Partners, Not Opponents.

The best way to build up a town is to stand by every man in town. All residents should be partners, not opponents. In all livelihoods the more business your rival does the more you will do.

LOCALS.

The Central Railroad of Pennsylvania is running its trains on the winter schedule.

Samuel Gramley, of Rebersburg, whose illness was noted last week, is rapidly improving.

A. F. Hosterman, of Tusseyville, was a caller Wednesday. Mr. Hosterman devotes much of his effort to the production of milk and butter.

There was very fair sleighing Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The morning of the latter day the temperature lowered and atmosphere became misty.

Homer Harry, who about two years ago had his spine injured by a tree striking him, returned from the Williamsport hospital Tuesday, where he had been for treatment during the past six months. His condition has not improved, and he remains entirely helpless.

Simon P. Moyer, of Womelsdorf, Berks county, was married recently to a young lady of his section. Mr. Moyer is engaged in the manufacture of cigar boxes on an extensive scale, and for a number of years lived in this locality, at which time he was in the lumber business.

Instead of mailing the Reporter to your children or friends at a distance, subscribe for the paper and send it to them for a Christmas gift. Any one will relish the news more if sent to them direct from this office. The price is only fifty cents more than the cost to you for mailing.

STATE GRANGE GROWING.

Pennsylvania's Up-to-Date Farmers Open Their Annual Session.

The State Grange of Pennsylvania met in Clearfield Tuesday and will remain in session during the week. The attendance is the largest in the history of the organization for the first day, there being over eight hundred delegates present.

Worthy Master W. F. Hill, of Crawford county, presided at the opening session and read his annual report, which showed that eighteen new granges have been organized, and eight dormant ones resuscitated. The membership has increased almost three thousand.

The "open session," to which the public was invited, was held in the opera house Tuesday evening. The address of welcome on behalf of the citizens of Clearfield was delivered by G. W. Wilson, president of Council.

The contest for the offices to be elected at this meeting of the organization is waxing warm. For master, Jerome T. Allman, of Juniata; Frank Chandler, of Chester, and Colonel James Weaver, of Centre, are in the field. For secretary, Sister Hill, wife of the present master; S. L. Blyholder, of Armstrong; M. M. Seederman, of Cambria, and A. A. Becker, of Crawford, have their booms working.

Typoid Fever Scourge.

The Daily News says: We are compelled to acknowledge, and it is but right that our people should know, that typhoid fever prevails in Bellefonte to an alarming extent. Within the confines of one square on Lion street there are not less than four cases and it is not only found in that locality, but we hear of it being in several sections of the town.

Keith's.

The original Florodora Sextette has been booked on the Keith circuit, and will be at the New Chestnut Street Theatre in the near future.

One of the features at Keith's New Chestnut Street Theatre this week will be Lewis McCord & Co., presenting Willard Holcomb's laughable proposition entitled "Her Last Rehearsal." This sketch is not only a laugh maker, but a real novelty, inasmuch as the stage setting is not setting at all, the bare stage being used, and the scene really representing behind the scenes.

The Christmas McClure's is primarily a holiday fiction number, but the four articles represent the very cream of the month's magazines writing. Two of them make more absorbing reading than ninety-nine stories in a hundred. That remarkable piece of pioneer investigation, Miss Tarbell's History of Standard Oil, has for its second installment "The Rise of the Standard Oil Company."

Worth Going Miles to See.

To appropriately describe the production of "The Sleeping Beauty and The Beast," the big London Drury Lane Theatre ballet and fairy spectacle imported to this country by Klaw & Erlanger, and now being exhibited at the Chestnut Street Opera House, Philadelphia, would require the services of an imagination like a gigantic and unusually active kaleidoscope, connecting in addition to its splendors, a large and vigorous infusion of chain-lightning.

Surely no such magnificent or stupendous spectacle as this has ever before been placed under the view of an American audience.

If Quay has his way, and it is likely he will, Harry Walton, of Philadelphia, will be the next speaker of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.
