

THE KEYSTONE STATE.

News Happenings of Interest Gathered From All Sources.

These patents were granted Pennsylvanians:—Edward F. Braucher, Meyersdale, dumping wheelbarrow; George M. Chambers, Erie, corner construction for show windows, show cases etc.; Francis E. Collins, Conshohocken, valve; John W. Garland, Pittsburgh, lifting jack; John M. Hansen, Pittsburgh, bolster for hopper card; John McCormick, Wilmerding, water gauge; Thomas J. Miquel, Allegheny, feed mechanism for rolling mills; Henry J. Sage, Beaver, manufacture of glass tile; Samuel Seemann, Sharpsburg, loose leaf book; Robert A. M. Slater, McKeesport, pipe heating and welding apparatus; William H. Smith, Allegheny, photographic printing frame; George B. M. Tweedy, Pittsburgh, puzzle.

Pensions granted:—Menzo Beverly New Castle, $6; William Tarr, Cherrytree, $10; Martin Haller, Allegheny, $12; Sanford E. Campbell, Spring Creek, $30; Thomas J. Moore, Allegheny, $12; Daniel H. Whit, Rays Hill, $24; Elizabeth R. Mills, Pittsburgh $8; Frederick H. Weston, Frankstown $10; John Funk, Alexandria, $6; Alfred S. Siler, Elliptitsville, $10; Samuel E. Johnson, New Salem, $12; George Snyder, Rimersburg, $12; Simon Nearhood, Tyrone, $12; Jacob H. Freedline Troutville, $12; Samuel A. Jordan, Edgewood Park, $12; Mary Jane Krunkleton, Mercersburg, $8.

Pensions granted Pennsylvanians:—Joseph T. McCormick, Uniontown, $6; Edwin J. Hunt, Austintown, $7; Philip Young, New Brighton, $8; John C. Ambrose, Silvan, $14; William C. Bourke, Long Valley, $12; Peter S. Kepler, Bradford, $8; Mary Bower, State Line, $12; Maria J. Fox, Manorville, $8; James Sawyer, Brownsville, $6; Walter H. Palmer, Cambridge Springs, $10; John Smith, Harrison Valley, $8; George W. Blinger, Strodes Mills, $24; Daniel Gutshall, Lees Cross Roads, $10; William M. Giesler, Lewisburg, $8; Magdalena Caton, Meyersdale, $8; Susanna Eheim, Wagner, $8; Leah R. McFarland, Altoona, $8; Rebecca Burgess, Morgansca, $8; Louise Forester, Allegheny, $8; Anna M. Prunkard, Altoona, $8; Lucinda B. McLaren, Allegheny, $8; Caroline Naugle, Hillsboro, $8.

The Pittsburg Coal Company, operating the Edna mine, struck a six-foot vein of coal at 375 feet on the Gardner farm, in Hempfield township. The coal is the Pittsburg vein. The company is sinking a shaft for a mine of 3,000 tons capacity, and will eventually abandon the Edna mine, which is a slope working.

The contract for erecting the new Beaver Valley General Hospital, at New Brighton, has been awarded to J. A. Bradshaw, of New Brighton. His estimate was $26,000. The contract calls for the completion of the building on January 1, 1904. Work will be started at once.

While on his way into the Bowers mines at Winslow, Isaiah Bowser, a driver, aged 19, was overtaken by a number of loaded cars which had broken loose from an outgoing drive and fatally injured.

J. F. Rawson, aged 67, was found dead in bed at West Bridgewater. Coroner J. R. Gormley decided that death was due to natural causes.

Smallpox has broken out near Carmichaels, Greene county.

Mrs. Henry Boras celebrated her one hundred and fourth birthday at Cory.

The bridge spanning the Allegheny river at Oil City was declared free to the public.

Mrs. J. W. Williams, of Hickory township, Mercer county, was fatally burned by her clothing catching fire at an open grate.

Two coal crushers at the entrance to the big mine of the Cambria Steel Company at Johnstown were destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $10,000.

Federicktown, Washington county, is without a church, although one of the oldest towns in the county. A movement to erect a house of worship has been taken up, and $500 was subscribed for the purpose.

William Matthews, aged 16, was killed at the Ellsworth mines by falling down a shaft.

The high water on the Allegheny river compelled the closing of a department of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company at Ford city.

William Jones, who was wounded in a fight at Westland, died from his injuries, and officers are looking for Richard Pieper, alleged to have fired the fatal shot.

The 3-year-old daughter of Thomas Carney, of Calumet, is dead, and a son, aged 5, is seriously ill, the result of drinking a bottle of poisonous medicine.

Indiana Presbyterians voted to erect a handsome new edifice.

The blast furnace at Kittanning has closed down because of a coke shortage.

Samuel Mandrick, aged 17, was killed by a train at Ramey Junction, near Uniontown.

