URGED WISE AND JUST LAWS

The Highest Measure of Protection For All Workers Demanded. Duty of the State Clearly Pointed Out.

LED THE WAY FOR REFORM

It was shown last week how Governor Pattison's record in approving wise and needful labor legislation exceeded that of any former or succeeding Pennsylvania executive. The following extracts from official documents will show how the legislature was guided in the preparation and enactment of the labor laws now on the statute books of the commonwealth. It may be remarked also that had the former governor's earnest recommendation with regard to honest dealing with the miners, in the weighing of coal, been adopted the present destructive contest in the anthracite mining region never would have been known. At the last session of the legislature a bill passed the house providing for the safe-guarding of the miners' rights in this particular, but it was not permitted to pass the senate by order of the Quay machine. Governor Pattison's record shows that in the future, as in the past, he will firmly maintain every legitimate right. of all workers.

Just Labor Legislation Demanded.

A continual, though irregular strug-gle is now and has for years been going on between these two conflicting ele-ments (labor and capital). Complaints of injustice are constantly being made by one against the other, and each in turn appeals to the state for remedial legislation. Such appeals should not be unheeded, but should be attentively listened to and carefully considered.— Inaugural Address, 1883.

A Better Remedy Than the Bayonet. For government to shut its eyes and close its ears to the complaints and petitions of any body of its citizens is folly. Such a course corrects nothing and settles nothing. Particularly should heed be given to the appears of so large and important a part of the community as those depending for subsistence upon the wages of ton. Labor is the main pillar of the state. As an honored statesman of our country has said. said: "Labor is the superior of capital, and deserves much the highest consideration." But the consideration given to such matters should be deliberate and searching, and the relief thorough and systematic, if it is to be lasting and effectual. I cannot but in-dulge in the belief that our political system is capable of providing some other remedy than the payonet for the settlement of such disputes.—Inaugural Address, 1883.

Arbitration for Labor Disputes.

A measure has been introduced into one of your bodies to provide for the settlement of disputes between emsettlement of disputes between employers and employers in certain of the great industries of the state. This is a movement in the right direction. Though limited to but a few of the departments of labor, yet it is a beginning upon a subject that ought long ago to have received legislative action. The concerns of that great body of our citizens who labor for wages are entitled to the most egreet consideration. led to the most earnest consideration. The law should most zealously and rigidly guard their interests and pro-tect their rights. When either is injured or denied they ought to have some resource in the law to which they can look for assistance.—Special Mes-

Safety and Rights of Miners. It is recommended that a commission be created to revise the present bitu-minous mining laws, such commission to be similar in all respects to the one appointed at the last session of the legislature to revise the anthracite mining laws. The mining of bituminous coal has become a business of enormous proportions, and the safety and rights of those employed in this industry demand legislative consideration. A standard should be fixed whereby the fitness of men desiring the position of superintendent mining bees and superintendent, mining boss and boss can be determined, and the duties of persons employed in those respective positions can be clearly and specifically defined so as to fix the responsibility in cases of accident,—Annual Message, 1883.

Anti-Pinkerton Deputy Law Recommended.

Legislation should be had looking to Legislation should be had looking to the prevention of the introduction of armed bodies of men, without the con-sent of the authorities of the county or state. Under existing law there is no necessity for any company or corporation introducing armed men who are not citizens of the state and who are unknown to its officers or to its authority.—Annual Message, 1893. Protection of Women and Children.

The wisdom of legislation regulating the employment of women and chil-dren has been more than demonstrated dren has been more than demonstrated during the past year. The Factory act should be amended so that no miner shall be employed in any factory or mercantile establishment for a longer period than ten hours per day * * I recommend that fourteen years be substituted as the age of employment of children (instead of 12).—Annual Message, 1893.

Urging Protection for Miners. Your attention is called to the condition of the laws providing for the ventilation of the bituminous coal mines of the state. The act providing for the health and safety of anthracite miners has given general satisfaction and brought about gratifying results.

The numerous accidents which are constantly occurring in the mining districts call for aid, as far as legislation can go, in preventing their recurrence. Surely every effort should be made to protect the men engaged in adding so much to the wealth of the state. The consideration of the bill recommended by the bituminous commission is commended to your attention.—Annual Message, 1893.

Wages Should be Paid First. Your attention is called to the con-

Wages Should be Paid First. Labor is fairly entitled to every just protection which the law can throw around it and I am heartily in sympathy with all measures looking to that end. The preferences which the laws of Pennsylvania at present give to the wages of labor in executions, are well-

The effect of the present bill however, would, in my judgment, ultimately be to hinder and obstruct improvements, to place property owners and builders at a disadvantage, and subject them to injury and imposition. Mechanics, journeymen and laborers would, in all probability, be required to waive their rights before being employed and would be hindered rather than helped by the general operations of this law.—From veto of mechanics' of this law.—lien bill, 1893.

Guarding Lives of Workers-Half-Holidays.

Protection to employees by fire-escapes, better ventilation, necessary hygienic apparatus, inquiry into the cause of and responsibility for accidents and general amelioration of the condition of workingmen and women, have fol-lowed the increased efficiency of the factory inspector's department. I com-mend to you his recommendation in behalf of shorter hours of toil. Saturbehalf of shorter hours of toil. Saturday half-holidays, better assured semimonthly payments of wages, and inquiry into the supervision of the socalled 'sweating' system of labor.

