Evidence of a Wonderful Age. A steamer that sailed from New York this week for a 14,000-mile excursion in the Orient carried, among others, 75 clergymen, 100 Bible students, 75 bank clerks, and 179 spinsters, young and not so young. It is a wonderful age, and we expect to live to go to church pic-nics in Hawaii and Kaffirland.

MAN HAS A LION TO FIGHT Dr. Talmage Says When Contending Against

An Evil Habit You Stand in a Circle of Sympathy.

Clouds of Witnesses-"Blessed Are They Who Put Their Trust in Him."

WASHINGTON, D. C .- This discourse of Dr. Talmage is full of inspiring thoughts for those who find life a struggle, and shows that we have many celestial sym-pathizers; texts, Hebrews xii, 1, "Seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses;" I Corinthians xv, 32, "I have fought with beasts at xv, 32, Ephesus.

Crossing the Alps by the Mont Cenis pass or through the Mont Cenis tunnel, you are in a few hours set down at Verona, Italy, and in a few minutes begin examining one of the grandest ruins of the world, the Amphitheatre. The whole building sweeps around you in a circle. You stand in the arena where the combat was once fought or the race run, and on all sides the seats rise, tier above tier, until you count forty elevations or galleries, as I shall see fit to call them, in which sat the Senators, the kings and the 25,000 ex-cited spectators. At the sides of the arena and under the galleries are the cages in which the lions and tigers are kept with-out food until, frenzied with hunger and out lood until, irenzied with hunger and thirst, they are let out upon some poor victim, who, with his sword and alone, is condemned to meet them. I think that Paul himself once stood in such a place, and that it was not only figuratively, but literally, that he had "fought with beasts at Ephesus." day!

gala day has come. From all the gone out; the swords are sheathed and the mob hushed. Now they watch us with an all observing sympathy. They know all the pain, all the hardship, all the anguish, all the injustice, all the privation. They cannot keep still. They cry: "Courage! The fire will not consume; the floods can-not drown; the lions cannot devour. Cour-age down there in the arguing." world the people are pouring into Verona. Men, women and children, orators and Senators, great men and small, thousands upon thousands come, until the first gallery is full, and the second, the third, the fourth, the fifth-all the way up to the twentieth, all the way up to the thirtieth, all the way up to the fortieth. Every place is filled. Immensity of audience sweeping the great circle. Silence. The time for the contest has come. A Roman official leads fire!

forth the victim into the arena. Let him get his sword with firm grip into his right hand. The 25,000 sit breathlessly watchhand. The 25,000 sit breathlessly watch-ing. I hear the door at the side of the arena creak open. Out plunges the half starved lion, his tongue athirst for blood, and with a roar that brings all the galler ies to their feet he rushes against the sword of the combatant. Do you know how strong a stroke a man will strike when his life depends upon the first thrust of his blade? The wild beast, lame and bleeding, slinks back toward the side of the arena; then rallying his wasted strength he comes up with fiercer eye and more terrible roar than ever, only to be driven back with a fatal wound, while the To one of the Roman amphitheatrical audiences of 100,000 people Paul refers when he says, "We are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses." The direct reference in the last passage is made that, I take now Paul's favorite idea of the Christian life as a combat. The fact is that every Christian man has a lion to fight. Yours is a bad temper. The gates of the arena have been opened, and this tiger has come out to destroy your . It has lacerated you with many a nd. You have been thrown by it time wound. and again, but in the strength of God you have arisen to drive it back. I verily be-lieve you will conquer. I think that the temptation is getting weaker and weaker. You have given it so many wounds that the prospect is that it will die, and you shall be victor, through Christ. Courage, brother! Do not let the sands of the arena drink the blood of your soul! Arena drink the blood of your soul! Your lion is the passion for strong drink. You may have contended against it for twenty years, but it is strong of body and thirsty of tongue. You have tried to fight it back with broken bottle or empty wine flask. Nay, that is not the weapon. With flask. Nay, that is not the weapon. With one horrible roar he will seize thee by the throat and rend thee limb from limb. Take this weapon, sharp and keen-reach up and get it from God's armory-the sword of the Spirit. With that thou may-est drive him back and conquer! But why specify when every man and woman has a lion to fight? If there be one here who has no besetting sin, let him speak out, for him have I offended. If you have not fought the lion, it is because you have let the lion eat you up. This very moment the contest goes on. The Trajan celebration, where 10,000 gladiators fought and 11,000 wild beasts were slain, was not so terrific a struggle as that which at this moment goes on in many a soul. The combat was for the life of the body; this is for the life of the soul. That body; this is for the life of the soul. That was with wild beasts from the jungle; this is with the roaring lion of hell. Men think, when they contend against an evil habit, that they have to fight it all alone. No! They stand in the centre of an immense circle of sympathy. Paul had been reciting the names of Abel, Enoch, Noab, Abraham, Sarah, Isaac, Joseph, Gideon and Barak and then says, "Being compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses." But here I pause, overwhelmed with the misesty and the joy of the scene! Gallery of the scene! Gallery of the king! Gallery of angels! Gallery of the king! Gallery of angels! Gallery of the king! Gallery of the scene! Gallery of the king! Gallery of angels! Gallery of the king! Gallery of the scene! Gallery of the king! Gallery of angels! Gallery of the king! Gallery of angels! Gallery of the scene! Gallery of marting in the scene. The form set the scene. The scene of the scene. The scene of the scene! The scene of the scene. The scene of witnesses. Before I get through I will show you out of more lions than we can meet. He will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able. Thank God! The King is in the gallery! His eyes are on us. His heart is with us. His hand will deliver us.