Benjamin Hinkson, aged 13, has disappeared from his home in New Castle and cannot be found.

Thieves entered the home of Louis Stull at Altoona and secured $100. Entrance was gained by chopping down the kitchen door.

Fire in J. H. Muntz's warehouse at Greenville destroyed several thousand dollars' worth of farming machinery and partially destroyed the building.

Rev. Leroy W. Warren, pastor of the Burgettstown Presbyterian Church, has accepted a call from the church at Monongahela.

Samuel Sprankle, a farmer, was drowned in the Juniata river near Tyrone.

Miss Clara Tomer, of Pittsburgh, has been declared sane by the court in Greensburg, and thereby comes into arrears valued at $60,000.

Between 1200 and 1500 Reading school children are ill, and it is said to be largely due to the scarcity of coal. School officials say that all the rooms are well heated and that the homes of many of the children are not well warmed because of want of coal. The result is that when they go home from the warm school they catch cold. The present epidemic of illness is said to be greater than at any time in the history of the Reading schools.

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

General Trade Conditions.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s "Weekly Review of Trade," says:— Domestic trade and industry continue to prosper, while the fuel situation has grown less disturbing through special efforts of transporters, aided by mild weather. Distribution of other products has been restricted by discrimination in favor of coal. Clearance sales are abundant, leaving only small stocks of winter goods. Advance business in spring deliveries is very heavy, and fall contracts are also placed liberally. At some points the harness season opens favorably. In most cases where there is no delay on fuel account, manufacturing plants are busy, though cost of materials and labor is very high. Firm prices for finished products are consequently to be expected. Favorable returns of railway earnings are constantly issued, showing an increase of 57 per cent. over last year and 17.9 per cent. over 1901.

Miles of loaded cars and thousands of tons of coke piled in Connellsville yards tell of conditions in the iron and steel industry. Furnaces are closing because of fuel shortage. By giving coal, live stock and perishable goods precedence over all other freight the railroads helped consumers everywhere, but at the expense of the leading manufacturing industry. Many plants are closed or running part time, and few orders for distant delivery are sought or offered, owing to uncertainty as to when normal conditions will prevail. It is stated that deliveries of pig iron to the leading consumer are several months behind as compared with 1901.

Footwear is firm, with an advancing tendency. Both sole and upper leather are more active. A better inquiry is noted for cotton goods. A number of lines have advanced in price, the upward movement of raw cotton having a natural effect. Men's wear, woollens and worsteds, for fall, are now fully opened, and buyers operate more freely. There is no evidence of speculative activity, which emphasizes the wholesome condition of the market, and many lines have been withdrawn. Failures for the week number 243 in the United States against 301 last year, and 30 in Canada compared with 40 a year ago.

LATEST QUOTATIONS.

Flour—Spring clear, $3.35a3.55; best Patent, $4.80; choice Family, $4.05.

Wheat—New York No. 2, 81½¢; Philadelphia No. 2, 79½a80¢; Baltimore No. 2, 80¢.

Corn—New York No. 2, 59¢; Philadelphia No. 2, 54a55¢; Baltimore No. 2, 44¢.

Oats—New York No. 2, 43¢; Philadelphia No. 2, 42a43¢; Baltimore No. 2, 42¢.

Hay—No. 1 timothy, $19.50a20.00; No. 2 timothy, $18.50a19.00; No. 3 timothy, $16.50a17.50.

Fruits and Vegetables.—White Potatoes—With receipts less liberal and quite an improvement in the demand, the market rules steady and firm. Apples—All good to choice fruit trees of fungus are in good demand. Cabbage—with quite a falling off in the receipts, there is a much firmer feeling on all good to choice stock. Sweet potatoes are in ample supply for present needs; the market rules quiet but steady. We quote: Cabbage—Danish large, per ton $8.00a9.00; domestic, per ton $6.00a7.00.

Potatoes—Maryland and Pennsylvania, per bu 65a68¢; Eastern per bu 65a 68¢; Eggplant, Florida, per orange bu $1.00 a1.25. Onions—yellow, per bu 60a65¢; red, per bu 55a60¢. Celery, per doz 25a40¢. Apples—Eastern, good to choice, per bri $2.00a3.00; Western, do do do do $1.75a2.50; No. 2 all kinds $1.00a1.25. Sweet Potatoes—Potomac yellow, per bri $2.50a 2.75; North Carolina, yellow, $2.25a2.50; Eastern shore yellow, $2.00a2.25. Yams, yellow, $1.50 a1.75.

Butter, Separator, 28a29¢; Gathered cream, 27a28¢; prints, 1-lb 30a31¢; Hollis, 2-lb, 30a31¢; Dairy pts. Md., Pa., Va., 28a29¢.

Eggs, Fresh-laid eggs, per dozen, 21a22¢.