* The legislature should see to it that every building of unusual height, and any that is likely to be occupied by an unusual number of people, should be amply provided with means of escape in times of peril.—Annual Message, 1895.

Arbitration Better Than the Bayonet. There ought to be no difficulty in de-yising a board of arbitration in which both sides might have confidence and to whose impartial judgment both would yield respect. would yield respect. * * * Corporations deriving their life and powers from the commonwealth and seek-ing its protection, owe to it the duty of serving and carrying out the pur-poses of their organization. When they confess themselves unable to do this, because of a lack of confidence on the part of their employees and an incapacity to satisfactorily adjust the question of wages, they become subject to the visitation of the commonwealth. It has been well said: "The state is bound in the end to interpose; and if the state is to come in at the finish with the bayonet, it may as well come in at the start with the balances."—Annual Message, 1895,

No Step Backward at the Mines. The coal production of Pennsylvania both the anthracite and bituminous regions, are the dangers to human life. These have been the subject of frequent legislation, and the enactment of 1893, relating to the bituminous coal mines, went further towards their regulation by the state than any pre-vious legislation. Experience has demonstrated the wisdom and efficacy of the law. Its operation is only conducive to the protection and health of the underground employees, but it meets the approval of humane employ-ers who are concerned for the well-being of their operatives. No step backward should be taken on this sub-ject.—Annual Message, 1895.

Honest Weighing Demanded. Some complaint continues that miners are defrauded by the use of false weights. If it should be found upon due and impartial investigation that there exists substance for such a complaint, the general assembly might fitly consider the propriety of establishing a state office, the incumbent of which would have power at any time, when called upon or of his own volition, to test mine scales or measures and brand mine cars.—Annual Message, 1895. Protection for Other Workers.

The frequent occurrence of mine dis-asters in the slate region of the state, accompanied in some cases by the loss of a half dozen human lives, suggests the necessity of extending state pro-tection and regulation to other underground operatives than those of col-lieries.—Annual Message, 1895.

"Pluck-Me" Store Crimes Denounced. Frequent complaints are heard, and have been made to the law department, from centres of mining or manufacturing industries, that the act of June 9,1891, forbidding mining or manufacturing corporations from carrying on stores, is violated.

* * * Moral coercion is used to defeat
all the purposes of the act of 1891, and laborer continues to be the victim of the so-called "pluck-me" system. more particular legislative definition of this scheme of labor oppression is de-manded. Specific punishment, by fine and imprisonment, of the individuals re particular legislative definition directly or indirectly engaged in it, would be found efficient as a partial remedy.—Annual Message, 1895.

FARMERS FOR PATTISON

Why They Desire the Election of the Reform Governor.

Chairman Creasy, of the Democratic state committee, has received this letter from J. A. Herr, a life-long Republican, member of the state board of agriculture for 23 years, and a promi-State Grange:

Cedar Springs, Pa.. Oct. 5, 1902.—As the senior active member of the Pennthe senior active member of the Pennsylvania state board of agriculture, I have been in a position to study the actions of the governors of the state relative to our agricultural interests. I can testify to the great attention and consideration accorded us by Governor Pattison. During the eight years of his administrations he missed but one meeting of the board, and when favorable legislation was enacted it always received his active support and approval.

During his term of office he gave proper consideration to all the agricultural organizations of the state, thereby endearing himself to the entire farming community. I am confident that if elected governor our agricultural interests will be given proper consideration, and receive generous consideration and receive generous treatment at his hands. Very truly yours, J. A. HERR.

A THRILLING APPEAL

Governor Pattison Urges Philadelphians to Unite With the Country in Redeeming the State.

The Democratic campaign in Philadelphia was opened on Monday evening with enthusiastic meetings in Gerness men and workingmen united in remarkable demonstrations. At the conclusion of his address in Germantown Governor Pattison said: It has often been said that a larger measure of the virtue, intelligence and patriotism of a commonwealth is to be found in the rural regions than in the cities and towns. Whether this claim is well founded or not so far as Pennsylvania is concerned, the nour is near when the test will surely be made. I want to say to you tonight, my fellow-citizens of Philadelphia, amongst whom my life has been spent since childhood, for more than two score years, save the time that you called me, by your generous confidence and suffrages, to responsible duties elsewhere, that never in the history of our great state has its patriotic citizenship beyond the borders of this city been so thoroughly aroused as at this time. The voters of Pennsylvania to whom I refer thoroughly understand the situation. They cannot be deceived nor led astray. Mightily in earnest, they are looking to you, with anxiety and intensity of desire for your most zealous, courageous and effective cooperation,

They are more than ready to do their part. Will you do yours? They will come to the polls, on the 4th of November, a united and invincible host, standing up for that which is right and true, upholding the honor and dignity of the commonwealth, sustaining its constitution and laws, demanding their faithful impartial and effective its constitution and laws, demanding their faithful, impartial and effective enforcement, to the end that the rights enforcement, to the end that the rights of all the people shall be maintained.
