

TRYING TRACY TACTICS

Holding Up Farmers in Illinois and Missouri.

SHERIFFS POSSES IN LIVELY CHASE.

Two Men Who Robbed a Bank at Union, Mo., Threatened to Murder Farmers' Wives and Children Unless They Give Them Food—Officers Locate Them at Richview, but they Get Away.

St. Louis, Mo. (Special).—William Rudolph and Frank Lewis, the Union, Mo., bank robbers, who were located in a cabin near Richview, Ill., have again escaped, and possess of citizens in addition to that of Sheriff Howe are being formed to pursue and capture them if possible. The entire community is in arms.

According to reports from communities through which the robbers have passed they have adopted Tracy tactics, intimidating farmers and threatening to kill pursuers. The two men converse only with women and children, from whom all the details concerning them have been learned, except the general description given by a hunter who encountered them in the woods Friday.

They approach a farmhouse and, standing some distance away, call loudly until someone makes their appearance. If it is a man, they keep on talking to him until he comes up closer, and then they throw their rifles down on him and order him to leave the premises. Like Tracy, they accompany this order with a threat to massacre the entire family if any attempt is made to summon help. In this way they have obtained food.

At one farmhouse they found the farmer's wife and children alone. They ordered her to get breakfast, and chatted freely while she was cooking the meal. All questions concerning themselves they parried. The man supposed to be Rudolph stood on guard while the other ate, and Lewis then acted as picket.

MUST WAIT THE LIMIT.

Demands Immediate Payment of Venezuela—Bowen Refuses.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The German government, through its representative here, Baron Spec von Sternberg, has made a request of Mr. Bowen for the immediate payment of the £5500 which it was stipulated in the protocol signed on February 13 should be paid within 30 days from that date as a preliminary to the raising of the blockade against Venezuelan ports and the agreement to send the question of preferential treatment of the blockading nations to The Hague for determination.

Mr. Bowen promptly declined to accede to the request, but informed Baron Sternberg that, as provided in the protocol, the money would be paid to the German representative at Caracas 30 days from February 13, which would be on March 15.

The reason that animated the German government in making the request is not disclosed here, nor is Mr. Bowen aware of it. The matter, however, has some significance, perhaps, in view of the fact that the ships taken by the Germans during the blockade have not yet been returned to Venezuela.

During the day Mr. Bowen had calls from the French ambassador, M. Jusserand; the Spanish minister, Senor Ojeda, and the Belgian minister, Baron Moncheur, in regard to the protocols that are in preparation for the settlement of the claims of the citizens of their countries against Venezuela. Rough drafts of these instruments are already on their way by mail to the European government's interested, but there are certain provisions regarding them about which the envoys desired to consult Mr. Bowen. The protocols are expected to reach their destinations the latter part of this week, pending which no final steps for their joint signature can be taken.

All the victories recently claimed by the Venezuelan government are, according to the advices which have been received here, absolutely false.

SCOOPED IN MILLIONS

How the Turf Tipsters Gullied the Public.

A TRACK "TOUT" THAT STARTED IT.

Jack Sheehan Sold Three Winners for Ten Cents on the Long Island Race Trains—The Originator of a Scheme That Has Been Worked by Sharpers on a Gigantic Scale All Over the Country.

New York, D. C. (Special).—Conservative racing men estimate that $200,000,000 has been garnered from a gullible public during the past two years by the get-rich-quick turf tipsters and "Racing Commissioners," who are now being raided by the police in all the big cities from New York to San Francisco.

Jack Sheehan, a race-track "tout," who six years ago started in by selling three winners for ten cents on the Long Island race trains, was the originator of the general scheme, which has since developed and grown to such great proportions.

The idea, born in his active brain, developed into the great concerns which took in millions, where he had accepted dimes, and which sought out their victims in every nook and corner of all the States in the Union.

The uprising of the public against these so-called speculators and the publicity given their peculiar methods have in a very brief time scattered them to the winds. Those who have not been forced out of existence by the police have rushed to cover. It seems likely that the "turf speculator" and his get-rich-quick circulars will be wanting.

To such men as William C. Whitney, August Belmont, James R. Keene and J. G. Follansbee, all lovers of clean racing, is due the credit of cleansing the turf of these people, for it was the action of the Coney Island Jockey Club in refusing the entry of Gold Heels in the Suburban that first directed attention to the owners—the E. J. Arnold Co., of St. Louis. With the downfall of this concern the war against all of them began.

The cablegram is as follows:

Port of Spain, February 21, 1903. Minister Bowen, Washington: All prizes returned by Germany and Italy. Use kind influence with England. Nearly all prizes belong to poor fishermen, who have lost all and are penniless here.

(Signed) PRIZE SUFFERERS, TRINIDAD. Minister Bowen sent a copy of the cablegram to Sir Michael Herbert, the British ambassador, requesting him to transmit it to his government, at his earliest convenience.

