PENROSE'S "SMART" TRICK.

The Senators from Pennsylvania could not be expected to look with favor on a proposition to take the power of choosing United States Senators from corruptible Legislatures and place it in the hands of the people. Neither of them would occupy a seat in the Senate if the majority of their fellow-citizens had anything to say about it. Therefore no surprise is caused by Senator Penrose's admission that he offered an amendment to the bill proposing popular election of Senators in order to make its passage more difficult.
