COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

Ecperal Trade Conditions. R. G. Dun & Co.'s "Weekly Review of Trade" says:

"Vigorous vitality is conspicuous in trade and industry, despite the handicap of overstrained and lamentably inadequate facilities for transportation. Every possible method is being adopted to improve conditions. Transatlantic vessels fail to leave on schedule time and many manufacturing plants are closed in part or wholly.

"As the season advances there is notable activity in building trades. Wholesale and jobbing trade is steadily improving. Foreign commerce is keeping pace with domestic trade.

"Railway earnings during January were 8.6 per cent. larger than last year and 17.7 per cent. in excess of 1901. "Cotton is strong. Coffee aroused from its lethargy and advanced a small fraction because the world's stocks decreased much more than anticipated. 'Conditions in the iron and steel industry are without essential alteration. Far from catching up with its orders the leading producer now reports over five and a half million tons of contracts on hand. Traffic difficulties increase, deliveries of fuel and pig iron are uncertain and at Chicago coke is nomin-ally $10 a ton. while Connellsville ovens produce freely, but Pittsburg supplies are inadequate. "Purchasers in some divisions of the market still show an inclination to postpone placing contracts in expectation of better terms, but the general level of quotations does not recede. International Lesson Comments For February 22.

Subject; Christian Love, 1 Cor. 13-Golden Text, 1 Cor. xiii., 13 - Memory Verses 1-3-Condensed Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. Love superior to gifts (vs. 1-3). 1. "Though I speak." The objector insists that the cases cited in this and the two following verses could never occur, but this following verses could never occur, but this has nothing to do with the apostie's argument. He does not stop to discuss whether it would or would not be possible for these things to actually take place, but even if it were possible, yet without charity there would be no profit. "Tongues," etc. That is, though I were able to speak all the languages spoken upon earth, and with the eloquence of angels, and though I have the gift of tongues bestowed by the Spirit at Pentecost. "But have not love." That love to God and man which is shed abroad in the regenerated and sanctified soul by in the regenerated and sanctified soul by the Holy Ghost (Rom. 5: 5). Love is a word as impossible to define as it is impossible to define life. "As sounding brass." No better than the sounding instruments of brass used in the worship of some of the heathen gods. "Tinkling cymbal." The cymbals were two pieces of hollow brass, which being struck together made a tinkwhich, being struck together made a tink-ling, but with very little variety of sound.

So the highest eloquence even about the gospel is but an empty sound without the love of God in the heart.

2. "Gift of prophecy." The knowledge of future events, and also ability to speak God's word (chap. 14: 3). "All mysteries." Though I understand the meaning of all the types and figures of the Old Testament, and all the secrets of nature, and the dark things in God's providences. "All tament, and all the secrets of nature, and the dark things in God's providences. "All knowledge." Every human art and science. Mysteries refer to the deep counsels of God heretofore secret, but now revealed to his saints. Knowledge refers to truths long known. "Remove mountains." See Matt. 17: 20; 21: 21. Removing mountains is a phrase used to signify the removing or conquering great difficulties, getting through perplexities. Though 1 had ting through perplexities. Though I had the highest kind of faith and could accomplish the greatest possible results. "But have not love." Notice that Paul does not assert that one could have these things without love, but says "if" he could. "I am nothing." Nothing in myself, nothing in the sight of God, nothing in the church and good for nothing to manking.

3. "All my goods." Though I distribute them piece by piece with the greatest care. "Body to be burned." Men will fight for Christianity, or die for Christianity, who will not live its spirit, which is love. Without the soul God rejects all else, and so rejects the man, who is therefore profited nothing.

rejects the man, who is therefore profited nothing.

II. "The qualities of love (vs. 4-7). 4. "Love." Fifteen characteristics are here pointed out. It cannot be defined. The greatest minds can only describe it by its qualities and results. "Suffereth long." This is the negative side of love. It suffers all the weakness, ignorance, errors and infirmities of the children of God, and all the malice and wickedness of the children of the world, not only for a time, but to the end. "Is kind." This is the positive side. It is mild, gentle, inspiring the sufferer at once with the most amiable sweetness and the most fervent and tender affection. "Envert not." Has no ill will; does not partake of that disposition which is a mingling of hatred and jealousy and covetousness. Love envies not the advantages, gifts or graces which others possess, tages, gifts or graces which others possess, tages, gitts or graces which others possess, but rather takes pleasure in them, and enjoys or shares them as its own.

