DESCRIPTION OF PENN'S CAVE

DESCRIPTION OF PENN'S CAVE

Penn's Cave is a heartiful summer resort, situ-ated three miles from Spring Mills, on the Lewis-burg and Tyrone railroad. The Cave itself is a subterranean cavern fully one-fourth mile in length, the interior of which surpasses descrip-tion. The walls and ceiling are decorated with myriads of stalactites, and the projecting irregu-lar rocks are studded with stalagmites. Penn's Creek which empties into the west branch of the Susquehanna river below Sunbury, rises at the mouth of the Cave. The crystal, pure water flows through the Cave and can be navigated by a boat, carrying from twenty-five to forty pas-sengers, the entire length of the Cave. The Cave and abruptly, the outlet being only large enough to carry away the water. The entrance of the Cave is gained by descending numerous easy steps. The Cave has been guarded against van-dads ever since its discovery, more than a hun-beauty. Penn's Cave is a beautiful summer resort, situdred years ago, and thus remains in its natural beauty. Penn's Cave Hotel is a frame structure 30x52 ft., three stories in height with twenty-five rooms: kitchen, 16x24 feet; stable, 35x55 feet. The build-ings stand immediately over the Cave. The location is strictly rural; the climate is all that could be desired; hunting and fishing nearby. This property will be sold at a price that should enlist the interest of speculators. It is peculiarly suited for a well-appointed summer resort, a gentleman's place or home for a club. The tract contains six acres of land, and is so situated to give every needed access to the cave proper. The description is not adequate. The place must be seen to be appreciated. The property to be paid on confirmation of sale, one-third in one year, and the balance in two years, with interest, the deferred payments to be secured by bond and mortgage on the premises. Body of Missing Man Found.

The body of L. A. Clinger, Adams Express agent, who has been missing from Milton for a week, was found Thursday evening of last week a mile west of that place, by some men who were gathering driftwood. The body lay near a log on which the head of the dead man rested. Decomposition had progressed so far that the remains could only be identified by a tooth filled with gold, and a pair of eye glasses. The remains were buried Friday evening. Deceased had been express agent at Milton for twenty years and was a popular citizen. He is survived by five children, all grown up. One of his children is Mrs. J. A. Winegardner, whose husband fires on the Lewisburg passenger train.
