200 FAINTING MEN.

Sunday Discourse by Dr. Chapman, the Noted Pastor-Evangelist.

Every Person is Called Into the Kingdom of God for a Purpose-We Shall Be Made to Account for Work Undone.

NEW YORK CITY .-- The following schol-NEW YORK CITY.—The following schol-arly and readable sermon has been pre-pared for the press by the popular pastor-evangelist, the Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chap-man. The subject of the discourse is "Two hundred fainting men," and it was preached from the text, "Two hundred abode behind, which were so faint that they could not go over the Brook Besor." I. Samuel 30: 10. I. Samuel 30: 10.

In some respects we are reminded in this story of the celebrated charge of the this story of the celebrated charge of the Light Brigade, possibly because there were 600 of David's soldiers, and perhaps be-cause they fought valiantly and won a great victory. While the rank and file would not compete with the men who fought at Sebastapol or Inkerman, for they had been a discontented lot in their homes and in their service, yet there were homes and in their service; yet there were some really great soldiers among them, and they were as ready to die as were those 600 illustrious men who made the gallant illustrious men who made the gallant charge not many years ago. At the time of the text David was liv-ing at Ziklag, and he and his men had been away in battle. The battle has been waged, the victory has been won and they are homeward bound. They have camped for the last night, and to-morrow morning they will be with their loved ones. The or-der is given to break camp and forward march, and when they came to the hill where before them they could naturally see Ziklag the first man shades his eyes with his hands and looks. His face grows pale and he begins to shudder, for Ziklag is in ashes, and as they come nearer their is in ashes, and as they come nearer their wives and children and all their property have been carried away. They are about to turn upon David and stone him, but when he agrees to go after the enemy they turn away from the ruins of their homes and start in hot pursuit. They reach the Brook Besor, and then find that they have Brook Besor, and then find that they have in their company men who are not able to go on, some because they are old, others because they were crippled, and still oth-ers because they were ill. The number comprised 200. In order that they might move more rapidly and battle more suc-cessfully all the heavy transing were left cessfully all the heavy trappings were left with the 200 at the Brook Besor, and 400 men pursued the enemy. They overtake an Egyptian, who is left by the wayside an Egyptian, who is jeft by the haysis as good as dead, and when they give him some refreshments and promise him that they will not let him fall into the hands of the enemy, neither will they put him to death themselves, he tells them the direction that the enemy has gone, and pursution that the enemy has gone, and pursu-ing after them they come suddenly upon them. They have been intoxicated with their great success, and although the bat-tle was fierce for a little while victory be-longs to David and his men. Their wives and children are theirs once more; most valuable treasure also is taken, and they have been dealed by the Brook have turned their faces back to the Brook Besor. Suddenly some one in the company begins to talk of the distribution of the plunder, and they have about decided that the 200 fainting men shall have nothing when David, with all the kingliness that it was possible for him to assume, declare was possible for him to assume, declares "as his part is that goes out to the battle so shall his part be that tarries by the stuffs. They shall share and share alike," and then he turned to the Brook Besor and saluted his men. Every old soldier and every weak man received as much of a reward as if he had here in the front of a reward as if he had been in the front of rather unto the furtherance of the gospel; so that my bonds in Christ are manifest in all the palace, and in all other places." Philippians 1: 12-13. There are those who say if I were only in a more enlarged sphere I would be brave and true, but this is not at all cartain if you are not heave is not at all certain if you are not brave and true where you stand to-day.

"Just where thou art lift up thy voice, And sing the song that stirs thy heart; Reach forth thy strong and eager hand To lift, to save, just where thou art. Just where thou standest light thy lamp, "Tis dark to others as to thee; Their ways are hedged by unseen thorns, Their burdens fret as thine fret thee.

Out yonder, in the broad, full glare Of many lamps thine own might pale And thy sweet song amid the gear Of many voices slowly fail; While these thy kindred wandered on Uncheered, unlighted, to the end. Near to thy hand thy mission lies. Wherever sad hearts need a friend."

First-Perhaps you are where you are ecause you have not filled full that posi-ion, and God will never call you to a higher place until you have overflowed where you are. Mourning and fretting bewhere you are. Mourning and fretting be-cause you are not where you want to be does not make things better. The bonds are only tightened by the fretfulness. Two birds in two cages in a room give an illus-tration. One dashing itself against the bars because it is impresent injuring itself tration. One dashing itself against the bars because it is imprisoned, injuring itself and stopping its song; the other singing as if it would outsing the lark in the mead-ows, and moving thereby its mistress to open the cage and set it free. He who does the best he can where God has placed him has put his foot on the round of the ladder that leads up to higher things. that leads up to higher things.