5. "Unseemly." Unbecomingly, haughtily. "Seeketh not her own." Love is an utter enemy to selfishness. Charity never seeks its own to the hurt of others, or with the neglect of others, but prefers their welfare to its own. "Is not easily provided." But "easily" does not aware. their welfare to its own. "Is not easily provoked." But "easily" does not appear in the Revised Version. It is not in the original. True love "is not provoked." Is not irritated or made sour or bitter. There is power in the blood of Christ to cleanse the heart of all unholy tempers. "Thinketh no evil." "Taketh not account of evil."

"Rejoiceth not in unrighteousness." 6. "Rejoiceth not in unrighteousness." It is not love, but its opposite that rejoiceth in the downfall or injury or disgrace of others, and in the triumph of wickedness. "But—in the truth." In the victory of truth in the earth. "The truth" frequently means "the gospel." Love joys in the triumph of virtue and is glad when the gospel is extended, even though it be through rivals or enemies. See Phil. 1: 15-18.

7. "Beareth." Reproaches and hard-ships; or covereth the failings of others. "Believeth." "Is ever ready to believe the best of every person, and will credit no evil of any but on the most positive evi-dence." "Hopeth." Hope is desire, mingled with expectation. "Endureth." Accepts everything as from the Lord; faithful under all circumstances.

with expectation. "Endureth." Accepts everything as from the Lord; faithful under all circumstances.

III. Love enduring and abiding (vs. 8-13). 8. "Never faileth." It is eternal in its very nature and must endure as long as God endures, for God is love. "Prophesies." The gift of prophecy "shall be done away." The revelation given by God to the church being completed the gifts of prophecy will be no longer needed. And then, too, the time will come when the prophecies will be "done away." because fulfilled, and no longer of any value to us. "Tongues." (1) Speaking with tongues will be no longer necessary and will cease, and (2) the many languages of earth will be lost in the one universal language of heaven. "Knowledge." Shall be brought to an end because but partial and incomplete.

9-11. "In part." God reserves for His children a knowledge far superior to what He has revealed to them here. Their greatest discoveries in nature and grace are only the beginning of better things. "Perfect" The state of eternal blessedness. "A child." "Paul uses this as an illustration. The present state is a state of lustration. The present state is a state of childhood; the future that of manhood. Such is the difference between earth and heaven.

12. "For now." In this present life.
"In a mirror, darkly." Ancient mirrors were not made of glass, but of polished metal, and the reflections were very obscure and imperfect. "Then." In the life to come. "Shall I know." That scure and imperfect. "Then." In the life to come. "Shall I know." That is, there will be a thorough, complete knowledge, as the original wordesignifies. Mysteries will no longer trouble as.

13. "Now abideth." Amid things changeable and perishing the Christian retains these principal saving graces both here and hereafter. "Faith." "The vision of the unseen (Heb. 11: 1), with its consequent trust in God." "Hope." The expectation of future good. Faith and hope will be stronger and more complete in the next world than in this. "That our happy state will continue forever we shall know simply because God has promised it, that it, by a faith similar to our present belief in the gospel." "Greatest—is love." Greatest in extent, in endurance, in manifestation. Greatest because without love the others would profit nothing.

Longest Steel Shaving.

The longest steel shaving ever turned came from the works of an English electrical company, measuring 237 feet. This shaving, which is said to have hung on the walls of the company's works for several years, was recently accidentally broken. At Birmingham steel shavings 200 feet long have been known from time to time.

A Recent Development.

The latest Parisian development of ping-portg consists in substituting for the ball a light feather made of collodion, and for the racquets rods or wands electrified by friction. feather is first thrown into the air between the two players, where it temporarily remains by virtue of its ightness. The game consists in driving it backwards and forwards, not by orce, as in ping-pong, but by the repellent action of the wands, which are previously electrified for the purpose by an energetic rubbing.