I look again and I see the gallery of the martyrs. Who is that? Hugh Latimer, sure enough! He would not apologize for the truth he preached, and so he died, the the truth he preached, and so he died, the night before swinging from the bedpost in perfect glee at the thought of emancipa-tion. Who is that army of 6666? They are the Theban legion who died for the faith. Here is a larger host in magnificent array, 884,000, who perished for Christ in the persecutions of Diocletian. Yonder is a family group. Felicitas, of Rome, and her children. While they were dying for the faith she stood encouraging them. One faith she stood encouraging them. One son was whipped to death by thorns; another was flung from a rock; another was beheaded. At last the mother became a beheaded. At last the mother became a martyr. There they are together, a family group in heaven! Yonder is John Brad-ford, who said in the fire, "We shall have a merry supper with the Lord to-night!" Yonder is Henry Voes, who exclaimed as he died, "If I had ten heads, they should all fall off for Christ!" The great throng of the martyrs! They had hot lead poured down their throats; horses were fastened to their hands and other horses to their to their hands and other horses to their feet, and thus they were pulled apart; they had their tongues pulled out by redhot pincers; they were sewed up in the skins of animals and then thrown to the dogs; they were daubed with combustibles and set on fire! If all the martyrs' stakes that have been kindled could be set at proper distances they would make the midhight all the world over bright as noon-lay! And now they sit yonder in the martyrs' gallery. For them the fires of persecution have gone out; the swords are sheathed and the 2. 64c.

age down there in the arena!" What? Are they all looking? This hour we answer back the salutation they give and cry, "Hail, sons and daughters of the

I look again and I see another gallery-that of eminent Christians. What strikes me strangely is the mixing in companion-ship of those who on earth could not agree. There is Albert Barnes and around him the presbytery who tried him for hetero-doxy! Yonder are Lyman Beecher and the church court that denounced him! Stranger than all, there are John Calvin and James Arminius! Who would have thought that they would sit so lovingly to-gether? There are George Whitefield and the arena; then rallying his wasted strength he comes up with fiercer eye and more terrible roar than ever, only to be driven back with a fatal wound, while the combatant comes in with stroke after stroke until the monster is dead at his feet, and the 25,000 clap their hands and utter a shout that makes the city tremble. Sometimes the audience came to see a roce; sometimes to see gladiators fight each ofter, until the people, compassionate for the fallen, turned their thumbs up as an sppeal that the vanquished be spared, and cometimes the combat was with wild teasts. To one of the Bornen emphilicential the fallen is the set of the spared and the set of the aborigines evan-gelized; and Mrs. Adoniram Judson, whose prayers for Burma took heaven by to into the arena. Our struggle is nothing to the spared and the arena. Our struggle is nothing to the spared and the set of the struggle is nothing to the into the arena. Our struggle is nothing to the spared and the set of the spared and the set of the stroke are to set of the stroke are to set of the stroke are to set of the spared and the set of the stroke are to set of the spared are to set of the stroke are to set of the stroke are to set of the spared are to set of the stroke are to set of the spared are to set of the stroke ar the ministers who would not let him come into the arena. Our struggle is nothing to theirs! Do we in Christ's cause suffer from the cold? They walked Greenland's icy mountains. Do we suffer from the heat? They sweltered in tropics. Do we get fatigued? They fainted, with none to care for them but cannibals. Are we persecuted? They were anathematized. And as they look from their gallery and see us falter in the presence of the lions I seem to hear Isaac Watts addressing us in his old hum only a little descend old hymn, only a little changed: Must you be carried to the skies On flowery beds of ease While others fought to win the prize Or sailed through bloody seas? Topiady shouts in his old hymn:

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

General Trade Conditions.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "All the Atlantic coast business con-inues temporarily checked by the storm, and some interior points are suffering rom unfavorable weather, but consump ive demands give no evidence of abatenent. Prices of perishable goods adanced sharply, and the whole range of taple commodities tended upward.

Jobbing trade in spring lines of wearng apparel is of ample proportions, and ill heavy hardware and products of iron feel the pressure in that industry.

"Prices of pig iron have made decided advances, despite the opposition of leadng interests. Railway supplies and tructural material are still the most agerly sought of finished steel prodtcts. Cotton added a small fraction to ts price and ruled quiet during the week the highest position of the crop year. "Liabilities of the commercial failures thus far reported for February aggregated $6,697,881, of which $3,404,627 were n manufacturing, $2,892,142 in trading, and $401,112 in other commercial lines. 'Failures for the week number 250 in the United States, against 253 last year, and 31 in Canada, against 39 last year."

He Had a "Meter Beater."

"This," said a trampy-looking indi-vidual, "is what I call a meter-beater. It is an ordinary magnetic coil with a crew base to fasten to an electric light socket, thus.

So saying he adjusted it deftly in place on an electric lamp and looked around for further encoragement.

"You now bring the coil into the magnetic field of the meter, thus," and he held it about three inches from the place where the hands go around; "and you will observe that the hands of the meter turn backward each time in their flight. That is just what they were doing, and they were buzzing at a tremendous speed at that.

'When I began on your meter," said the electrical tramp, "you were in debt to the company for about $16. Inside of five minutes the company will be owing you money. Price two-fifty. No? Somewhat surprised at you. I have been in twenty places today and this is the first one where I haven't made a sale."

Those fathers and mothers started us on the road of life. Are they careless as to what becomes of us? And those children—do they look with stolid indifference as to whether we win or lose this battle of life? They remember the day they left us. They remember the agony of the last farewell. Once in the ancient amphitheatre a lion with one paw caught the combatant's sword and with his other paw caught his shield. The man took his knife from his girdle and slew the beast. The king, sit-ting in the gallery, said: "That was not fair. The lion must be slain by a sword." Other lions were turned out, and the poor victim fell. You cry, "Shame! shame!" at such meanness.
