that there is no mistake that you get exactly the goods mentioned in this document. Remember, no postponement, this great New York Salvage Company's sale will close in TEN DAYS. These are all up-to-date, 1901 goods. You know the date, you know the day. Sale positively begins Wednesday, September 25, and positively continues for ten days only, at Samuel Lewin's, Temple Court, Bellefonte, Pa. Do not confound this sale with so-called closing out sales, etc. This is a legitimate sale. Bellefonte's largest clothier is forced to make this sale and everything will be sold. Positively no goods sold and no one allowed in the building until Wednesday, September 25, at 9 a. m. Be sure you are right. Look for the large sign, New York Salvage Company.

NEW YORK SALVAGE CO., (FOR SAMUEL LEWIN.)

We hereby agree to refund the money on all goods priced above, if not satisfactory to the purchaser—George W. McGill and Gustave Kaufman, Mgrs. N. Y.—Rail fare paid to purchasers of $2.

GRANT'S RETREAT.

The General Went When a Policeman's Club Pointed the Way.

Speaking of nightsticks reminds me of seeing General Grant in his to my mind greatest hour, the only time he was ever beaten, and by a policeman. I told his son, Fred Grant, of it when he became a police commissioner in the nineties, but I do not think he appreciated it. He was not cast in his great father's mold. The occasion I refer to was after the general's second term in the presidency. He was staying at the Fifth Avenue hotel, when one morning the Masonic temple was burned. The fire line was drawn half way down the block toward Fifth avenue, but the police were much hampered by the crowd and were out of patience when I, standing by, saw a man in a great ulster with head buried deep in the collar, a cigar sticking straight out, coming down the street from the hotel. I recognized him at sight as General Grant. The policeman who blocked his way did not. He grabbed him by the collar, swung him about and, hitting him a resounding whack across the back with his club, yelled out: "What's the matter with you? Don't you see the fire line? Chase yourself out of here and be quick about it."

The general never said a word. He did not stop to argue the matter. He had run up against a sentinel and when stopped went the other way. That was all. The man had a right to be there; he had none. I was never so much an admirer of Grant as since that day. It was true greatness! A smaller man would have made a row, stood upon his dignity and demanded the punishment of the policeman. As for him, there was probably never so badly frightened a policeman when I told him whom he had clubbed. I will warrant he did not sleep for a week, fearing all kinds of things. No need of it. Grant probably never gave him a thought.—Jacob Riis in Outlook.

Peasant Costumes in Ireland. A certain number of peasants in the wilder and remoter districts of Ireland still wear something like a national costume. About Lough Mask plenty of the lassies are to be seen in picturesque red petticoats that artists loved to bring into their sketches of Irish life. A sprinkling of the old high hats may be seen. The older fishermen wear them, but the younger school shun such antiquated headgear, as the English peasant of today does the smock frock.—London Express.

Water. The ocean is a huge spring, containing not only salt, but many other minerals, in solution. The Dead sea is charged with such elements almost to saturation. Only distilled water is pure. By distillation sea water itself is rendered drinkable, though not pleasant.

In Days of Old. "The old idea," said the lecturer, "was an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth."

"Yes," concluded one of his hearers, "and there were no painless dentists in those days either."—Detroit Free Press.

There are lots of people who will not take a dare to do anything except a dare to go to work.—Atchison Globe.
