10,000 MINERS ARE OUT OF WORK

Unless Rain Comes Soon All the Mines Will Be Closed—Acid in the Water Has Serious Effect On the Industrial Plants.

Pittsburg, Nov. 5.—Fifteen mines of the river coal combination, the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, closed yesterday, and 10,000 miners are thrown out of employment. The drought is the cause, and the mines and men will be idle until rains come sufficient to take south the millions of tons of coal that now congest the Pittsburg harbor and the slack-watered pools of the Monongahela river. Every one of the 100,000 available boats and barges is floating on the pools waiting for the rise that will furnish enough water for the towboats to take them across the shallow part of the Ohio between Pittsburg and Cincinnati. Unless the rains come before the middle of the month the remaining mines will be compelled to close, as by that time they will have used up their limited storage space at the tipples. In that event 7,000 additional men will quit. As a small compensation, about 3,000 of the miners went to work in the railroad mines, which are behind in their lake contracts.

The drought is having another serious effect on the great industrial region of the Monongahela valley. With only a small flow of water in the pools from which the mills draw their water, the proportion of sulphuric acid in it has increased to such an extent that the mills of the United States Steel Corporation have been seriously inconvenienced. Examinations of the water at the Homestead Steel Works during the past few days have shown that it contains from 3 to 5 per cent. of acid. The result has been that boilers have been eaten out, pipes cut and much damage generally caused. All mills now use soda ash by carloads, which is charged in the water before it is run into the boilers. The cutting away of the forests at the headwaters has made the droughts each summer longer, while the increase in mines, and in the depth of old mines, adds a greater flow of mine water.

FOUND BABY'S BODY IN RIVER

Brains Were Dashed Out and Child Thrown Into the Water.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 4.—Coroner J. McCarthy is investigating a case of infanticide at St. Clair, which has roused the deepest indignation in the community. The murder of the infant occurred at the bridge crossing the Schuylkill at that place, the body being found lying in the bed of the stream, which is very shallow.

At one of the corner posts of the bridge there was a pool of blood and blood upon the post, on which the little one's brains were dashed out. After being killed the child was thrown over a 15-foot wall into the river. Thus far the identity of the child has not been established nor are there as yet any clues to the murderer.

Boy Kidnapper Arrested.

Great Falls, Mon., Nov. 2.—A 12-year-old boy named Southwick kidnaped the 6-year-old son of G. W. Ryan, a grocer of this city, and sent a note to the father demanding $1,500 ransom, threatening injury to the child if the demand was not complied with. Mr. Ryan notified the police, who arrested young Southwick soon after the Ryan boy had arrived at his father's store unharmed, having been released. Southwick confessed, and declared he had no accomplices. He expressed no repentance, and said: "I would have hit the old man for $5,000 if I thought he would have stood for it."

Lack of Coke Closes Furnaces.

Pittsburg, Nov. 5.—Eighteen blast furnaces in the Pittsburg district and the Mahoning and Shenango valley have or are about to close down for want of coke. The car and motive power shortage on the railroads is responsible for this condition. The suspension of these blast furnaces will cut off pig iron production over 5,000 tons daily and will throw about 1,500 men idle. No relief is in sight, and it is probable that other furnaces will have to close.

Scranton's New Tax Law.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 5.—Recorder Connel yesterday signed the ordinance imposing a tax on the gross receipts of gas, water, light, telephone, telegraph and trolley companies. It will compel these public service corporations to contribute $100,000 annually to the city treasury, or enough to pay one-fourth of the municipal expenses. The ordinance was made possible by Scranton's new second-class city charter, the much-maligned rinner bill.
