BENCH, BAR AND JURY.

What Was Done at the Temple of Justice This Week.

The first week of the regular November term of court convened at nine o'clock Monday morning, Hon. John G. Love presiding. Shortly after the commencement of the session Calvin M. Bower, chairman of the examining committee, moved the admission of J. Victor Royer, who had successfully passed the examination necessary to be admitted to the practice of law in Centre county. Mr. Royer is a son of C. E. Royer, of Spring Mills, and promises a very bright future. He read law with the firm of Fortney and Walker.

The roll of the jurors was called and absentees noted. C. B. Rowe, of Philipsburg, was appointed foreman of the grand jury. The remainder of the morning session was occupied in the usual presentation of motions and petitions.

The following cases were settled or continued: H. M. Diening vs. Ann W. Biddle. Appealed from a justice of the peace. Settled.

Mary S. Thomas vs. Florence Buttler and Burdine Buttler. Feigned issue to try title of personal property. This case was tried in this court once before, appealed to the superior court where the decision was reversed and a new trial ordered. On account of the illness of an important witness the case was continued.

O. Perry Jones, executor of Kate A. Miller vs. Jane Gowland. Judgment opened; settled.

The constables in the several townships and boroughs made their regular quarterly report to the court.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. George Spangler, the defendant pleaded guilty. The court suspended sentence upon payment of costs. The charge was selling liquor without license.

Commonwealth vs. Harry J. Shuey. Charge, forgery. The defendant pleaded guilty. Upon investigation it developed that Shuey was of weak mind and had been influenced by another person. The money secured on the checks was refunded by his father; costs paid, and Shuey sent to the Huntingdon Reformatory.

Commonwealth vs. Harry Barthoff; charge, assault and battery with intent to kill. On the 16th of October the defendant, who lives at Runville, went to Snow Shoe, for a load of coal. While in Snow Shoe he became somewhat intoxicated, and on returning home became abusive and assaulted his wife by clubbing her, striking her and pulling out her hair. A neighbor came to her rescue, whereupon Barthoff went into the house. Later he accused his wife of unfaithfulness, and securing a revolver fired two shots at her. Verdict, guilty on first count.

Commonwealth vs. Calvin Styles; charge, assault and battery; prosecutor, J. B. Roan.

On October 4th, Mr. Rian went to Philipsburg and became intimate with the defendant. They spent the entire day in drinking, and towards evening as they were passing along the railroad the defendant assaulted and robbed Mr. Roan, and afterward threw him on the railroad track. After the close of the commonwealth's evidence, the defendant changed his plea to that of guilty.

Commonwealth vs. Jacob Lutz; charge, assault and battery. Prosecutor, Susan Gingerich.

Commonwealth vs. Walter Cathcart, charge, assault and battery. The defendant in this case is less than fifteen years of age, and the arrest was caused by a fight at school. The court suspended sentence upon payment of costs.

Commonwealth vs. Thomas Halt; charge, assault and battery; plea of guilty. Sentence suspended.

Commonwealth vs. Harry Brown, colored; charge, open lewdness, plea of guilty. Sentence $20.00 fine, costs and three months in jail.

Commonwealth vs. Harry Miller, colored; charge, malicious mischief to railroad track. On August 15th the defendant threw a switch and placed a spike between the rails of the central R. R. of Pa. The evening passenger train was derailed, but owing to the low speed no one was injured. This is the same boy who went through Irvin's stationary store last summer.

The criminal work was completed Tuesday at four o'clock, after which the civil list was taken up.

The first case taken up was A. Hancock vs. Jacob Q. Higgle; appeal. The defendant failed to appear in court and a verdict was taken in favor of the plaintiff for $54.68.

John G. Dibbs vs. John Heroman; appeal. This is a controversy arising out of a sale of phosphate. Plaintiff claims that Heroman failed to settle his account in full. Heroman claims that he paid for all that he ordered from the plaintiff.

Verdict for plaintiff in sum of $17.00. In the case of D. Z. Frain vs. Cen-

ROSS' NEW MILL.

A Well Equipped Flouring Mill Almost Ready for Business.

A blustering March day found the flouring mill at Linden Hall owned and operated by J. A. Ross in ashes. Today there stands on the site of the old mill, which was the efforts of the early settlers in Penns Valley, a flouring mill complete and up to date in every way. The structure itself is 36x40 feet, three stories high, and an annex. The mill is fitted out with the latest roller process of flour making machinery, manufactured by Strout, Waldron & Co., of Muncy, and has a capacity of fifty barrels per day.

Mr. Ross will use a New Era Gasoline engine, purchased from J. S. Rowe, of this place, and a horizontal turbine water wheel to drive the machinery, each of which has sufficient power to operate the mill.

Wm. Rishell, formerly of Miles township, who is at present milling for the Noble Milling Co., Williamsport, will become head miller when the machinery starts which will be in a very short time.

