She was a nice little girl who had just joined one of the downtown clubs, the dues of which were one cent, payable weekly. One day she came to the club with tears in her eyes. The directress, a kindly young lady vastly interested in sociological problems, kindly patted the child's head.

"What's the matter, Maggie?" she asked.

Maggie gulped, and then looked up with doglike faith. "My ma says she ain't a-goin' to lemme come here any more. We can't afford to pay a penny a week."

"Doesn't your father work?" asked the directress, kindly. "Why, I thought he was getting a good salary and had joined the union."

"Yes'm," sobbed Maggie, "he was. But he don't work now—he strikes."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Mothers need not dread childbearing after they know the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. While I loved children I dreaded the ordeal, for it left me weak and sick for months after, and at the time I thought death was a welcome relief; but before my last child was born a good neighbor advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I used that, together with your Pills and Sanative Wash for four months before the child's birth;—it brought me wonderful relief. I hardly had an ache or pain, and when the child was ten days old I left my bed strong in health. Every spring and fall I now take a bottle of Lydia E. # A LOST SAVIOUR.

Sunday Discourse By Dr. Chapman, the Noted Pastor-Evangelist.

A Companion Picture to a Masterpiece, which Dr. Chapman Suggests—The Awfulness of Being Without Christ.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., the popular pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, who is remarkably successful as an evangelist, prepared an interesting sermon upon the subject "A Lost Saviour." It is preached from the text, "They have taken away my Lord." John 20: 13.

One of the masterpieces in the Louvre presents to us a picture of Christ upon the cross. His head is upon His breast; underneath His arms the little birds are flying for a place of refuge, and in the deepening shadows there is seen a woman kneeling, with her hands pressed against His bleeding feet. Travers stands before this painting with tear-wet cheeks and goes away with burning hearts.

If I were an artist I should paint a companion piece with this text as the theme. I would not put tears upon her cheeks who speaks the word because the flowing of tears would prove a relief. When we repent of our grief it is severe, but I would represent her with agony in her eyes and deepest sorrow in every expression of her face. If I could I would paint the sob as she cries out, "They have taken away my Lord!" I have seen a woman of a mother bird when her little one was gone, the despair of the deer when its companion was killed, the agony of the wife when her husband was taken, the sorrow of a mother when her child was dead, but this text represents all these distresses put together, and we have a story which cannot be expressed in words.

The speaker is Mary Magdalene, one of the inhabitants of Magdala, she was possessed of seven devils. She was the sinner in the house of Simon, the Pharisee, who washed the Saviour's feet with her tears, anointed them with precious ointment, and with her hair.

When Simon objects the Master rebukes him with the story of the two debtors, one forgiven much, of the other little. She became one of the attendants of the Master, she followed Him from Galilee to Jerusalem to the scene of the crucifixion. Early the third after the crucifixion, with the wife of Cleophas, she goes to the sepulcher to see His body. She finds the tomb empty, and then cries out in agony, "They have taken away my Lord."

What a change there is wrought in Mary Magdalene. She has been a sinner of the worst sort. Tradition makes her a servant in the house of sin in the place where she lived, but she has become a saint, and wherever the gospel has been preached her story has been told. What a Saviour we have; one who calls out the best there is in us and makes it better, by nature is bitter and cruel, but he catches a vision of Christ and becomes gentle as a woman, delivering his message with tears of real sorrow because of the lost condition of the world.

Peter and John, who were with him, catches a vision of his Master and becomes one of the greatest preachers in the world's history. The thief on the cross is profane, and doubtless causes Christ a new pang of agony in his precious side as he sees, in the face of the man, the face of the man who had been his enemy, and he catches a vision of that blessed face and cries out, "Lord, remember me."

I.

Kindred texts. I have been looking up the Bible these past days and have been greatly interested to see how many kindred texts to this are to be found in God's word.

First, Adam and Eve. They are in paradise; everything about them is beautiful. Even God Himself saw that it was very good, and he placed the garden of Eden in the garden of Eden, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.

Second, the Ark of the Covenant. This was a small chest overlaid with gold, four and a half feet long, two feet nine inches wide and the same measure in height. Within it were the tables of the law. It was carried by the priests as occasion required, and placed in the ark. So it is that it was death for any one to look upon it but the priests, and so it was carefully covered. It represented to them the visible presence of Jehovah. It was carried along by the children of Israel in their travels through the desert as they entered the channel of the Jordan, and was taken thirteen times around Jericho in six days, but now the Philistines have come up against the children of Israel, and the ark is taken. Old Eli is waiting for tidings of the conflict. His seat is by the road side that he may hear the more speedily. At last there is a great shout of horror, and a man of Benjamin is seen running, with his clothes rent and earth upon his head. There is trouble, but who can imagine the extent of it. Listen to him as he cries out, "Israel has fled before the Philistines," and the face of old Eli pale, Hophni and Phinehas are slain, and the old man begins to shake in an agony, but of horror of horrors, the ark of God is taken! I. Samuel 4: 18, and he came to pass when he made mention of the ark of God that he fell from off the seat backward to the side of the gate, and his neck brake and he died; for he was an old man and heavy, and he had judged Israel forty years. Tell us that the sun will not shine again, that the rain will not fall, that the stars are dead, that the moon will refuse to shine, but you will bring to us no such tidings as came to Israel when the ark was carried that the ark was taken. It is as if God had departed from our own land. It is an awful thing to be without hope and without God in the world.

