Mr. Roosevelt has taken to writing letters, un mindful of the sagacious advice of his late fellow citizen in New York, who advised: "Don't write—Tunnel." The President, though reserving the intention of investigating the character of Dr. Crum, a negro whom he means to appoint collector of the port of Charleston, S. C., seizes, we trust not the self-created, opportunity of replying to some un named citizen and descending on his lofty principles of rewarding a few negroes with offices to spur them to advancement. There is weakness in the plea that his selections of negroes are few, and "so little." The whole trend of Mr. Roosevelt's latest acts is to arouse the suspicion that Senator Foraker, of Ohio, is his chosen mate on the ticket, and it is well known that one of Mr. Foraker's aphorisms is that "There's another President in the bloody shirt."

The Republican party on the tariff question acts somewhat like the corner loafer, who grows when the police man tells him to move on: "I'm a-moving, but don't get gay. Don't push." The Philadelphia "Press" inches along thus far: "The Republican party, as a whole and in all its parts, is turning toward the problem involved in a review of the present tariff. The Republican party reaches and has reached its conclusions on these issues guided neither by political machines nor by popular emotion, but by public opinion created and formed by the facts as they develop."

William F. Harry, who as National chairman led the Democrats to victory in 1892—in Cleveland's second election—is, no doubt, preparing to take an active part in politics again. At the suggestion of men prominent in the Democratic party, Mr. Harry resigned as president of the Equitable Trust Company, Philadelphia, in order to be free. It is understood that Mr. Harry has had a desire to return to active political life for a couple of years, and it is said that this desire has been strengthened by a belief that the Democrats will win in the next national contest.

The abscess on his leg having disappeared, President Roosevelt has let it be known that in the spring he contemplates a tour from ocean to ocean which will not only complete the trip interrupted at Indianapolis, but again include a journey into New England. It is announced that he intends to tell the concourse of people which will greet him the innermost thoughts and conclusions of his mind on all political topics. It is to be hoped that this eminent office-holder will not become perniciously active.

Former President Cleveland has consented to preside over the meeting, to be held in Philadelphia, December 11, to encourage the elevation of the negro race. This is in strict keeping with his official acts while President, which never reached the undignified level of setting a table "in the same room" for Booker T. Washington. That distinguished negro will speak from the same platform as the ex-President.

"We won't touch the tariff," cries Quay. "We won't touch the tariff," echoes Dalzell. "Prosperity must not be disturbed," shout the Trusts. "Prosperity must not be disturbed," cry the answering political bosses. But the people who eat dear beef, and wear dear fabrics, and shelter themselves in dear habitations, grind their teeth and think. They will be very apt to touch the tariff the next time they shall get the opportunity.

There is at least one Republican member of congress from the west who has the courage of his opinions on the tariff question. Representative Smith, of Michigan, has introduced a bill to put paints, varnish, glass and glassware, metals and their manufactures, wood pulp, paper, books and coal on the free list.

Secretary Wilson has quarantined Massachusetts ports on account of the foot and mouth disease. But this is a malady not confined to cattle. There are some humans who never open their mouths without putting a foot in them.

The office-holders and office expectants of the Machine—Federal, State and municipal—are greater in number than the entire Republican majority in the late election, including 50,000 stuffed ballots in Philadelphia.

Prunes at three cents per pound at the Star Store.

Spring Mills. Among those in this section who killed large porkers are, Robert Smith, J. F. Heckman, W. W. Neese, D. P. Heckman, John Smith, Wm. Musser, T. M. Gramley.

Merchant O. T. Corman is quite a heavy operator in all kinds of produce. His operations in apples and potatoes this season have been very extensive, shipping from three to five car loads a week. He remarked a short time ago that he was very short in his orders for beef hides, and would buy all that were offered and would pay six cents a pound cash, or seven cents in trade.

Wm. Ruhl, proprietor of the livery stables here, has quite a neat office opposite the hotel, where he or his assistant can always be found. Mr. Ruhl has by close attention to the wants of the traveling community, built up a large livery business.