Newspapers in School Room.

The project or idea of using newspapers in public schools is rapidly growing and being more favorably discussed by educators in various parts of the country. Principals of both public and private schools argue that such a departure will largely tend to keep pupils in close touch with the current events of the day.

Dr. Brooks, superintendent of the public schools of Philadelphia, is heartily in favor of the movement. He says: "If the right kind of papers are used it will be a great advantage to the pupils. It will give them a conception of the history of the world as it is being made."

WILLIAM C. SCHUYLER.

Died Sunday Night, at Bellefonte, After an Illness of Several Months.

William Cattell Schuyler, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Schuyler, of this place, died at the residence of Dr. R. G. H. Hayes, Bellefonte, where he had been taken for treatment, Sunday night at ten o'clock.

He was born May 11, 1880, in the Academy at Lewistown, Pa. Upon graduating from the Everett High School as Salutatorian of his class, he entered Blair Presbyterian Academy, Blairstown, N. J. He studied there for two years, always standing high in his class, and then entered Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y., where he had just completed his Sophomore year.

He was preparing for the ministry, and had shown decided literary ability. Several of his stories and sketches appeared in the school and college papers, and elicited high praise, a member of the Hamilton Faculty declaring that they had never been equaled in the Hamilton publications. He was a member of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity, and was popular with both students and professors.

Immediately at the close of the college year he undertook some work for the vacation but was stricken with pleurisy. As soon as he was able to travel he came home, and seemed at first to be gaining strength, but soon alarming complications arose. After a consultation it was decided to take him to Bellefonte for an operation, to which place he was removed Saturday, November 16th. The following Monday an operation was performed and a large quantity of matter which had collected in the abdomen was removed. Not having sufficient strength for a double operation, the matter in his right side was not drawn off at that time.

He was faithfully and carefully attended by Dr. R. G. H. Hayes, a trained nurse and his mother, but he gained very little if any strength after the operation. Sunday evening about five o'clock, it was considered advisable to perform a second operation, from which he never rallied but gradually grew weaker and at ten o'clock passed away.

Throughout the months of his suffering he was cheerful and unwilling to make trouble, never losing faith in his ultimate complete restoration to health. At the time of his death he was aged twenty-one years, six months and thirteen days. He is survived by his father and mother and a sister, Miss Eloise.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning, services being held in the church. The scripture was read by Rev. J. M. Rearick of the Lutheran church. Rev. W. G. Finney, of Orbisonia, delivered the sermon which was followed by appropriate and touching remarks by Dr. Laurie, of Bellefonte, and Rev. D. E. Hepler, of Lemont, made the closing prayer. Rev. G. W. Kershner, of the Reformed church, and Rev. J. F. Shultz, of the Evangelical church, were also present at the services. Interment was made in the Centre Hall cemetery.

The pall bearers were Walter Kerlin, George Benner, William Sandoe, William Boozer, William Shoop, and Ralph Boozer.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. James R. Schuyler, of Bloomsburg, Pa., and Mrs. T. W. Simkins, of Lansdowne, Pa., brother and sister of Dr. Schuyler; Rev. W. G. Finney, cousin of Dr. Schuyler, of Orbisonia, Pa., and Mr. James Chambers, of Millinburg, a former pupil of Dr. Schuyler.

Among the many beautiful flowers, presented by relatives and friends of the family, was a pillow of roses and chrysanthemums from the Delta Upsilon Fraternity, of Hamilton College, of which William was a member.

THE HANDY FOLDING RULE.

In Old Standby of the Mechanic In Greater Demand Than Ever.

"There are about a million different kinds of rules," said a dealer in hardware and tools, "the rules being something of well high universal use in one form or another in pretty much all trades, but here's one old standby that we sell more of now than ever, this being the folding rule.

"There are plenty of rules that fold, the commonly known two foot rule being a familiar example, but this particular old rule that I speak of is known by name as the folding rule.

"It is made in foot long sections, in various lengths, ranging from two to ten feet and over ten, if required, but three feet, five feet, any number of feet, the rule, whatever its total length, folds up completely into a bundle a foot long. The slats are thin and fold up, and even a ten foot rule takes up little room. It can be quite conveniently carried in the pocket.

"Lots of people use folding rules—plumbers, for instance, in measuring pipes and in measuring places for pipes. In measuring a distance greater than the spread of the arms with a tape two men are required, but one man can measure with a folding rule as far as the rule can reach, and with such a rule he can, single handed, measure around corners or in the angles of wall and ceiling or in any other bend or crevice. We sell lots of them nowadays to electricians, who use them in measuring for wiring houses, and we sell them to various other users, the six foot rule being the one most commonly sold.

"Such rules, of whatever length, are sold by the foot, at 8 cents a foot."—New York Sun.