Cheese, Large, 60-lb, 14¼a14½¢; medium, 36-lb, 14¼a14½¢; picnics, 23-lb, 14¼a14½¢.

Live Poultry, Hens, 12a12½¢; old roosters, each 25a30¢; Turkeys, 16a17¢; Ducks, 13a14¢.

Hides, Heavy steers, association and salters, late kill, 60-lbs and up, close section, 11a12¢; cows and light steers $8a9¢.

Provisions and Hog Products.—Bulk clear rib sides, 9½¢; bulk shoulders, 9½¢; bulk bellies, 10½¢; bulk ham butts, 10¢; bacon clear rib sides, 10½¢; bacon shoulders, 10½¢; sugar-cured breasts, 12½¢; sugar-cured shoulders, 10½¢; sugar-cured California hams, 10¢; hams cured or uncured, 12 lbs. and under, 14¼¢; refined lard tierces, 12¢ and 50 lb cans, gross, 10½¢; refined lard, half-barrels and new tubs, 11¢.

Live Stock.

Chicago, Cattle, Mostly 15a20¢ lower, good to prime steers $4.50a 5.75; medium $4.00a 4.50; stockers and feeders $2.25 a4.00; cows, $1.40a 4.00; heifers $2.00 a 4.00; Texas-fed steers $3.50a 4.00 Hog $4. Mixed and butchers $6.50a 7.50; good to choice, heavy $6.85a 7.00; Sheep, sheep and lambs slow to lower; good to choice $4.75a 6.25; Western sheep $4.75a 6.25.

East Liberty, Cattle steady; choice $5.25a 5.40; prime $5.00a 5.20. Hogs, prime heavy $6.90a 6.95, medium $6.85; heavy Yorkers $6.80a 6.85. Sheep steady. Best wethers $4.55a 4.80 culls and common $1.75a 2.50; choice lambs $5.75a 5.8¢.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

Seven hundred thousand British wear American shoes.

A swallow, if in a hurry, travels 121 miles an hour.

The East Indians called rock crystals an unripe diamond.

An oil motor from Indianapolis is grinding wheat on Mount Lebanon.

The average factory hand gets $1.4 a day and creates $1.75 worth.

The savings bank deposits of the United States equal the national debt multiplied by three.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

International Lesson Comments For February 15.

Subject: Christain Self-Control, I Cor. viii, 4-18 —Golden Text, Rom. xiv., 19.—Memory Verses, 8, 9.—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

"I. Perplexing questions (vs. 4-6). 4. "Unto idols." Those portions of the animal offered in sacrifice which were not laid on the altar, and which belonged partly to those who had offered them. These remnants were sometimes eaten at feasts held in the temples (v. 10), or in private houses (chap. 10, vs. 27), sometimes sold in the markets by the priests, or by the poor. "The question was whether it was right for Christians to partake of food connected with idolatry. Such meats were forbidden by the council at Jerusalem, seven years before, because the act was offensive to Jewish brethren (Acts 15: 20, 21), but here in Corinth, a Gentile city, the question needed to be settled as to whether "is nothing." Nothing but a carved block of wood or stone, having no power over the meat or the eater. None in the Corinthian church whether Jews or Gentiles, believed that an idol was anything. They all had knowledge alike that far. The question was put upon another point, and for a settlement was appealed to Paul. "None other God but one. The Creator and sustainer of all things. There is no representation of the true God in any of the idols."

"Called gods—in heaven." As the sun, moon, planet, stars, "in earth." Deified kings, beasts, rivers, serpents, etc. The heathen had many imaginary gods. The people of Bengal acknowledged 330, 000,000. 6. "To us." Christians. "One God." All that is needed, for in Him dwells all power and love. "Father." The Christian's strongest word for God. He is the originating cause of all things. "We in Him." In His thought, His care. We were created for Him, and our highest happiness is in living in His glory. "One Lord Jesus Christ." The Redeemer, Son, one with the Father, our Lord and Saviour, "through whose mediation are all things, including the natural and spiritual creation." (John 1: 3; Heb. 1: 3.) "We by Him." Redeemed by Him, and again by Him to be glorified.

"II. Knowledge alone not sufficient (vs. 7, 8). "Howbeit," etc. The Corinthians argued that they all knew that an idol was nothing, but Paul replied that this was not universally the case, that some were not yet entirely free from their heathen ideas. Many were very ignorant, having just escaped from heathen idolatry, with but little knowledge of the truths of the gospel. Old customs cling to their memory and affected them in many ways. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the standard. "Conscience of the idol." See R. V. Custom and habit restrain them a reverence for the idol which Christians do not yet entirely cleared away. A reformed drunkard walks past a saloon with different feelings from one who has never known the taste for strong drink. Knowledge alone could not settle this question; our own liberty of action is not the