Thomas V. Cooper, he of the red hair and hopeful soul, says he signed Quay's name to the circular demanding contributions for election purposes. This would relieve the senator from the penalty of violating the civil service law, but does it also exculpate Thomas? Possibly the act does not constitute either forgery or false pretense. It seems to be a case omitted.

One process of benevolent assimilation of the Filipinos promises to be effective. Dr. Parke, former surgeon of the Eleventh United States cavalry has resigned his commission and returned to Philadelphia. He says that fully 750,000 people on the island of Luzon have perished from cholera. The mortality statistics are naturally inaccurate, even in localities where they can be obtained at all. The natives bury their dead secretly through religious prejudice. The doctor believes the scourge will become indigenous.

Secretary Shaw has become infected with vice presidential microbes. From the confines of his home village come buttons bearing inscriptions, which couple his name with President Roosevelt's. The platform that would be required to fitly support these two candidates would have to declare for a constitutional amendment, at some unknown future, to control trusts, and a bric-a-brac collection of collateral to secure Government loans. For picturesque that ticket would surpass the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

The Supreme court will be asked to decide whether Private Walter Wadsworth, who shot and killed William Durham, a striking miner of Shenandoah, can be punished. A test case will be prepared, and the evidence and argument heard the first week in January before the court sitting in Philadelphia at that time. The military authorities, backed by the State, will fight the case to the last ditch, and unite in saying that if under the law Wadsworth is amenable to civil authority it is likely to disrupt the guard, as neither men nor officers would serve under such conditions.

TAKING ACCOUNT.

It looks as though the financial geniuses who have been engaged in the industry of manufacturing over-capitalized combinations of one kind and another were in for a period of relaxation. The investing public shows signs of having had its appetite for newly printed securities satisfied, and asks time to assimilate the mass of stuff it has been induced to take. It is not that the industrial situation has suffered any change. The railroads are taxed to their utmost capacity and are actually short of cars for the handling of their enormous traffic, in spite of extensive increases in their equipment. And even the ghost of Democratic success in the Congressional elections, which was diligently paraded as a terrible menace to the prosperity of the country, has been effectually laid.

It was inevitable that the speculative boom so shrewdly utilized by the syndicate promoters could not be maintained indefinitely. The only hope has been that it would subside gradually, and not end in a violent explosion. As it is, there is no indication of sudden collapse. Unusually good crops are assured, and there is no decline in general trade. One or two conservative bankers have been shaking their heads portentously, but it is the fraternity of financiers that needs their advice more than the everyday producer whose time is occupied with his own affairs.

Instead of lecturing Secretary Shaw, who has certainly strained his legal powers to oblige the bankers, these gloomy prophets should turn their attention to such conspicuous offenders as Mr. Morgan, who is supposed to hold the nation's destiny in his hands. The system to which he has given vogue and authority, of capitalizing the future, of basing two and three dollars' worth of stamped paper on one dollar of actual value, has a Bryan-esque suggestion of inflation in it. No one questions the solidity of the material wealth of the United States any more than its financial integrity, but the one fact no more justifies reckless experiments than the other. The less years will come, though they now appear far away, to test the wisdom of Mr. Morgan and his imitators. Just now there is a disposition to make a pause and consider possible developments. Business has not been hurt, but the street complains that speculators are not as keen for the gambling game as they once were, and promoters find that their schemes drag. No harm will come in the end from giving a little time to looking over the general account. It surely implies nothing more than a mild form of sanity to remember that the seasons change.

Spring Mills.

A very enjoyable family dinner party was given by Mrs. C. C. Cummings on Tuesday last, it being the anniversary of her father's eightieth birthday. Mr. Charles Miller, a highly esteemed citizen of this place. In addition to the family, the guests present were, M. B. Herring and wife, David Burrell and wife, Mrs. Maggie Ruhl, Mrs. Mary Grenoble, Mrs. J. H. Hazel and Dr. D. M. Wolf. The table was exquisitely set, artistically arranged, and lavishly furnished with all the delicacies of the season, to which the guests did ample justice. The occasion was a very enjoyable one; repartee and lively conversation ruled the hour. Late in the afternoon all the guests retired to their respective homes, having been delightfully entertained, and wishing Mr. Miller many returns of the day.

Daniel Immel has on exhibition at the postoffice a monstrous radish, measuring twenty-five inches in length, nineteen inches in circumference and weighing a fraction over ten pounds.

A surprise party at the residence of C. A. Krape on Monday evening last, proved to be a very enjoyable occasion. The party was quietly and skillfully gotten up by Mrs. Krape in honor of her husband's birthday, and was very successfully accomplished. On the arrival of the guests they were ushered into the parlor and quietly seated to await the arrival of Mr. Krape from his official duties, he being the efficient postmaster. On entering the parlor, Mr. Krape was astounded at the sudden illumination and the presence of his unexpected visitors. He was almost speechless. However, recovering from his astonishment, he greeted his friends in the most cordial manner, and a very delightful evening followed. The dining room presented a most inviting appearance; the table was beautifully decorated with flowers, and profusely furnished with delicacies and viands of the choicest character. After being delightfully entertained, at an early hour the company retired, wishing Mr. Krape many returns of the day, and complimenting Mrs. Krape on her elegant and skillfully managed surprise party. The following guests were present: J. K. Bitner and wife, T. M. Gramley and wife, Miss Alice Neese, Dr. Braucht, Samuel Condo, C. P. Long, R. G. Kennelley, O. T. Corman, W. S. Musser, H. F. Rossman, C. J. Einkle, J. F. Rearick, Rev. T. W. Haven, C. E. Royer, John Smith, Jeremiah Condo, W. O. Gramley, and Wm. Smith.

C. E. Zeigler, of the "hill" is quite an extensive dealer in pianos, organs and musical instruments. Last week he disposed of a very handsome Milton piano to J. A. Grenoble residing a short distance above the village. Of late Mr. Zeigler has disposed of several pianos of this celebrated manufacture. This instrument musical critics have pronounced high grade. Poultry seems to be in great demand just now; a short time ago merchant O. T. Corman remarked to a farmer that he would buy five hundred pounds of chickens and the same weight in ducks, weekly, if they were offered, and for the next three weeks he could use twice that weight if he could get it.

Condensed, Accurate, Helpful.
The busiest people read the Youth's Companion because it is condensed, accurate and helpful.

Its weekly summary of important news is complete and trustworthy. Its editorial comment on political and domestic questions is non-partisan; it aims to state facts in such a way that the busiest person can use them as the basis of an intelligent opinion.

It reflects on every page the wholesome, industrious, home-loving, home-making side of American life, the life of noble aims and honorable ambitions.

A full announcement of the new volume will be sent to any address on request. The new subscriber for 1903 who sends $1.75 for the new volume at once will receive free all the remaining issues for 1902, including the double Holiday Numbers; also The Companion Calendar for 1903, lithographed in twelve colors and gold.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,
144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Mass.

The thought that we are the actual creators of the world's future is one that must load us with a sense of responsibility that will be intolerable or inspiring according to our disposition.

Yet, when we speculate about the condition of the world in the coming century we do not realize that things in that age will be what we make them. Mr. Wells makes this point very clear in his study of "Mankind in the Making" in the November Cosmopolitan.

"Last winter an infant child of mine had croup in a violent form," says Elder John W. Rogers, a Christian Evangelist, of Filley, Mo. "I gave her a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and in a short time all danger was past and the child recovered. This remedy not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult."
