

THE CENTRE REPORTER.
CENTRE HALL, . . . PENN'A.
November 28, 1901.

Spring Mills.

W. H. Fry, one of Pine Grove Mills' whole souled Democrats and veterinary surgeon, was in town and this community inspecting cattle. Mr. Fry keeps posted, and is an up-to-date surgeon.

Samuel Kiltnefelter and wife, of Earleystown, and John Heckman and wife, of Centre Hall, made a trip to the new furniture store.

E. M. Huyett and Samuel Rowe, of Centre Hall, were in town on business.

There are more houses for rent than there has been for several years. This does well for the town.

The long looked for rain came at last; the water in Penns Creek was lower than it had been any time this summer.

James Kennelly and family spent Saturday at the home of Perry Krise, in the Seven Mountains.

Katie and Rena Shires, two accomplished young ladies, daughters of Michael Shires, expect to visit in Philadelphia in the near future.

Samuel Condo is selling a scale that would be a great help to every farmer in securing just weight, and thereby save many a dollar otherwise lost. The scale is so constructed that it can be used as a truck to shift grain bags, or as a wheelbarrow. The scales will weigh 800 pounds.

Centre Hill.

W. W. Royer is suffering from a slight affection of the heart.

One of our young sports attended a dance at Linden Hall last Thursday night; nit

Miss Liddle Smith is still confined to her bed, suffering from a sprain received some time ago.

Miss Bessie Taylor, of near Centre Hall, was seen in town on Sunday.

Lloyd R. Smith is recovering from an attack of fever, and is able to hold a good hand in euchre. He is also much pleased over the arrival of a bouncing baby boy, and spent Saturday with the mother and son at Linden Hall.

"Cornie" McCormick, the crack butcher of Potters Mills, killed two very fine hogs for Mrs. Ellen Burkholder on Saturday that weighed 379 and 450 pounds, respectively. Mr. McCormick was much puzzled because one of the hogs, after being shot at twice, failed to fall, and was still more surprised on examining the head that the animal had not been hit at all, but, no wonder, for he used blank cartridges when shooting.

Tusseyville.

William Wagner, of Altoona, is spending a few days in this community, trying his luck in hunting.

John Wirt returned home Saturday after spending the summer in Illinois.

Linden Hall.

The revival services are being continued. Much interest seems to be manifested and it is hoped much good will be accomplished.

Mrs. Eliza Gettig, who was confined to her bed with rheumatism, is able to be around again.

Howard Zelgler, whose serious accident was made mention of some time ago, is improving, with bright prospects of permanent recovery from the injuries received.

The rain of Saturday and Sunday has filled the many empty cisterns and refreshed wells and springs.

The arrival of a young son at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Yarnell causes the father to smile.

The disease among hogs in this neighborhood is apparently checked, there having no new outbreaks been reported lately.

Write C. R. Hoover for prices on insurance.

The indications are that corn will be high in price by spring.

Our motto: Quick sales and small profits—Yeager & Davis, Bellefonte.

There was a great deal more than the truth told about that little affair at Colyer. The shooting was all in the air, and hurt no one.

Box Calf, Patent Leather, Enamel, Patent Kid and Vici Kid shoes for ladies at $2.00—Yeager & Davis, Bellefonte.

MEXICO AND CALIFORNIA.

Personally-Conducted Tours via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Woodward.

Wedding bells no doubt will ring on Mountain Avenue ere long. Bridegroom arrived Monday evening. The town boys no doubt will have a grand old time. The bridegroom is from Winbur, Pa.

The protracted meeting closed Sunday. There were no visible converts. Rev. Buck delivered very good sermons during the meetings.

Grandmother Showalter celebrated her 84th birthday last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Motz. She is hale and hearty, has possession of her mental faculties, and enjoys a short walk. Simon Showalter, of Northumberland, a son, and Mr. Adams, of Millmont, were present on the anniversary day.

Mr. Adams, of Millmont, while in town last week fell in love with a young widow. He is seventy-eight years old, a pensioned veteran of the civil war, and owns some property. He needs a housekeeper; who wouldn't marry an old soldier, under such conditions, and with a prospective widow's pension in sight.

Samuel Mowery, of Wolf's Chapel, and A. M. Kreamer, of Penn Hall, were in town last week.

Mr. Showers, the watchmaker, is in town repairing clocks and watches. He will have a magic lantern show in the school house this week.

J. H. Bowersox, who is in the employment of the U. T. & T. company, is back from Jersey Shore. He expects to be called to Mill Hall shortly and assist in putting up a line from that point to Tyrone.

Fannie Grenoble is staying with Harris Stover this winter. Fred Styers left Aumillers and is at present staying with Jacob Musser, near Wolf's Chapel.