Third, the ark of God. During the reign of David, who began to reign when he was eight years old, the repairs to the temple were begun, and in the midst of this work the book of the law was found. 2 Kings 22: 8. And Hilkiah, the high priest, said unto Shaphan, the scribe, I have found the book of the law in the house of the Lord." And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan and he read it. This was doubtless the very book which Moses had commanded to be placed in this sacred spot. Deuteronomy 31: 26, "Take this book of the law and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the Lord, your God, that it may be there for a witness against thee. It might have been carelessly mislaid or it may have been maliciously concealed, but what a narrow escape. However, we need not tremble, for He who cared for Moses when he was in the ark and for His own Son when He was cradled in the manger will care for His book. "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My word shall never pass away." However, some of us have lost our Bible. We have lost it because we have been absorbed by fiction or worldliness, or we have permitted some sin to lay hold upon us. We have lost our Bible, and if we have our position as it is said in Mary in the garden when she said, "They have taken away my Lord."

Fourth, Lost Fellowship. Luke 2: 42-45. "And when He was twelve years old they went up to Jerusalem, after the custom of the feast, and when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and Joseph and His mother knew not of it. But they, supposing Him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought Him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance. And when they found Him not they turned back again to Jerusalem, seeking Him." Mary and Joseph have made a journey to the feast and they are homeward bound. As they move out from Jerusalem toward Galilee they are busy with the scenes about them, doubtless conversing with those who are traveling with them, when suddenly they begin to look about for the season of this morning that is to be? Every search fails to locate Him. Wearily they trudge back to Jerusalem, and there they find Him with the wise men! Many of us have lost fellowship with our Saviour. Time was when we were close to Him, when we walked in sweetest communion with Him, but now we have been busy about other things and we have lost the old joy. Let us learn from the season of this morning that if we have missed step with Him we must go back to Jerusalem, or that is, the place where we lost Him and begin over again the old life of peace and joy. God pity the soul who is crying out in his heart to-day if not with his lips, "They have taken away my Lord."

Fifth, a Lost Saviour. Matthew 27: 3-5. "Then Judas which had betrayed Him, when he saw that he was forsaken of them, went out and hanged himself. You have seen a stone held back by the force of the wind, when suddenly the wind ceases and the stone would break with all its fury. This was like Judas. I doubt not in all his following after Jesus that again and again he was filled with the desire to be true to Christ, but the time passed, and he is false to the appeal of his conscience, and suddenly the Master withdraws from him and all the storm of his awful spirit of betrayal is upon him, and Judas hangs himself. There are some of us who have been resisting Christ, for this spirit has influenced us. We are persuaded of His divine character. Some day His divine hold upon us may be broken, and we shall be awful things for us to have to say, "They have taken away my Lord."

II.

The text again. Let us now think together especially of Christ's care. There are some very like it in the Bible, as for example, "Take not Thy holy spirit from me." "Restore unto me the joy of Thy salvation." "Without God, without hope in the world," for only those can appreciate the value of the Holy Spirit who have the same place with her, and the most of us have been there, and there have been times without number when we felt that all was lost, that our position was hopeless. Notice first of all the weakness of Mary's faith. If she had but stopped to consider she would have remembered His word that He must rise again. If in the hour of trial we would pause for a moment to think of His messages we shall be delivered from this awful fear. Oh, that God would strengthen our faith in the hour of trial. Notice also the strength of her love. Nothing could keep her away from Christ. The Jewish soldiers had no terror for her; she would see His body, for she loved that. There are certain things that cause us to lose conscious fellowship with Christ.

First, physical weakness. Whenever the body is weak be sure to watch and pray, for the devil will easily overthrow us at this time.

Second, weakness of faith, but since faith is the gift of God it becomes weak only because of lack of exercise, and it is not necessary that any of us should fall because of this. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." It is not given to great minds alone to see Him, nor great hearts to feel His presence, but to pure hearts, and this blessing is within the reach of us all.

III.