It was about to pull out from the water tank, when the passenger train, consisting of a combination baggage car and four Pullman cars, rounded a curve and crashed into the locomotive of the freight. All the men on the locomotives, except Engineer Lake, of the passenger train, were crushed under the wreck of the locomotive. Lake escaped uninjured. The combination baggage and baggage car was wrecked and crowded from the rails, killing brakeman Crock. The sleeping cars held to the rails, and the occupants were uninjured.

He said a large proportion of the bill has been more wisely and appropriately treated in legislation recently enacted. BOY AND 7 GIRLS KILLED

Lackawanna Fast Express Cuts Newark Trolley in Two.

MAIMED SCHOOL CHILDREN IN SNOW.

Brakes Failed on a Dangerous Grade and Allowed Crowded Car to Slip Down the Hill on the Icy Rails in Front of the Oncoming Train—Twenty Were Severely Injured.

Newark, N. J. (Special).—A fast express on the Lackawanna railroad cut through a trolley car crowded with school children at the Clifton avenue crossing. Eight children were killed and a score or more of them injured. The motorman of the car, who stuck to his post, will die, and the engineer of the express was so badly hurt that there is little hope of his recovery.

Both the express and the trolley were on steep grades, going at right angles. The express was signaled and the crossing gates were lowered while the trolley car was half way down the hill. The motorman shut off the power and applied the brakes, but almost immediately the car began to slip along the icy rails. It gained tremendous momentum and at the bottom of the hill crashed through the gates directly in the track of the oncoming train. The locomotive plowed its way through the trolley, throwing the children in every direction.

The accident happened within three blocks of the High School building, and in the car at the time were nearly 100 pupils. As many as thirty others had managed to throw themselves from the car before the crash came. The trolley was one of the specials which every day bring the children to school. It had more than its ordinary load owing to the cold. It contained every child that could squeeze inside, and others stood on the rear platform.

Peter Brady, the motorman, promptly shut off the power and applied the brakes. The speed of the car was checked, but it continued to move slowly down the incline. There was no thought of danger. Then it began to move faster and faster. The ice covered rails afforded no hold for the wheels, and although Brady jammed his brake harder and then swung on the reverse, the momentum of the car grew at every yard, and the car shot down toward the railroad. When it was right at the gates the express thundered into view.

Warned by the cries of those afoot and by their own sense of danger those on the platforms began to throw themselves off into the snow, and as the car sped along the few remaining feet toward the rails, perhaps one-third escaped death or injury in this way, but there was no time for those within the car to do more than crush toward the rear door. The gates were swept aside like toothpicks, and before the cracking of the gates died out the air was filled with frantic cries of those who saw death dashing down upon them.

The wreck of the trolley car was complete. The pilot of the engine struck it almost amidships and turned it partly around, and then the ponderous engine cut it in two. The upper part of the trolley was reduced to fragments under the drivers of the locomotive. One-half of the car was thrown to one side and lay on the tracks. The other section was hurled some distance away. In every direction lay the injured and dead. The engine was brought to a standstill and from the train and from nearby houses men rushed to the rescue. The spectacle was appalling, and many who started to work had to give up unerved.

NO RIGHT TO INTIMIDATE.

Labor Leader on the Rights of the Union—Strike Without Lawlessness.

Boston, Mass. (Special).—A winter series of lectures on economic questions, under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club, was brought to a close here by an address on "Strikes," by E. E. Clark, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., a member of the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission. Mr. Clark is the representative of organized labor on the commission. In his address he defended the union and the right to strike in support of a demand for better conditions.

He said, however, that all such conflicts must be conducted with a proper respect for the law. "If organized labor cannot work out its salvation without resorting to unlawful acts," he declared, "its existence cannot be defended."

In the course of his address Mr. Clark said: "If by divine right some are given charge of many and great interests, it is not that they may exalt themselves above all men and reap great personal profit and reward, but that they may, by the exercise of the talents intrusted to them and the opportunities given to them work out the will of the Master by elevating and improving the condition of mankind."

"It should be done by encouraging order, industry, thrift and self-reliance. There are certain rights of property and of personal liberty which must be recognized and defended and protected. The worker has a right to quit or to strike in conjunction with his fellows. He has neither right nor license to destroy or damage the property of the employer. Neither has he any right or license to intimidate or use violence against the man who chooses to exercise his right to work."

"If the employer rids himself of the service of an employe either by dismissal or by filling the place where he struck or quit the employer has no right, legal or moral, to hamper or defeat that man's efforts to earn a living in the service of another employe by secretly blacklisting him."

"The employer who uses the blacklist cannot be heard to complain that the employe uses the boycott. And the employe who uses the boycott beyond the exercise of his own free will to trade where he chooses cannot be heard to complain that the employer uses the blacklist."
