If Lawyer Gray is appointed President Judge by Governor Stone, he will be obliged to use this form: President Judge Gray, '03.

There is some encouragement in the fact that the State outside of Philadelphia and Allegheny counties would have elected Yerkes and Coray, even with 200,000 voters absent from the polls.

The Lewistown Democrat and Sentinel relates that voters, both white and black, in Lewistown were bought like sheep on election day, and young men were demoralized with rum for several days before the election.

Francis J. O'Conner was elected Judge of Cambria county by a majority of fifty-one over Judge Barker. The county gave McKinley 3,000 majority. Judge Barker owes his defeat to a feeling in the county that he was entirely too active in factional politics.

If the people of Oklahoma and Indian Territory can get together in their ideas and aims before the assembling of congress they are going to make a very strong and in all probability a successful effort to have these two flourishing territories combined into a state and thus place a new star in the flag.

State Treasurer-elect Harris was defeated in his own county of Clearfield by a majority of one hundred and ten, though the Republican candidate for Prothonotary on the same ticket had a majority of 1600, and all the Republican candidates for the county offices were elected.

Admiral Schley's case is reaching applause and enthusiasm. When a witness, who was near Schley in the famous battle, told how, while others ducked their heads when the balls were flying by like railroad trains, Schley never lowered his for a moment, the audience clapped hands and Admiral Dewey had to use the gavel to call order—probably the first demonstration of its kind in naval annals.

Daring Wasps. "Wasps were the first paper makers," said an entomologist. "It is very interesting to study the ways of these fierce little insects. For the sake of a crab at the honey store a single individual will sometimes face a whole hive of bees, being in fair combat a match for any three inhabitants of the apiary."

Fire Fighting in England. In the smaller places in England horses have to be borrowed for the fire engines. Often thirty to fifty minutes are wasted in getting horses, which, when an alarm of fire was given, were at work at their daily duty.

How the Lover Looks at the Fire. When a young Savoyard goes a wooing, he pays considerably more attention to the admired one's fire than to her face. If she leaves the billets of wood undisturbed on the hearth, it is a sign that he is welcome, but should she place one of the blazing fagots in an upright position against the others it is a hint for him to take his departure.

Considerate. Bangs—Jubkins is the homeliest man I ever saw. Slings—Why don't you say it to his face? Bangs—I don't want to. Slings—You're afraid to, ain't you? Bangs—Oh, no. But his face has enough to bear already.—Detroit Free Press.

It is notable that fusion between the Democrats and Populists was not successful this year in Nebraska, as it has been in other years, although promoted and championed by William J. Bryan. Only a judge of the supreme court and a regent of the university were to be elected, the Populists taking one and the Democrats the other.

The cumbersome character of the unwieldy blanket ballot used at the late election, mainly to confuse voters and aid the machine, would not have had an existence had it not been for the defeat of the Guffey ballot reform law in the last Legislature by the Quay machine, after the pledge had been made by all parties and factions that such a law should be passed.

The Maryland legislative contest seems to be settled definitely as to the majority on joint ballot. The Democrats have a majority of nine in the Senate, and two or three in the House. The governor is a Democratic holdover. There is no opposition on the Democratic side to the return of ex-Senator Gorman to the United States Senate, and he will get the full Democratic vote without jar or division.

The death of Li Hung Chang will have little effect on the internal affairs of China and none on its relations with the outside world. His life has been a varied one. He won distinction in his educational career, so important in China; held important positions under the imperial government, and was regarded as a discreet adviser and successful diplomat and a skillful military leader.

MR. KELLER CREDITED. Daughters of Revolution Give D. C. Keller Proper Credit for Erecting Marker. At a recent meeting of the Daughters of the Revolution, D. C. Keller was given proper credit for his untiring effort in securing a marker for "Indian Lane," which was unveiled November 10, 1900, by that organization putting on record Mr. Keller's good deed, and sending him a copy of the historical notes as prepared by Miss Helen E. Overton, the chapter historian, of which the following are extracts:

The pioneers of Centre county, like those of other parts of the new world, were not exempt from serious trouble caused by the Indians. Two men, Thomas Van Doran and Jacob Shadacre, were killed in Potter township, July 25th, 1778, while defending their homes. Their bodies were buried in "Indian Lane" about one-half mile east of the historical "Old Fort." Mr. William Hennigh took care of the graves during his life time, but since his death so little attention has been given them that their location was in danger of being lost sight of.

The neglected condition of the last resting place of the two men whose names will always live in the annals of Centre county, appealed to Mr. D. C. Keller, ex-County treasurer, and awakened within him a desire to erect a suitable memorial. So zealously did he work that in time he had collected a sum of money great enough to purchase a beautiful marble shaft, in the shape of an oak tree with its branches cut off. A shield bearing the names of the brave heroes, and telling how and when they died is on the one side.

At one time the county was heavily forested with oak trees, so that the oak shaft is doubly interesting, as it is also a monument to the felled forest. The combat in which the two men and an Indian lost their lives took place around an oak tree. The story of this sad event is graphically told in Capt. Potter's letter calling upon Mr. J. General Armstrong for assistance in defending themselves against the Indians and is as follows: "July 25th, two men went out into the plains a little below the fields and met five Indians whom they engaged. One of the soldiers, Thomas Van Doran, was shot dead. The other, Jacob Shadacre, came to a hand-to-hand encounter with one of the Indians and both used their knives; Shadacre killed his antagonist. His fate was hard, for another Indian came up and shot him."

Scarcity of Apples. There is a scarcity of apples in the Eastern States, the greatest known for several years, with resulting high prices. In the West it is a little different. St. Louis is a great apple market, and the receipts there are very large and amounted in one day last week to 46,670 barrels, the greater part of which came from the recently developed fruit districts of Southern Missouri and Arkansas. The total receipts of apples for October, up to Saturday last, amounted to 307,476 barrels.