Second-Usefulness is not the primary Second-Usefulness is not the primary object for the Christian. We say, "Ob, that we might be more useful," but first rather let us desire to be more holy, for that is God's will. There is nothing betthat is God's will. There is nothing bet-ter for the most of us than sorrow or dis-appointment or trial because these things shape character. There is little merit in being good when everything about us makes us good, and usefulness is the result of character, is to character what the fra-grance is to the rose. The gardener does not aim first for the fragrance, but to make the rose perfect, and the fra-grance takes care of itself. If you study the sermons of Whitfield, Wesley, Spur-geon and Moody you may wonder why these sermons produced such mighty ef-fects. It was because the power was in the messenger rather than in the message. To be right with God, to be holy, to be like Christ, is our first duty, and through the door of holiness we pass to usefulness. In the early painting days of West, Morse, the philosopher, entered his studio. He was painting his masterpiece of "Christ Rejected," when he said to his friend, "Let me tie your hands and paint them in the picture," and if you have ever seen this picture you have seen the hands of ter for the most of us than sorrow or the picture," and if you have ever seen Morse painted in the stead of Christ. If you are in bonds for Christ's sake this very thought will take from you the sting of living possibly out of sight and doing only common things as you have done in other days, yet the time will come when you will be free.

Perhaps there are those here who are in bondage because they have never yet be-come Christians. In the old Water street down with sin until he stood little more down with sin until he stood httle more than four feet high, like a veritable dwarf, but when he bowed at the altar and yielded himself to Christ he stood up as straight as an athlete. Perhaps this is what you need. Sighing for peace, you have not found it, searching for pleasure it has eluded its grasp. Oh, come to Christ to-day, for He may set you free.

the fight. There is an impression abroad that the rewards for the Christian are given to those who have rendered conspicuous ser-vice; great preachers, great philanthro-pists, great martyrs. This is not so acbeen in the days of his youth, and it may our heart was almost breaking, when the mes of affliction took hold upon you that God was but seeking to free you fron bondage and lead you out into a larger field of service. The thing from which you shrank away He meant for your edifica-A dear friend of mine with whom I trav eled recently said, "I was but an average Inristian until one day God came unto my Christian until one day God came unto my home and took my daughter, and then in the midst of my sorrow I yielded myself to Him, gave Him my time and my money and everything that I had, and I stepped out into a life of blessing such as I had never known, and I would not give I had never known, and I would not give the last twelve years for all my life before put together." And then, too, we shall be free when we see Him. For the man whose sphere has been most circumscribed here will doubtless find when he stands in the presence of the King that he was but in a preparation for a mission among the in a preparation for a mission among the saints at which the very angels might well stand amazed. III. If all these seem like hardships to us and we have been without comfort, then let us wait until the day of reward shall come. The mother who has had a hard time with her children, just wait and do your best. When Charles Wesley comes to judgment, and all the hosts that have been won to Christ by His power of music come, it will be a great day, and when John Wesley comes to judgment with all the souls of Methodism with him it will be a marvelous sight, but higher than the throne of either Charles Wesley or John will be throne of Susana Wesley, their mother. The old preacher who has been discour-aged oft times because his church was se small and his work so apparently insignifi-cant, needs only to wait until that great day, and when that old minister who preached in Falkirk stands in His presence to say possibly to Him, "Master, I had but a little field," he will hear Him say, "But you led Robert Moffat to me," and as Joseph Parker said the man who added Robert Moffat to the church added a continent to the kingdom. And when the old English minister whose field was very circumscribed, whose name is not generally known, stands in His presence to say, "Master, I did the best I could, but my church was small." He will say to him, church was small." He will say to him, "But you led Charles Spurgeon to Christ, and Spurgeon led a multitude." When Henry VIII. and Anne Boleyn came up the River Thames they had a great entrance into the city of London. Fifty barges followed the Lord Mayor. Officials were dressed in scarlet. Musicians chanted upon the hanks of the river, and she who was to be the queen clad in gar-ments of heauty, walking upon yelvet cenments of beauty, walking upon velvet, en-tered Westminster Abbey, and the service was a great one, but it is as nothing com-pared to the end when the rewards are given to those who have simply been faithful. I was sick, Hc will say, "and ye visited Me," and the young Christian Endeavorer will say, "But, Master, when?" and He will answer, "it was when you walked through the wards of the hospital and gave a flower to this one and a cup of cold water to that one." "I was weak and ye helped Me." and this business man will say, "But, Master, when?" and He will an-swer, "It was the coin you gave to the man swer, "It was the coin you gave to the man in the crowded streets of the city yesteray, and who but for that coin would have starved." And to the mother who has cared for her children, and the business man who has faithfully performed the task of his business, and the father who has been true in his home He will say, "Inas-business and it unto the last of these the diffection of the lives of her logs. In you find yourself in a discouraged position do as Paul did, make the best of it, for we remember what he said when he writes to the Philippians, "But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out much as ye did it unto the least of these ye did it unto Me."