Oh, to have no hope. What if I should lose Christ, what a dreary world this would be. Let us imagine Him as taken out of art, and with this would go Hoffman's "Garden," "Christ before Calvary," and every other painting that has gone to enrich the galleries of the world. Suppose we have Him taken out of music, the music of the Old Testament would go, for they were taken out of literature; the music of the New Testament would be banished, for He is the theme of the Psalms. All the music that is worth singing in the world's history would depart from us, for He is the subject of our prayers. Suppose He were taken out of literature; the best books in the world are either written directly concerning Him, or have been inspired indirectly by His matchless love. If He were taken out of preaching there is no man in all the world that could hold a congregation for any length of time, for men delighted to hear concerning Christ, and without Christ the message would be as sounding brass and tinkling symbol. What if He were taken out of our living. Men who do not call themselves religious yet believe in Christ and flee to Him again and again in the hour of temptation and distress, but when they are alone they are like a boat upon the sea, rudderless and helpless. What if He were taken out of our homes; how could we live when the baby goes away and the mother's heart is breaking.

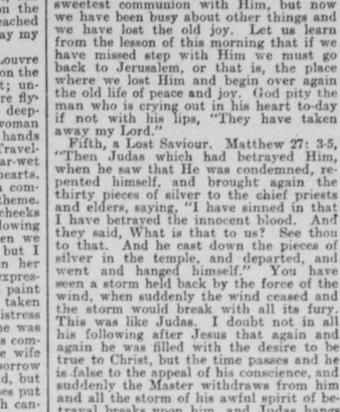

"Oh, to have no hope, no Saviour, How dark this world would be."

There is a story written by Dr. Henry Van Dyke entitled "The Lost Word." It gives an account of one Hermas, the son of Demetrius, who became a Christian. Because of this his father, a man of large wealth, disinherited him. He becomes a disciple of John, and at last wearied of this discipleship, and utterly discouraged he wanders back in the vicinity of his old home. There he meets a man, who reads his fortune in a leaf, and finally promises if he will give him but one word out of his vocabulary that he will restore him to the old joy that once was his. The promise is at last made, and suddenly Hermas is in his home again without the one word, and the one word is the name of his Lord. He finds his father dying and the old man welcomes his return and cries out, "My son, when you left me you found something that made your life beautiful. Mine has been a failure; will you not tell me what I must do now, for I am to die," and unconsciously the boy began, "Father, you must believe in me and behold, the word had gone from him. He had parted with it, and he stands shamed in the presence of his dying father. He marries a beautiful girl, and God gives him a lovely child. They are seated one day in the garden with their hearts overflowing with gratitude, when the wife suggests that they kneel down and express their thanks for all their treasures, and again he begins, "We thank thee, O Lord, and specify to him, for he has sold his Lord and he cannot even recall His name. He is a competitor in the chariot races and wins the prize, but cares nothing for it, because his heart is heavy. He takes his little son in a chariot with him and whirls about the course. The horses become unmanageable and the child is thrown from the chariot and seriously injured. Nearer dead than alive he is carried back to the palace, and the father kneels down by his bedside. There is no hope now except in prayer. He cries out, "Spare him, oh, spare him, oh," and there is no word to fill the place, for he has sold his Lord. Then suddenly his old master, John, appears, and after tears of repentance he is restored again to his priceless position. Is this not an illustration for many of us who have in an unguarded moment because of our love for the world and our desire for power parted with Him who alone can satisfy the soul. It is an awful thing to be without Christ. God save us from the cry of Mary, "They have taken away my Lord."

AN ITALIAN CAPTAIN

Cured by Pe-ru-na of Catarrh of the Stomach After Doctors Failed.

Hon. J. D. Botkin, Congressman from Kansas, Writes an Interesting Letter.

CAPTAIN O. BERTOLETTO.

Captain O. Bertolotto, of the Italian Barque "Lincelles," in a recent letter from the chief office of the Italian Barque Lincelles, Pensacola, Fla., writes:

"I have suffered for several years with chronic catarrh of the stomach. The doctors prescribed for me without my receiving the least benefit. Through one of your pamphlets I began the use of Peruna, and two bottles have entirely cured me. I recommend Peruna to all my friends."

—O. Bertolotto.

In catarrh of the stomach, as well as catarrh of any part of the body, Peruna is the remedy. As has been often said if Peruna will cure catarrh of one part it will cure catarrh of any other part of the body. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, and the remedy that will cure it anywhere will cure it everywhere.

The following letter from Congressman Botkin speaks for itself:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.:

My Dear Doctor—It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicine—Peruna and Manalin. I have been afflicted more or less for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation. A few bottles of your medicine have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure. Peruna is surely a wonderful remedy for catarrhal affections.—J. D. Botkin.

This is a case of catarrh of the stomach which had run for twenty-five years, according to his statement, and Peruna has at once come to his relief, promptly accomplishing for him more benefit than he had been able to find in all other remedies during a quarter of a century.

It stands to reason that a man of wealth and influence, like a Congressman of the great United States, has left no ordinary means untried and no stone unturned to find a cure.

If such cures as these do not verify the claim not only that dyspepsia is due to catarrh of the stomach, but also that Peruna will cure catarrh of the stomach, it is impossible to imagine how any evidence could do so.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.
