THE OLD BLUE JAR

Before Clementine went down to Milltown for the summer she made up her mind that she would bend all her energies to wheedle Aunt Phoebe out of the old blue ginger jar that Uncle Julius had brought home from China, little thinking that the old slant eyed, fat sided mandarin would take such a locular interest in her joys and sorrows.

The old blue jar had perched for many years on the corner of the high mantelpiece in the old fashioned country parlor, and Aunt Pheebe knew that If she gave it to Clementine she would have a dreadfully lonesome feeling every time she stood on a chair to dust the old clock, the shells, the peddler vases, the leather fans and other companions of its lofty abode. But Clementine was an accomplished wheedler, and the fond old aunt finally said she might have her wish.

When Aunt Phoebe gave over to Clementine her right and title to the old blue jar. Randall was leaning in the window and idly sifting rose leaves from the old climbing vine through the meshes of his tennis racket. He sympathized with her lively admiration for the antique and unique in china and was glad that she had attained her heart's desire, but a more absorbing interest possessed his manly breast. Clementine was going home in the morning, and he had been trying in the message he betook himself thither. He was graciously received by Clementine-that is, graciously enough for a young man who had played the p triffer with her invisible affectionsm and he seated himself in a cozy chair near the pretty table which held his old friend-the blue jar.

As he talked with Clementine, a little constraint being apparent on both sides, he toyed with the lid of the jar, and the slant eved mandarin appeared to wink at him three times very knowingly.

Under some occult but imperative pressure Randall removed the lid and the touched with his finger the silken texture of some mysterious contents.

Curiosity further constrained him, and he pulled from the bosom of the h now jubilant mandarin a pale blue article of singular description for a parlor ornament, and, following it, he extri- t cated a pale pink strip of similar shape and structure.

Turning to Clementine for explanation of these unforeseen apparitions, he sideration, and that is the whole CLEMANT DALK, found her speechless with wild eyed as- story. tonishment, and without a word or gesture she seized the old blue jar and hurried from the room.

Randall smiled the first real, soul felt, refreshing smile that he had indulged in for several months and vowed by the pigtail of the old slant eyed that he would stay reoted to the spot until Clementine returned.

What she said to the genius of the jar as she flew up stairs with it only the mandarin can reveal.

As Randall paced the parlor, pulling his mustache and wondering if Clementine's keen sense of humor would carry her safely through the trying hour, she came shamefacedly into the room, bearing in one hand the blinking old mandarin and in the other the pleading letter he had borne so long hid in his elever old bosom.

Randall met the dear girl more then the present time. Roosevelt says we on his shoulder he promised never," never, never to tell.

Now, as Randall never told and Clementine never told, the entire responsibility of this revelation lies between you and me and the ginger jar.

About Sneezing.

We frequently hear the expression, "God bless you!" uttered after some one has succeed. The expression, if any explanation, thus giving ground we can believe Clodd in his "Childhood for the belief that it admitted no soluof the World," dates back to the time of Jacob. We are told in Jewish litauthorized by special act of congress erature that previous to his time then to sell the property at public or private sneezed but once in a lifetime and that was the end of them, for the shock slew them. Jacob prevailed in prayer and had the fatality set aside on the condition that among all the nations a sneeze should be hallowed by the words, "God bless you!" In the "Jataka." one of the books of the Buddhist Scriptures, we read that the expression was, "May the blessed Lord allow you to live!"

Buddha on one occasion while preaching to his disciples happened to sneeze. The priests gave vent to the exclamation, and Buddha lectured them for interrupting his discourse.

"If when a person sneezes," he asked, in order that the title might still re-"and you say, 'May he live!' will he live the longer?"

"Certainly not!" cried the priests. "And if you do not sny it will he die | retary Gage are estimated to have been

America's Superior Schools.

In spite of excessive decentralization and the lack of a regulative central authority America has, by making education a local concern, by confiding to each district the organization and control of its schools, by insisting on free public schools in the true sense of these much abused words, created a system which, in spite of its crudeness and obvious imperfections, may yet excite our envy, both as it brings education, secondary as well as primary, within the ding so soon after having the grip. reach of all and as it is canable of infinite self development and progress, unshackled by the dead hand of ecclesiasticism and departmental routine.
