MR. PALM RESIGNS.

Mr. Andrew J. Palm formally resigned as the Democratic nominee for State Treasurer, and in doing so said: "From the general tone of the Democratic press, as well as from the opinions of the members of the committee who have been consulted, I am convinced that the Democratic sentiment of the state is strongly in favor of uniting our strength with that of the independent republicans in what promises to be a successful contest against that political organization, which is so lost to all sense of honor and shame as to endorse the last legislature in a state parliament."

"While it is true that the state convention passed a resolution indicating opposition to fusion, it is equally true that a great change in sentiment has taken place since the 15th of August, and there is no doubt that if a convention were to be held to-day it would be heartily in favor of uniting with those who are fighting the same battle for better government."

It now develops upon the Democratic State Committee to nominate a candidate to fill the place, which in all probability will be Hon. Elisha A. Coray, the gentleman placed in nomination by the Independent Republicans. If the Democratic State Committee places Mr. Coray in nomination, Mr. Coray's name will appear on the Democratic ticket at the head of the Reporter's editorial column.

A few weeks ago, before the Buffalo incident and the death of President McKinley, the woods were full of Republican candidates for President. There were Hauns, of Ohio, Fairbanks, of Iowa, Spooner, of Wisconsin, Lodge, of Massachusetts and others, all laying their plans and through self and others preparing for a contest for National delegates. They have all disappeared. Nothing is heard of them or their ambitions. The startling events of the last month have apparently settled the question of the next presidential nomination by the Republican party. Unless the unexpected should happen and elements of opposition not now dreamed of should be disclosed, it will be Theodore Roosevelt. There is no reasonable doubt of that. It remains to be seen whether his administration the next three years will inspire an effective opposition on partisan lines at the polls. It may do that. A business or industrial panic will certainly do it. Foreign complications growing out of the jingo spirit may do it. But this aside, which comes in the natural order of things, what a lucky man President Roosevelt has been. He was chosen vice president against his own opposition to the nomination, and has become President without pledges or promises or alliances or entanglements with factions or bosses. A renomination seems to be assured him without a contest. And yet he may not be elected. Sudden changes are the rule in American politics, and all our vice presidents who have succeeded to the presidency by death of the President have failed in their efforts for re-election. It was so with Tyler, with Fillmore, with Andrew Johnson and with Arthur.

The amendment providing for personal registration is of the utmost importance, and every citizen should support it most earnestly. It is a well-established fact that the loose methods of registering voters in the larger cities is the most prolific source of ballot frauds. For example under the existing system one man may have a hundred or more names, real or fictitious, put on the registry list. Half a dozen persons can exercise this privilege in a single election district. On election day every one of these names are voted on by repeaters, persons and ballot box stuffers, and in the aggregate, according to conservative estimates 80,000 fraudulent votes are cast in that way in Philadelphia every year. It is believed that 20,000 illegal votes are cast in the same way in Pittsburgh and Allegheny and every city of considerable population contributes more or less to this structure of fraud.