As yet there has been no extraordinary avoidpouls in porkers reported. Every one seems to be waiting to hear the weight of one, to give them a chance of going a trifle better.

All are waiting patiently for the $6,000 bridge to be thrown across Sinking Creek. As the iron and steel frames were cut for the bridge about the time the commissioners countermanded their $1600 order, there should be no further delay; there has been foolery enough in this whole business.

All the sick here are reported to be on the mend; some of the cases were of a very serious character.

The nimrods of this village appear to meet with in different success in their hunting expeditions. A few rabbits seem to be about the only trophy and frequently—nothing.

C. P. Long's store was entered by burglars one night last week, but were evidently disturbed, as nothing of any particular value was removed. They also intended to enter the postoffice and had put out the light in front of the building, which is kept burning all night. This was discovered by Postmaster Krape, whose residence is just across the lawn, when he immediately threw a brilliant light on the postoffice building, and then went out to investigate and give them a warm reception, but the birds had flown and disappeared in the darkness.

COL. JAMES F. WEAVER.

A Brief Biographical Sketch of a Worthy Centre Citizen.

Col. James F. Weaver, of Milesburg, is a well known figure in Centre county; he is especially well known to those engaged in farming, (the choice of his field of labor for many years) because of his connection with the Grange movement in this county. The Trade Bulletin takes occasion to speak of him thus: The Centre county Pomona Grange has for its lecturer one of the foremost patrons in Pennsylvania. He served for a number of years as Master of the county grange, while Dr. James Calder, president of the Pennsylvania State College, served as lecturer. When Dr. Calder was elected lecturer of the State Grange, Col. Weaver was elected lecturer of the Centre county Grange to take the place vacated by Dr. Calder. Col. Weaver also served as secretary of the Pomona Grange for a number of years and filled many other clerical positions in the order as well as on committee of the State Grange.

Col. Weaver was brought up on a farm and educated in the public schools of the county. He edited one of the leading political papers of the county for seven years and also the "Patron" published by the Centre county Pomona (Grange for four years. When the Civil war broke out, he enlisted as a volunteer in the United States army. He was elected a captain in the 148th Reg. Pa. volunteers of which Gen. Beaver was elected colonel. After Gen. Beaver was wounded Maj. McFarland was elected colonel and Col. Weaver was promoted to a regimental office and later to a Lieutenant Colonel and when Col. McFarland was assigned to other duties Col. Weaver was promoted to Colonel and led his regiment in the campaigns of Virginia and Maryland when the cry was "on to Richmond."

At the close of the war he was honorably discharged and on his return home was elected County Treasurer, and in 1874 was elected a member of the Legislature from Centre county and served two consecutive terms.

When the grange was instituted in the county in 1873 and '74 he was among the first to join the organization, his Grange being No. 151. He has been engaged in farming for some years near Milesburg, Centre county, and has taken an active part in the Order, not unfrequently being sent out by the State Grange to lecture for the Order during the picnic season when the State lecturer could not fill all the requested appointments. He has been frequently spoken of as one of our ablest and most conservative men, qualified to fill any position in the order.

PROCLAMATION!

Frigid Zone Nov. 27, 1902.

I, the Original and Only Santa Claus, God-Father of the Little Chaps, hereby make proclamation:—

I have appointed Mr. Edwin F. Garman, of 32 Allegheny St., Bellefonte, Pa., as my special agent in your city to sell all the Skates, Dolls, Toys, Games, etc., which I have been gathering for you for the past twelve months. I have also ordered and commanded Garman to make known to you that I will be with you early Christmas morning, dressed in my best and richest clothes, and will give to all good children those nice Christmas candies and presents which I have so carefully put up; so you will surely find me. I want you all to be good. Remember, I am the original old Santa Claus; I will come down all the way from the North Pole in my special sleigh, drawn by my pet reindeer. Given on the 27th day of November, in the 1902nd year of my glorious reign in the Frigid Zone.