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

General Trade Conditions.

"Bradstreet's" says: "Weather, crop and industrial developments have been largely favorable, and coupled with the greater ease of money make for an optimistic feeling in trade and speculation. As stated some time ago, and confirmed by recent developments, the future seems more and more secure, but the immediate present does not in all instances present so satisfactory an appearance.

'In the matter of actual business improvement is noted in the demand for inished products of iron and steel and umber seems to be recovering from the emporary depression noted at the berinning of July. The shoe trade and laturally hides and leather, heretofore ackward, have begun to show a favorible side, and the strength of wool and woolen goods is also more noticeable. The dry goods trade taken as a whole is ather quiet, but increased interest is shortly to be expected. The Eastern all jobbing trade in this line is not expected to set in quite as early as a year ago

Good growing weather is reported the country over, and corn and cotton eports are generally more favorable.

Woolen goods are still quiet at the East, but the reports as to the clothing pusiness received from Western and Southern manufacturers indicate a good ousiness. It has been a waiting market or cotton, the crop position not being as yet clearly defined enough to indace new commitments. A better tone is noted in the manufacturing branch, parcicularly in print cloths, which are said to be in increased inquiry at Fall River.'

HAS UNIQUE MASONIC HONOR.

Experiences of a Maryland Brother While Traveling in the East.

Thomas J. Shryock, grand master of the Masonic grand lodge of Maryland, was one of the big excursion party which sailed from New York some months ago on the big ocean liner Celtic for a tour of the Mediterranean and interesting spots contiguous thereto. After the party had been at sea for a day or so it was discovered that 167 members of the Masonic fraternity were on board. These formed the Celtic Masonic association and elected Gen. Shryock president. In virtue of his distinguished office the general presided at a lodge meeting of Syrian and American Masons held in a cavern under the site of King Solomon's temple at Jerusalem-"the first lodge held there," it is said, "since the time of Solomon." In connection with this interesting event-in which representatives of twenty-six grand lodges participated-Gen. Shryock was elected an honorary member of the Royal Solomon Mother lodge of Jerusalem. While in Egypt he enjoyed the unique honor of being made an honorary grand master of the grand lodge of Egypt, receiving special courtesies from the grand master of the grand lodge of that country, namely, Idris Bey Raghel, under whose auspices he attended a meeting of Bad Helouan daily in the restaurant at noon and its sessions are described as hair raising. The organization is an outgrowth of the debate on the Philippine bill. The members of the club say they have heard such horribly harrowing stories of the atrocities committed by the American soldiers told by the opponents of the measure that they secure no satisfaction in the articles printed in newspapers because they are so unexciting and dull, so the club was formed in order to supply this deficiency. Each day some member of the club tells a blood-and-thunder story, which he dresses up in the fiercest language at his command. Senator Depew so far bears the palm. as he related to the members the narrative of a railroad ride during which took place a robbery, a murder, a suicide and a wreck. Innumerable people were killed and there was more blood shed than has been shed in the Samar campaign.

vice; great preachers, great philanthro-pists, great martyrs. This is not so ac-cording to the text; neither is it true according to the teaching of the Bible. wards are not given for the amount of noise made in the world, nor for the amount of good which we are supposed to have done, but whether we have worked up to our full canacity.

You doubtless remember Plato's fable of the spirits that returned to this world each to choose a body for its sphere of work. One took the body of a king, another a poet, still another of a philosopher, and Ulysses came with great disappoint-ment because all that was worth having was taken, when some one said the best is left. You may choose the body of a common man and do a common work and receive a common reward, and this he did.

Every man is called into the kingdom of God for a purpose. There is no question about this. Just as in the making of a great locomotive every piece must be constructed by an expert and every bit of work must be marked with the name of work must be marked with the hame of the workman, so that if the engine should break in Jerusalem or China the failure could be traced to the proper source. God expects every man to do his duty, and for every one in all the kingdom He has a plan of course. We are not all expected to of course. We are not all expected to perform the same mission. Paul has an illustration of this in First Corinthians, the 12th chapter, where he is describing the body where he says, "Ye cannot say to the hand. I have no need of thee, and if the body were an eye where were the hearing, etc.," but each performs its own mission, the uncomely parts receiving the greatest attention from the head. So every one of us has a work to do. If we leave it undone we shall be called to a strict account.

There are two kinds of work illustrated in the story of these soldiers and the 200 fainting men. One kind is marching forth under the gaze and admiration of the multitude, the other is just tarrying by the Brook Besor taking care of the stuff, and yet it has its reward.

One of our honored old ministers a week ago was plunged into great sorrow by the news of the death of his son. He had died by his own hand. When the news was broken to the father it seemed as if he would fall, when suddenly remembering the comfort which he had ever given to others he cried aloud. "Though He slay me yet will I trust Him," and he never through all his ministry preached a better sermon.
